New England Half Prepared For Hurricane

Gerda Moves Into Coastal Areas With Winds of 100 m.p.h.

BOSTON (AP) — Hurricane Gerda, a fast-moving storm born almost overnight off the South Atlantic coast, slammed into southeastern New England today, catching the region only half prepared.

The storm bore down first on picturesque Cape Cod, and next was to turn its fury on eastern Maine.

Gerda developed on such short notice and traveled so quickly that officials feared property damage would be extremely heavy.

"We just can't move fast enough," said one police officer in Hyannis, on Cape Cod. "We're moving families into the school, and they're having to leave windows unboarded and everything because there just doesn't seem to be time. . .And they haven't got all the boats in either."

Strikes at Noon

Hundreds of pleasure boats were anchored in the coves and harbors that dot the region's weathered shoreline, and Gerda's 90-100-mile-per-hour winds were expected to be especially destructive with them.

The storm left little untouched. Foam - flecked seas began tearing at the Cape's exposed southern beaches around noon, eating away tons of sand.

Trees bent under the strain of the wind, and power and telephone outages developed as branches tore loose and sliced lines.

Gerda was trundling northnortheastward at 40 m.p.h., unusually fast for a hurricane.

The Weathr Bureau said the storm's brush with land would do little to diminish its fury.

The position of its center at noon (EDT) was about 50 miles south-southeast of Block Island, R.I., or near latitude 40.5 north and longitude 71.2 west.

Earlier in the day, urgency cloaked coastal communities as residents tried to brace for Gerda.

"It's coming mighty fast," a Weather Bureau official said. "We've only had a few hours. It could be treacherous."

150 Boats at Sea

So quickly did the storm develop, in fact, that at least 150 fishing boats from southeastern New England ports were reported caught at sea.

A Coast Guard official said most probably would be able to ride out the storm safely.

"But it'll be rough," he added.

Hurricane warnings extended from Block Island, R.I., northward to Eastport, Maine. Gale warnings were up for most of the rest of the Northeast coast.

The Weather Bureau warned that flooding was likely along the shoreline, and added that it probably would be "major" on the cape.

Similar warnings were issued

Israel Claims Sneak Raids Inside Egypt

Air, Ground Attack Launched

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli aircraft and armored units thrust into Egypt across the Gulf of Suez today in a raid on Egyptian army positions, the Israeli army announced.

It was the biggest action reported on the Egyptian-Israeli front since the 1967 Middle East war.

The 10-hour operation ranged over a 30-mile stretch of the Egyptian shore, a military spokesman reported.

One Israeli plane was lost and the pilot parachuted into the Gulf of Suez, he said.

In Cairo, the military command reported Israeli planes tried to raid Egyptian territory in the Gulf of Suez area but made no reference to a ground attack. It said antiaircraft gunners engaged the Israeli planes, which were trying to attack Egyptian coastal observation positions.

The attack began at 2 a.m., and lasted until noon, the Israeli spokesman continued.

The Israelis used naval vessels to take their armor across the 25-mile-wide gulf.

He listed Israeli casualties as one soldier wounded and claimed dozens of Egyptian soldiers were killed or wounded and "heavy damage caused" to Egyptian equipment.

Hit Soviet Missiles

The planes bombed and strafed artillery batteries and units of the Soviet-built surface to air—SAM—missiles, he said.

The action raged between El Hasayer and Ras Za' Farana, 60 miles south of the port of Suez at the southern end of the Suez Canal.

The raid came on the heels of a sea battle in the same general area Monday. In that engagement, Israel claimed to have sunk two Egyptian torpedo boats Cairo said one Egyptian boat was hit but not sunk and asserted the Egyptians sank an Israeli vessel.

In the latest raid, the Israelis claimed to have destroyed army bases and encampments, vehicles, radar stations and buildings.

No Resistance

The Egyptians put up no air or sea resistance, the spokesman said. The raid came after what the spokesman called continued and initiated Egyptian aggression.

This was the biggest attack by Israel on any Arab power since the raid into Jordan in March 1968, when Israeli forces hit an Arab commando base at Karameh. This day-long action, also supported by tanks and planes, killed more than 120 guerrillas, the Israelis claimed then

Some quarters in Tel Aviv thought there might be a connection between the raid on Egyptian army installations and the sea battle Monday.

A spokesman in Tel Aviv said Israeli commandos attacked the Egyptian boats in the Gulf of Suez near Ras Sadat, an Egyptian torpedo base 12 miles south of the Suez Canal Three of the Israelis were killed in a "technical mishap" aboard their vessel as they returned to their base, the spokesman said.

Cairo said only that an Egyptian patrol sank an Israeli boat during a naval encounter 12 miles east of the city of Suez. It reported one crewman of an Egyptian boat was injured.

Dirksen's Body in Capitol

Nixon Delivers Eulogy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of Everett McKinley Dirksen lay in state today in the majestic rotunda of the Capitol where he had become one of the century's most powerful congressional leaders.

The rose-blanketed casket of the colorful Senate Republican leader, who died Sunday at 73, rested on a historic black catafalque—the same bier that bore the body of his hero and fellow Illinoisan, Abraham Lincoln, more than a century ago.

President Nixon, who had served with Dirksen in both the House and Senate, eulogized the famed Republican as "the common property of all the 50 states" who "put his nation before himself and before his party."

"A Politician"

Nixon, paying tribute to Dirksen's 32 years of public service, called him "a politician in the finest sense of that word."

Dirksen's widow, Louella, composed, looked on during the simple, civilian service. There was no music, no flag—only the seal of the Senate resting atop the casket.

Senators, representatives, Cabinet members and ambassadors filled the cavernous rotunda, midway between the two bodies of Congress in which Dirksen had served, for the tribute before the chamber was opened for 24 hours of public viewing.

Dirksen, the President said, "had a hand in shaping almost every important law that affects our life."

Lauding Dirksen's skill as a politician, Nixon went on:

"A politician knows that more important than the bill that is proposed is the bill that is passed . . . A politician knows that words are his weapons, but that his word is his bond. A politician knows that the best way to be a winner is to make the other side feel it does not have to be a loser.

"Everett Dirksen added a grace and eloquence and courtliness to the word 'politician.' That is how he became leader of the minority."

While Dirksen never became president, Nixon continued, his impact on the nation was greater than that of most presidents.

As a senator, Nixon said, Dirksen was a man to be remembered like Daniel Webster and John C. Calhoun. As an orator, he was in a class with William Jennings Bryan and Winston Churchill.

"He cultivated an appearance that made him seem old-fashioned," the President said, "but his character was as modern as Saturn V."

"We who were privileged to be his friends," he concluded, "can take comfort in the fact that Everett Dirksen, in the late evening of his life . . . could look back upon his life and say: 'The day indeed has been splendid.'"

Nixon spoke quietly, almost informally, for nearly 10 minutes. Then he turned to grasp the hand of Mrs. Dirksen and listen to the response by Dirksen's son-in-law, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

Public Tribute

After the benediction by the Senate chaplain, the Rev L. R. Elson, Nixon escorted Mrs Dirksen from the rotunda. Soon the rotunda was to be opened for public tribute before funeral services Wednesday and burial Thursday in Illinois.

Burial in Illinois

The senator's family has accepted the President's offer of his personal plane—Air Force One—to fly them and the senator's body to burial services Thursday at Pekin, Dirksen's small-town birthplace on the Illinois prairie

However, Nixon will not attend the burial, sending Vice President Spiro T. Agnew instead.

Quietly, Republicans Begin Searching for a Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans now anticipate a wide-open contest—with the White House likely to take an active role—for the Senate leader's job left vacant by Everett M. Dirksen's death.

At least five GOP senators, and possibly more, are rated prospective candidates.

For the moment, and probably for the remainder of this Dirksen funeral week, no Republican senator is willing to talk frankly and publicly about the looming leadership race.

"Shouldn't Take Long"

GOP sources indicated the prospective senators to succeed Dirksen are likely to wait, taking their own soundings of support, before deciding whether to openly enter the competition.

Although one senator said, "It shouldn't take too long to contact 43 Republicans," indications are even the contact work won't begin immediately.

One Republican considering running for the job said with Dirksen's funeral planned Wednesday, such an effort at sampling support would seem out of place.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, now acting Republican leader, refused to discuss his possible candidacy to win the job permanently. "My responsibility is just to carry on until other arrangements are made," he said.

Those arrangements will be made at a conference of Republican senators, not yet scheduled, to vote on Dirksen's successor.

The liberal Republican Scott is certain to face a conservative challenge if, as expected, he bids for the top GOP job.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska and Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado are rated prime prospects among the more conservative Republicans. Sen. John Tower of Texas said he would be available but did not expect to be summoned to the task

GOP sources said the White House certainly would be interested and involved in the Senate situation. One Republican said the administration would probably side with the more conservative wing of the party

Possible Compromise

Sen. James B. Pearson of Kansas, known to be interested in the leadership, is regarded as a possible compromise candidate. He is not closely identified with either wing of the party.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan is another man in the middle category. Griffin, however, has been in the Senate for only three years, and is regarded as a longshot possibility.

One senior Republican said he anticipated conservatives would join forces behind a single candidate, probably either Allott or Hruska, to avoid splintering their votes in a contest with Scott

Kiesinger Says:

U.S. 'Must' Stay Strong In W. Europe

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancelor Kurt-George Kiesinger said today that Western Europe must look indefinitely to the nuclear and conventional might of the United States for protection.

"Europe will not be able to do without the protection of American weapons—conventional as well as atomic—for an indefinite period," the West German government chief said in response to a series of written questions from The Associated Press.

The chancellor observed that a large-scale reduction of the American presence in Europe "would be of considerable consequences" and not for West Germany only.

Increased Costs

The burden of European defense costs would rise considerably if the United States greatly reduced its contribution in men and funds. Asked if West Germany would be willing to bear such increased defense costs, Kiesinger replied

"The political unification of Europe is the answer to your question. European and American members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization must jointly develop a long-range concept that excludes dangerous risks to the security of all members of the alliance."

He indicated that he thinks President Nixon is going along with a stand Kiesinger has already made public, that America should lead, not dominate, Europe. Asked which he thought the United States was doing, Kiesinger replied.

"The American President shares my view and his policies are in accord with our mutual conviction."

Bundestag Elections

Turning to domestic politics, the leader of the Christian Democratic Party said it was "by no means certain" that the NPD, the ultra-nationalist National Democratic Party, will win its first seats in the Bundestag in the national elections Sept. 28.

If the NPD does get into the lower house of parliament, Kiesinger continued, "I am of the opinion that we will be able to cope with the NPD without difficulty as far as internal politics are concerned.

"It is a different matter with

Hope Lull Can Continue

American GIs 'Not Looking for Fights'

SAIGON (AP) — American forces probably will continue to curtail their offensive operations if the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese maintain their present low level of activity after the truce for the funeral of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh ends Thursday, U.S. sources said today.

"We want to keep the negotiating door open," said one ranking officer. "We're not looking for fights. We're just trying to provide an atmosphere for pacification and security, and if the other side decides to keep things secure, we couldn't be happier."

Only light action was reported across South Vietnam today in the second day of the truce. But U.S. officials considered it most unlikely that the enemy would continue the cease-fire long after the announced expiration time.

The U.S. Command said that since the Viet Cong cease-fire began at 1 a.m. Monday, the enemy had made 10 significant attacks on American forces. U.S. casualties in these actions were put at four killed and 29 wounded, while two enemy were known dead

South Vietnamese headquarters said that between 1 a.m. Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday, there were 26 "enemy-initiated incidents aimed at South Vietnamese units and civilians." It said 34 South Vietnamese had been killed in these actions and 60 wounded.

The Saigon government said its air force had flown 60 sorties in the past 24 hours, while its ground troops conducted 57 operations of battalion size or larger. A spokesman said all of the operations were not offensive in scope.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu had announced on Sunday that his army would not observe the cease-fire, but U.S. officials under pressure from Washington prevailed on him Monday to join in an undeclared truce. The American and South Vietnamese commands said in a joint communique that their military operations would be scaled in accordance with the enemy's.

Florida Governor Joins Opponents of Jet Port

Support Seen as Saving Everglades National Park at Least for Time Being

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — With maverick Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida quietly joining top officials of the interior department in opposition, the giant jetport planned for southern Florida probably will be limited to a training facility — lifting the worst threat ever to the Everglades National Park.

Republican Kirk will meet

Evans

soon with Interior Secretary Walter Hickel and Transportation Secretary John Volpe. A conservationist himself, Kirk will inform the cabinet members that he will insist on selecting an alternative site in Florida for the southeastern U. S. terminus capable of handling jumbo jets and eventually the supersonic transport.

This position by Kirk is absolutely indispensable to limit the Everglades jetport to a training facility (one runway has been completed), relieving Miami's overcrowded international airport.

If the governor had sided with the Dade County (Miami) Port Authority (which has control over the jetport), Interior Department conservationists probably could not have stopped its full development.

Construction started during the Johnson administration when the transportation department gave the jetport a green light. President Johnson's secretary of the interior — Stewart Udall, a noted conservationist — did nothing to stop the menace to an irreplaceable natural resource.

Ordered Study

But when Hickel and Under Secretary Russell Train took over at interior last January, they ordered an immediate study of the jetport's effect on the Everglades Park.

A 127-page report, now under study in top-levels of the government, has just been completed by the interior department. It concludes that, even if the jetport is limited to a mere training center, it would discharge 10,000 gallons of sewage every day. But, the report adds, damage to the park could be prevented by culverts. By contrast, as a full-scale cargo and passenger terminal, the jetport and its satellite city would manufacture 4 million tons of wastes every day. That would spell the beginning of the end for the Everglades Park.

Although transportation department bureaucrats are pro-jetport, an interior-vs.-transportation showdown inside the government has been averted by Secretary Volpe. He is deeply concerned and appears ready to approve the cutback to a training facility. Despite Kirk's position, economic interests backing the jetport won't yield easily.

SBA Dumping Ground

In the wake of severe internal difficulties and rising congressional criticism afflicting the Small Business Administration (SBA), the White House is using the agency as a dumping ground for a protege of Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans who had botched up one high federal job.

He is Donald W. Brewer, fresh from a catastrophic tour as federal administrator of the Four Corners Regional Economic Development Commission covering Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Arizona. To the unbelieving horror of Republicans who had hoped for better things at SBA, Brewer was extricated from this mess to become SBA's deputy administrator. It suggests that President Nixon does not take the SBA crisis seriously.

Brewer performed admirably as a fund-raiser under Stans for the Nixon presidential campaign. But his conduct as a federal boss of the Four Corners Commission was something less.

As one of the four governors, a Republican, told us: "He came in here like a little dictator, trying to order us around like his servants and always claiming he had the backing of Stans."

Brewer, for example, attempted to move the headquarters of the agency from Farmington, N. M., to Denver, Colo., where he and his family live, even though Denver isn't in the Four Corners area. When Govs. David Cargo (R.) of New Mexico, Jack Williams (R.), of Arizona, and Calvin Rampton (D.) of Utah flatly refused, Brewer did the next best thing. He moved seven members of the Four Corners staff from its Washington office to Denver. That gave him a pretext to stay in Denver and avoided the unwanted family move to Farmington.

In addition, Brewer produced a letter signed by Stans directing him to move the headquarters to Denver. Appalled, the governors just laughed. Instead, they made it clear that a new federal administrator was far more necessary than a new headquarters. With that backdrop, it's no wonder the governors insisted Brewer be eased out of his job.

Sorensen & Moyers

The first choice of Theodore Sorensen, John F. Kennedy's top domestic aide, to run his uphill campaign for the senate from New York was one of his successors in the White House: Bill D. Moyers, the most important presidential aide in the early Johnson years.

Moyers, now publisher of Newsday on Long Island, said no, explaining that newspapering and politics don't mix. Moreover, Moyers's friends feel that when the day comes for him to leave the newspaper business to enter politics he will leave as a candidate, not a campaign manager.

Financial Aid Program

Student Loan Fund Created by Regents

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A special student loan fund and deferred fees for financially-pressed students have been voted by the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents.

The regents approved moves last week to create a $100,000 loan fund for qualified students who are unable to find adequate financial assistance from other sources because of the delay in passage of a federal aid bill and because of high interest rates and tight money in the commercial market

The action, which involves selling UW trust fund-held stocks, came at the suggestion of Mrs. Howard Sandin of Ashland, a UW regent

Federal Loans

She asked that the special fund be created to serve until the passage of the federal guaranteed loan fund bill, expected this fall.

The deferred payment plan would allow 300 students on the Madison campus to delay paying two-thirds of their tuition until the end of the first semester

Primarily affected by both actions will be out-of-state students because the recently enacted state budget doubles the in-state student loan fund to a $40 million level.

The Green Bay and Parkside campuses do not need emergency nonresident aids, the board was told

Unorientation Issue

Its editors recently turned a traditional new student issue into an "unorientation" issue, telling new students what the editors feel is wrong with the UW

The issue was mailed over UW objections, but only after one obscene word was blotted out and reference to seeming UW backing for the issue was deleted

Regent Bernard Ziegler of West Bend termed the edition "the worst journalism I've ever seen."

But he cautioned the regents that they could not attempt to censor the paper which claims to be independent of the school.

No Legal Action

Walter Renk of Sun Prairie failed to win backing for possible legal action to force the paper to stop calling itself the "official" student newspaper of the campus.

The regents were told by the administration of the school that The Cardinal has been billed for rent in the first application of a regent decision made last spring.

The board also approved a hike in ticket prices for most intercollegiate sports to cover the new state general sales tax. Football prices were not affected.

Prepared Hands Test Students

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The average bridge player has a tendency to take his high cards as quickly as possible. After he has taken what lies on the surface of a hand, he can think about digging deeper for the tricks that lie hidden. The weakness of this policy is shown in a hand played in one of the annual Intercollegiate Championships.

Most of the college students who help the South cards got to a contract of three notrump.

Opening lead — ♡ 4

The normal opening lead was a heart, won by the queen. South had to play for dummy's clubs to make his contract, and this gave both sides a chance to show what they knew about taking high cards quickly.

If South led a low club to dummy's king (or queen), he could be defeated. East would simply refuse to win the first club.

East would be able to win the next club with the jack, and that would be the end of dummy's long suit. South could reach dummy only once more, with the ace of diamonds, and he could therefore establish the clubs but could never get back to dummy to cash the long suit.

If South made the mistake of playing the king or queen of clubs on the first round of that suit, East could hand the contract right back by winning with the ace. South could later lead his other club to dummy and give up a third round of clubs, with the ace of diamonds still in dummy as an entry to the good clubs.

The correct play gave the defenders no chance to be heroes or villains. At the second trick South should lead a club and finesse with dummy's nine.

East takes the jack of clubs and can return a heart, but South wins and leads another club. This time declarer plays a high club from dummy to force out the ace. This sets up the rest of the suit, and South gets back to dummy with the ace of diamonds to cash the rest of the clubs.

Now You're In High School

If New Students Have felt a little strange up to now at Appleton High School East, they should lose the feeling Saturday night when they see the signs which greet them at the Soph Welcome Dance.

It's Just an Average American Family

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please tell me what is wrong with a woman who, after 12 years of marriage, still asks her husband if he wants mustard or mayonnaise on his ham and cheese sandwich. Also, she cannot seem to remember whether he prefers it on white or rye.

Five years ago I told my wife to ask the dry cleaners not to crease my sleeves. More often than not the suits come back with the sleeves creased. Her excuse: "They must have forgot."

This same woman expects me to remember her birthday, our wedding anniversary, Valentine's Day, Mother's Day and Ground Hog day because that is the day we met.

We argue a lot and get nowhere. What does this sound like to you? — Hal

Dear Hal: The average American family.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in your advice to the woman whose husband thought vacations were for getting drunk. He insisted on trips with the whole family in the car and he wouldn't let anyone else drive. The big jerk started on beer immediately after breakfast and was bombed (at the wheel yet) every day for two weeks.

You suggested that the woman pray for a minor accident — one in which nobody is injured, but one that would teach her beer-guzzler a lesson. For the past six years I've been praying for a major accident — one that would put my husband in the hospital for about six months. He gets smashed at least five nights a week and makes life hell for everybody. I can't remember the last time I had an uninterrupted night's sleep. My husband comes home anywhere from midnight to 4 a.m., cusses, throws furniture and demands that I cook him supper. How he manages to get up in the morning and do a day's work is beyond me.

I don't drink a drop and I'm half dead from exhaustion. I have begged him to get help but he refuses. Once you printed the name of an organization for wives who must live with alcoholics. I clipped it out and misplaced it. Will you print it again please? — Frazzled Nerves

Dear Frazz: The name of the organization is Al-Anon. The national headquarters are in New York. The address is P. O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10010. Write and find out where and when you can attend a meeting. It could change your life and his, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you don't write a health column but you seem to know a little bit about a lot of things. I'll bet you can answer my question

Is it true that eating large quantities of grapefruit will make a person thin, in the same way that eating rich desserts will make a person fat? My friend says it is so and she backs up her statement by explaining that grapefruit is a catabolic food and burns up fat. Right or wrong? — On the Heavy Side

Dear On: Wrong. I know of no food that will make a person thin. If you are "on the heavy side," don't look for gimmicks. See a doctor and get on a sensible diet.

Confidential to Hopeful Pat: Your letter is incomprehensible. What do you really want to know?

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Kenneth Batelle Comes to Appleton

BY MARY WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"He's so down-to-earth!"

"He's not at all what I expected!"

These comments and other words of praise for Kenneth, renowned hairstylist whose clients have included Jackie Onassis and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, would be music to any man in the feminine beauty business.

Considering that most Americans automatically assume male hairdressers, cosmeticians and designers possess high squeaky voices, walk with an odd gait and talk with fluttery gestures, Kenneth had to have more than the average amount of courage to appear Monday afternoon at H. C. Pranges, where he conducted a beauty symposium.

In the moments before he took the floor, Kenneth — whose full name is Kenneth Batelle — looked suave and sophisticated to the openly curious, but inside he was steeling himself against "the enemies." That's how he regards an audience until he has the opportunity to explode a few myths about male hairdressers, he later explained.

The entire process takes a matter of seconds

First there's his perfectly masculine stride, next there's his deep voice, then there's the minimal use of gestures and finally there's his common sense approach to beauty.

If Kenneth thoroughly understands anything after 22 years of styling hair and three years of creating cosmetics, it's people — female people. And once that is established, his listeners become his best allies.

Endearing himself with the candid approach, Kenneth discussed the fads and foibles of fashion and its adherents. The Cleopatra eyes, overpowering hats, doe eyes, silly flower pot hats, Oriental eyes, gigantic bouffant coiffures that were once popular are all symptomatic of the way women often indiscriminately distort rather than tastefully modify a new look to suit their personalities, he noted.

"If I had my way, the first gift a baby girl would receive on her first birthday would be a full length mirror. We need to see the total picture," he emphasized. "A hair style relates not just to the face, but to the length of the neck, the breadth of the shoulders, the whole porportion of a woman. Everyone wants to feel like an individual these days and we all can if we understand ourselves."

Equally important, Kenneth added, is understanding that fashion today is not conforming to a particular shape or look, but projecting individuality through accessories, which include makeup.

"No cosmetics advertising campaign has appealed more than the 'natural look'," commented Kenneth. "Why? Because natural look says 'nothing' and 'it doesn't take long.' "

But as Kenneth pointed out, the women who achieve the natural look may be using as many as 10 products, while those who cling to the outmoded rouge-powder-dark lipstick-and-eyebrow pencil look of 15 years ago are relying on only four or five cosmetics.

"Of course, a woman's favorite excuse for refusing to change is that she doesn't have the time," Kenneth remarked. "Most of them will say, 'Kenneth, you're spoiled. You're used to dealing with rich people all of the time.' But as strange as it may sound, some of the richest people I know have the least time because they're so busy being rich.

"The fact is everyone is busy. But once the art of applying makeup is mastered, a woman can look her best in 15 minutes," said Kenneth.

How can a woman achieve the natural look?

According to Kenneth the final results should be the "clean, shiny, well-scrubbed, healthy look" of youth and individualized beauty. Bright eyeshadows, heavy matte finishes and startling lipsticks, are out; soft pastels, gentle shaping and the translucent look is in.

Basic to achieving the natural look he said is faithfully following a routine of cleansing the skin with soap and water, applying a clarifier or astringent and then moisturing the complexion.

"The most important thing is that these steps are taken every day just like exercising. And don't do things for yourself that are unnecessary. Work with what you have," advised Kenneth. "In 22 years, I've rarely heard a woman say something positive about herself. I suppose advertising is the cause of our negative attitudes about ourselves ... But in the final analysis, the answer is taste, the most ephemeral word of all. And the person who really knows how you look best is you."

Berlitz Course in Baby-Speaking

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Margaret Mead, the anthropologist, is predicting that within a few years men will stay home to mind the children while the mothers go out to work.

It all started, she told a group in New York, during the middle 1940's when men baby-sat their own children and went to school at night on the GI bill while their wives assumed the burden of family support.

According to Dr. Mead, "This will constitute a sexual breakdown." (That's not the only breakdown they'll experience.) Raising kids is not a Minnie Mouse job for amateurs.

First, you have to be able to communicate with your toddlers. We all know when baby says, "No, nu, na, knee" and tops it off with a saliva bubble, he is saying, "Daddy." But what about the other translations that are not so simple to unscramble?

For example, a small child will have 50 or 60 expressions to indicate when he has to use the bathroom. I have been around children who have used such descriptive words as "tinkle, toi toi, potty, john john, head head, can can, stinko and wee wee. (The later is not to be confused with wa wa which is either a cold drink of water or a French horn, depending on the maturity of the child.)

Fathers will also learn children will spend as much as five or six daylight hours standing in front of a kitchen cupboard flexing his fist in and out crying, "Baja . . baja . . baja."

Now, what is baja, you might ask. Good question. Only the child knows for sure, so with painstaking thoroughness you must go through the spices, staples, glassware, bar supplies, cleaning cans, china only through a stroke of luck and small appliances. It is that you discover baja is a yellow crayon that rolled under the freezer. (On some occasions baja has meant he wants the can of chili powder he was sucking on until someone took it away from him.)

The only thing you can count on in a child's vocabulary is that when he says, No, he means, No! Other than that, you have to take one word at a time.

Uncle Dodo is Aunt Mildred. Muck is milk. Ghaspetti is pizza with everything except anchovies. Doggie is a cat, horse, pig, goat or chicken. Bow Wow is a dog. Daddy is anyone in long pants including Uncle Dodo in slacks.

I can't see fathers spending an entire day with a kid who follows him around whining, "Daddy, voola, Daddy, voola." (Which means "Blow up my ballon or I'll suck myself up the sweeper nozzle.")

Child raising is a tough racket. You have to break the "code" before it's too late.

Arizona Woman Attempts To Halt Mining Operation

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Rose Bagley plans to keep the privacy she has found in a secluded area near here—mines or no mines.

Keeping her promise, she politely brought two mining crews to an abrupt halt Monday by telling one of them, "Sorry, no mining today, fellow." And with a double-barreled shotgun and large black dog at her side, the 15 men knew she meant business.

J. R. Simplot Co. has been conducting mining explorations on 1,000 acres south of Tucson. On many occasions, this meant crossing Mrs. Bagley's 13 acres.

"I got 10 acres fenced in," she said. "But when I went to put a gate on the roadway I was served with a summons."

Simplot obtained a restraining order in 1967 forcing the road open to its employes. But Mrs. Bagley insisted Monday that Simplot employes prove they work for the company. Apparently none had enough identification to satisfy her.

Mrs. Bagley said she simply prefers the seclusion of her land purchased in 1965 to the bustle of city life.

Mrs. Rose Bagley wants privacy and she has brought the operations of two mining crews to a halt in her attempts to get it. She sits on a chaise lounge with a double barreled shotgun and a radio by her side and a large black dog in front. She wants to finish fencing her 13 acres in the Washington Camp mining area near Patagonia. A mining company has secured an injunction preventing her from doing this. She's pleasant but firm. (AP Wirephoto)

"All I want to do is live quietly," she said. "I am not a miner. I need the fence because the forest service permits grazing nearby and the cows eat my flowers and trees as fast as I plant them."

Except for miners, she said she had found the quiet she was seeking. In the winter, she and her husband, who is in Iowa for the summer, live in Tucson. Their summer home is on her acreage.

Wigs Go to the Head

Thinking about taking the plunge into the glamorous world of wigs and hairpieces? Before you go off the "deep end," here are some ABC's of wiggery. Terry Pavlik, director of Good Housekeeping's Beauty Clinic, says "no woman should be without at least one different hairdo the easy way." In the magazine's September issue, she answers some of the most-asked questions on wig-buying and wig-care for everyone who is hung-up over a hair piece.

Who needs it? You do — if you like the fun of a "put-on" that can mean instant personality change — if you have a yen for the short hair look, but hate to sacrifice your long sexy locks — if you'd love to go "long hair" but haven't the patience to wait out the straggly growing in stage. Or, if you just need an occasional hairdo "lift" for special events.

Check Fit

Real hair or synthetic? This is a simple matter of what the budget allows. Real European hair wigs start at about $200 plus costs of periodic professional cleaning and setting. When the hair is blended with coarser Oreintal hair, you get the best qualities of both, and it's cheaper. Better quality synthetic wigs can be bought for as little as $25 and upkeep is minimal. The wave or curl is set permantly, and cleaning is do-it-yourself.

How to judge a wig's quality? A good quality real hair wig is painstakingly handmade. The hairs are knotted, a few strands at a time, onto a lightweight base, in a pattern resembling natural hair growth. Before you purchase it, make sure the wig fits comfortably, is close to your own hair in texture and shading, and has good body. Better synthetic wigs are machine-made, with hair attached in strips. Watch out here for overly shiny hair and uneven hairlines.

How to put it on? The look you want is natural, so follow these three steps for a really super natural look. First, secure your own hair by making a number of flat pin curls. (Point bobby pins downward so they can't tear wig base.) Next, put on the wig as you would a bathing cap, hold the front midway on your forehead and pull the ear flaps down over your ears. Then, adjust for comfort.

Anchor Properly

How to keep a "fall" in place? You won't have to worry about losing your fall, if you know how to anchor it properly. Most falls have a striplike base with a comb attached at the front. Make the same pin curls across your front crown, 2 to 4 inches from the hairline, as you would for a wig. Slide the comb under the pin curls and fasten the base securly with extra long bobby pins fore and aft. Then brush into your favorite style and cover the front with a band or braid.

How to carry your "fall" when traveling? Simply hold the hair out straight and roll it around a cardboard tube. Then slip it into your suitcase If you need a quick "set," separate the hair into three hanks, then wind each around a giant roller

How to keep it pretty? Real hair wigs should be cleaned and set professionally. Never wash them! Synthetic ones can be cleaned at home — simply dip them into cool water and special wig shampoo. Between cleanings, manufacturers recommend wig spray to keep your wig neat and shiny.

Useful Terms

Which is which? Miss Pavlik offers this glossary of hairpiece terms to make your "hair hunt" easier:

A fall is a long, swingy sweep of hair, attached at the crown by a small base.

A demi-fall is simply the shorter version.

Wiglets are curls or loops, set on bases, which give added dash to any hairdo.

A switch is a long, versatile hank of hair which can be braided, looped, twisted or wrapped around your head.

Small braids are fashion's current darlings, showing up everywhere, looped around the head, added to other hairpieces, or worn alone for the new small head look.

Small curls, singly or in clusters, can be added anywhere to switch on an all-girl look. And if you want the fun of streaking without permanence, try the new blonde strands, which can be pinned in strategically

The wig is here to stay, says Miss Pavlik. Let it go to your head!

Study Planned On Airport Manager Need

Committee Request For Fulltime Man Draws Criticism

A proposal for hiring a fulltime Outagamie County airport manager drew some criticism Monday afternoon and will be delayed until a study is made of comparable airports.

Expressing doubt on the need for a fulltime man, County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler and Board Vice Chairman Marvin Babbitt contended the airport is not large or busy enough to justify paying the fulltime salary.

However, when asked directly by county board airport committeemen, both county leaders declined to again express total opposition.

Questioned by one committeeman, Esler said: "I wouldn't say because maybe we do."

Study Other Ports

Esler called for a study of other airports by the county board personnel committee before it supported the airport committee recommendation.

Supv. Edward Spierings, Little Chute, reminded Esler and the personnel committeemen that "a great number of the board insisted we come in with it (fulltime managerial position)" a year ago. The airport committee declined to because it lacked office space for a fulltime manager.

Airport Committee Chairman John Dietz, Appleton, also noted the State Division of Aeronautics has told the county it should have a fulltime manager to promote the growth of the airport.

The county board airport committee made a study earlier which showed the Green Bay and Oshkosh airports have less traffic than Outagamie but have fulltime managers, who are paid $12,500 per year.

Babbitt said that compared to the Green Bay airport (Austin Straubel Field), "ours is just a piddle jumper."

"At our airport, you don't need a manager you need a maintenance man," he added.

The personnel committee also will study the need for secretarial help for a fulltime manager.

The airport committee, which has hinted it prefers present part-time manager Charles Olson for the fulltime job, has recommended secretarial help and has been assured office space in the planned Civil Air Patrol building.

Nixon Cutbacks May Hurt Post Office Plan

Federal Spokesman Stresses 'Priorities'

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Construction of Appleton's new $1 million Post Office could be delayed because of President Richard M. Nixon's order to cut back on government construction by 75 per cent, a U.S. Postal Department official revealed today.

The disclosure came from Roger Miller, a Post Office Department spokesman, during the third National Postal Forum. He announced that all postal projects will be reviewed and a priority list established.

Lease Arrangement

Miller pointed out the presidential edict is not only to reduce governmental budget pressure but also to assist the fight against inflation by slowing down demands on the construction trade.

Because of this, he added, Appleton's project will still be subject to the edict even though it is under a lease construction arrangement. The proposed building at Appleton would be constructed by a private contractor and then leased back to the government.

Although the announcement dims Appleton's new post office hopes, there is still hope the current construction schedule still might be met.

Appleton Postmaster Francis Sumnicht, who talked with another postal official at the forum, said he was assured Appleton will be given "every possible consideration" in the priority setting.

C. B. Gels, regional postal director for Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North and South Dakota, told Sumnicht he will be making the recommendations for his four-state area. He added, however, the priority listing may not come out for some time.

Delay Only Temporary

In any event, Sumnicht was assured by Gels the construction delay would only be temporary.

The Appleton postmaster expressed optimism that since the postal department has purchased the site which is immediately north and west of N. Division and W. Franklin streets, it may be given a higher priority.

Also, bids already have been let for the project and are scheduled to be opened Nov. 5, 1969.

The postal department advertised for bids on a building totaling 51,109 square feet of interior, 16,000 of garage and 86,000 of parking area.

Donald Stone, manager of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, said this morning the chamber postal committee would seek clarification of the construction delay message.

Cities Group Begins 'Target Tarr' Drive

Alliance Committee Plans Push on Urban Legislation

Wisconsin's urban leaders today announced plans for a concerted statewide drive — "Target Tarr" — to push for citizen and legislative support for property tax relief and government reform.

The Alliance of Cities, composed of 16 state cities with well over 2 million population, will launch "Target Tarr" at Wausau Friday, according to Appleton Mayor George Buckley

Between now and the convening of the special session of the Legislature on Sept. 29, a task force of mayors and city managers will visit Wausau, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Milwaukee and Madison.

Tax Concern

The objective of "Target Tarr", according to Mayor Wallace Burkee, Kenosha, alliance president, is to demonstrate concern over high property taxes generally and generate immediate legislative support for passage of the Tarr Committee on Local Government Finance and Organization (Tarr Task Force) recommendations.

The 13-member Tarr group was created by the Legislature in May, 1967, headed by Dr. Curtis Tarr, then president of Lawrence University and now an assistant secretary of defense. Its recommendations were hailed by the governor, administration leaders and many legislators. But the Legislature has failed to pass on the Tarr bills and they are holed up in committees, Buckley said

Representatives of Wisconsin's central cities now feel the only solution to the dilemma, which they say exists after passage of the state budget earlier in the month ignored urban needs, is adoption by the Legislature of the Tarr Committee proposals and bills.

"The goal of 'Target Tarr' is to show our deep concern over rising property taxes and stress the need for taxpayer relief through implementation of the Tarr proposals," Burkee declared; "there is no reason why the governor and legislature should put off action of the Tarr bills any longer."

Target Task Force

Comprising the task force for "Target Tarr", which will appear before local government and citizen groups over most of the state, will be Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee; Burkee, president of the Alliance of Cities; Mayor John Kannenberg, Wausau; Mayor William Dyke, Madison; and Mayor Donald Tilleman, Green Bay.

Task force stops include Wausau, Friday; Green Bay, Sept. 15; Eau Claire, Sept. 19; Milwaukee, Sept. 24; and Madison, Sept. 26 — the latter just three days before the Legislature opens its special session.

"Passage of the Tarr proposals would represent the most significant legislation to help meet the urban crisis which has been upon us and is becoming more acute," commented Mayor Maier.

"I consider the Tarr Committee proposals to be the first real breakthrough in meeting headon the urban and property tax crises," Maier added.

He emphasized the need for non-partisan support for the bills.

Meet With Officials

In addition to various public appearances, the Target Tarr group will meet with representatives of all communications media and those who formulate

Bold Daylight Burglary Nets Large Haul

Currency, Jewelry, Coins Taken From Home Near Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — Burglars, working in broad daylight, made off with more than $10,000 worth of coins, currency and jewelry from a Town of Algoma residence Monday morning.

Owner of the house and stolen property, Milton Koch, 2886 Sheldon Drive, has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons involved in the burglary, Winnebago County Police Lt. Wilbur Fuller said today.

Fuller said that Mrs. Koch left the house at 10:15 a.m. and returned at 12:30 p.m. Monday to find that the front door, which she had locked, had been forced open.

Among the items stolen, Fuller said, were a coin collection including 50 coin books, $580 worth of half dollars, $500 in quarters, $500 in dimes and $200 in silver dollars, some $2,000 in $10 and $20 bills, a stamp collection valued by Koch at $7,000 and assorted jewelry.

The total value of all stolen items has not yet been determined, but Fuller did say, "This is a big one." There have been other burglaries in the Fox Valley in recent weeks involving large hauls, notably from the Hugh Moore residence in Neenah and the Oshkosh home of Thomas Schwalm.

Judge's Son Critically Hurt In Vietnam

Thomas Dohr, 19, Wounded in Arm, Right Temple, Nose

The 19-year-old son of Outagamie County Juvenile Court Judge and Mrs. Raymond P. Dohr, 1309 Alicia Drive, Appleton, has been critically wounded in Vietnam fighting, his parents learned this week,

Army Pfc. Thomas Dohr, a 1968 graduate of Xavier High School, received mortar fragmentation wounds Sept. 5 to the right temple and right arm and nose and has been placed on the "very seriously ill list," a Department of Defense telegram informed his parents.

Dohr said his son is being treated in a hospital outside of Saigon, according to sources he contacted in Washington. The sources are seeking information for him but have nothing further at this time on his son's condition, he added.

The soldier, who has been in Vietnam only six weeks, apparently was guarding an artillery position near the Cambodian border about 30 miles northwest of Saigon, Dohr said. He is with the 25th Infantry.

Young Dohr enlisted in the Army seven months ago, his father said.

Buckley Vetoes Pipe Cleaners

Claims Firm Raided City Public Works Department in Past

Mayor George Buckley today made good his promise to veto the city council's hiring of American Pipe Cleaning Services, Minneapolis, to do the annual sewer television inspection.

Buckley apparently is miffed because the firm hired a public works director, an engineer and an office secretary away from the city while on the job here in the past year.

Buckley stated, "If American Pipe Cleaning Services were to be engaged again, they would no doubt continue their personnel raids on our Department of Public Works to the detriment of the daily operations of the city of Appleton."

The proposal made to hire the firm was made to the city council last Wednesday by Ald Norman E. Beyer, chairman of the street and sanitation committee. At the time it was approved by the council, Buckley promised to veto the move.

A three-fourths vote of the council is needed to override a mayoral veto.

Bridge Will be Closed

The Lawe Street bridge over the boat channel will be closed to traffic on Thursday so that concealed areas can be painted. Traffic will have to detour over S. Island Street and E. South River Street that day.

Don't Want Six Lanes

Property Owners Protest Memorial Drive Widening

Some 29 home owners along S Memorial Drive have signed a petition protesting the reconstruction of the boulevard to a six lane highway, and asking instead for repairs and resurfacing of the present four-lane facility.

Ald. George Schwarzbauer (10th), submitted a resolution to the City Plan Commission calling for the city to request the state to develop an alternate plan for the section of Memorial Drive south of the bridge to the city limits.

The plan commission voted to hold the resolution until further information could be collected.

State plans have already been drawn for the widening of the tree-divided boulevard to six lanes Schwarzbauer's resolution requested a plan with four traffic lanes and "also providing left turn lanes and an improved traffic flow with a minimum loss of the boulevard and terrace and with the understanding that all parking will be prohibited after reconstruction"

In the petition, property owners claim they are "in favor of badly needed repairs and resurfacing, also curb and gutter where needed from the Memorial Bridge to south city limits"

The petitioners also claimed that when the proposed bridge across Little Lake Butte des Morts is completed, "traffic on Memorial Drive will be cut at least 40 per cent"

Because Memorial Drive is a state highway, the petitioners also said that repair costs for the street should be born by the state and the city of Appleton, and because it is "not improvement but repair work, and as such property owners of Memorial Drive do not feel any reason to pay costs involved in said repairs."

Kaukauna Youth Is Committed to School at Wales

A 17-year-old Kaukauna youth who ran away from home eight times, and stole money and a car from his parents, was ordered sent to the State School for Boys at Wales Monday

Acting Juvenile Court Judge Nick F Schaefer placed the boy under the custody of the State Department of Health and Social Services until he is 21 years old. The boy was represented by an attorney

A petition prepared by the Outagamie County Department of Social Services stated that he had run away to Topeka, Kan., Balsam Lake, Wis., and Fairfax, Okla., within the past year.

He ran away and spent several days in the company of a 14-year-old girl on several occasions.

On March 24, according to authorities he stole $70 from his parents, took their car, and went to Oklahoma where he was apprehended. He also stole $175 on Aug. 23, at which time he ran away again.

Supervision Ordered for Teen-Age Girl

Six months' supervision was ordered Monday for a 16-year-old Appleton girl who, along with her boyfriend, took an LSD pill Aug. 22.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer, acting Juvenile Court judge, withheld a delinquency finding against the girl and ordered supervision to the Outagamie County Department of Social Services.

It was the first time the girl had appeared in Juvenile Court. She was charged with possessing a dangerous drug.

A 19-year-old Appleton youth who furnished the girl with the LSD pill was placed on two years probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services Aug. 26 after he pleaded guilty of possessing a dangerous drug.

He and the girl each took an LSD pill the night of Aug. 22. The girl later was taken to a hospital after becoming ill The boy turned himself in to police early Aug. 23.

The youth reportedly had purchased the two pills for $4 each. Appleton police conducted the investigation

Public 'Unwilling to Pay the Price'?

Long Pleads for Improved Police Training

The American public "has been unwilling to pay for law enforcement" in past years.

The public, Outagamie County Dist. Atty. James R. Long said Monday night, must be willing to give police training and weapons as good as the criminals have."

Long, talking at the monthly meeting of the Outagamie County Deputy Sheriffs Association, said he sees the two recent "law and order" appointees to the U.S. Supreme Court as being indicative of a changing public attitude.

"The people are sick and tired of lawlessness," Long told deputies.

He said that in 1961, one American in every 100 became the victim of a serious crime. Today, one citizen in every 50 runs that risk.

Outagamie County has not escaped the crime rise, according to figures cited by Long.

He noted that the district attorney's office, during the first six months of 1969, handled as many cirminal actions as during the entire year 1965.

Long outlined some of the duties of his office for deputies. Prosecuting cases involving narcotics and drug violations comprise a major share of his office's workload, Long said.

Broadened Prosectuion

He explained that once he gets enough office help, he intends to broaden prosecution in non-support cases and start action to collect reimbursements from some defendants for whom attorneys were appointed at county expense in criminal actions.

Some taxpayers' money, Long said, can be obtained by filing liens against the once-indigent defendants.

Two Denials Appealed

Building Permits Reversed By Calumet Zoning Board

SHERWOOD — The Calumet County Zoning Board of Adjustments reversed a previous decision at a public hearing Saturday at Harrison Town Hall and granted a building permit to Dr. John R. Nebel, Neenah, to build on a 59 foot lot on Lake Winnebago. The property is near Firelane 3, route 2, Menasha.

Last January the board denied the request of Robert Hodkewicz, who was planning to purchase the property from Dr. Nebel. Reasons for the denial were that the parcel did not meet the 75 foot width requirement and didn't comply with the sanitary code.

Dr. Nebel pointed out that all lots in the 33 lot plat measured 59 feet and that his was the only one that had not built on. He stressed the hardship he was faced with in selling it, or using it in any way. The lot is 300 feet deep, he said, and he had been granted a permit to purchase and install a septic tank, by the State Board of Health.

Appeal Supported

Dr. Nebel was supported in his arguments by two nearby property owners who said they would like to see a home built on the property. The area was platted in 1893.

He also received support from Harrison Chairman George Schwalbach and Supv. Carl Grassl. Both stated that a town sanitary district was planned for that area in the very near future. Grassl said he felt a sanitary district would "take care of the matter and a man can't be taxed all his life and not be able to build." Schwalbach, the building inspector, said the permit was denied previously because it did not meet the 75 feet width requirement.

County Planner Roland Tonn, Chilton, noted that the percolation tests were "good." He explained that after talking to sanitary officials, the problem could be solved by placing fill in the area to bring the seepage bed up to where it would be out of the water table. Dr. Nevel was reluctant to agree to additional fill saying his neighbors wouldn't favor one lot higher than the others.

Water Table High

Adjustment Board Chairman Roy Wenzel, pointed out that at the time of the denial the panel had visited the area when the water table was exceptionally high. "We also wanted to protect this young man (Hodkeweicz) from purchasing something he couldn't build on."

He went on to explain that the board wanted to be fair and hear from neighbors and any other circumstances which may throw a different light on the situation. Dr. Nebel said he was not aware of the previous hearing, or allowed to express his opinion. He said he had returned the down payment for the property when a building permit was not issued according to his agreement.

In discussing the water table, Dr. Nebel said he felt that the table would be allowed to drop, noting that there had been unusual circumstances this year 'with holding back of water for the sake of industry."

Tonn emphasized that while a permit had been issued to purchase a septic tank, the decision of installing it was up to the firm concerned.

The decision to allow the building permit was unanimous.

Silo Permit

In another appeal, Richard Kreuger, route 2, Hilbert, was granted permission to build a silo on S. Harwood Road. A building permit had been denied by the Town of Harrison because plans did not meet the 25 feet setback requirement from the front lot line.

Krueger said he was appealing because he wanted to place the new structure next to two existing silos to operate efficiently." Set back to the fence was estimated at 15 feet.

Krueger explained that the road was a dividing line between towns of Harrison and Woodville and because he lived in the Town of Harrison he was forced to abide by the zoning law, while across the road in the Town of Woodville I could build on the fenceline." He said he felt everyone should be treated fairly. The Town of Woodville doesn't have a zoning ordinance.

Setback Impossible

Royal Gillis, a member of the adjustments board from Harrison, asked Krueger if it were possible to locate the silo on another spot surveyed by the committee, which would allow 49 feet setback from the road.

Krueger said it was impossible." He had considered this and it would provide more of a problem." He said he would be forced to tear down buildings and rebuild them, have machinery standing on the road and drive in at a slant.

He also argued that he had to protect his interests regarding laws governing necessary square footage for animals, in order to continue on the grade "A" milk market.

Krueger received support from Harrison Chairman Schwalbach, who noted that the road "would probably always be a secondary road, the building would not be on a corner and would not obstruct visibility". Two neighbors also encouraged the granting of the permit.

Only Objection

The only objection came from Tonn who pointed out that "future expansion had not been planned and there was a possibility of the road being widened to 66 feet, reducing the setback to nine feet."

He noted that the ordinance called for having 25 feet setback off the right of way and that a structure such as this could be a "potential hazard". Tonn added "I'd like to see that we are not setting a precedent by allowing structures to be built nine feet from the roadway".

Krueger however, countered by saying, "Stores are built right on the side of the road, and for that matter what about the trees, telephone and light poles, if we're going to start cutting everything down, let's consider them, and have all cables underground". It also was reported that the Woodville portion of the road had been widened in 1958 when the property was purchased.

State Minimum

The road is three rods wide and Schwalbach said met the state minimum, he explained that a lot depended on the traffic count on the road and the town board did not believe it would ever develop into a well used road.

Wenzel, speaking for the board said that "the decision here was not easy to make, we are supposed to defend the zoning laws and have already been criticized". He added, however, that the problems arising were not those with new developments, but with property planned before zoning ordinances went into effect. The vote was unanimous.

Members of the adjustments board are Wenzel, Town of Rantoul; Gillis, Harrison and Allen Leverenz, Town of New Holstein.

Lovell Rumored As Candidate for Proxmire's Job

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Astronaut James A. Lovell Jr., who grew up in Milwaukee, met with state Republican Party Chairman Ody J. Fish during the weekend, adding fuel to rumors that he is considering running for the U.S. Senate from Wisconsin.

Political observers called the weekend conference "exploratory talks." It has been rumored that Lovell might become a Republican candidate to oppose Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., when he seeks re-election in 1970.

Fish said Lovell made no commitment, but was interested in being in public life.

Lovell, who came to Wisconsin Saturday to enroll his son, James, at St. John's Military Academy at Delafield, visited Fish's home at nearby Pewaukee.

Lovell was not expected to make a decision about running for office until after the Apollo 13 moon landing, which he will command. It is slated for March.

Martin Cites Support for Changes in State Sales Tax

MENASHA Republican Assemblyman David Martin of Neenah said this morning that there seems to be growing support for a change in the new state sales tax.

"The legislators I've been talking too are strongly in favor of change," he said, after he addressed a meeting of the governmental affairs division of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting at the Hotel Menasha.

He said legislators he has talked with who formerly opposed the type of sales tax he favors — a three per cent tax on all items with an $8 refund for each dependent — indicate they may now support it.

Bill Being Drafted

"What will happen in the special session (Sept 29). I don't know," he added, but he said a bill to change the sales tax is now being drafted.

Martin, who has opposed the present sales tax in the past, said the legislature didn't fully realize the administrative problems of administering the selective four per cent tax before it was passed.

He said also that if the tax has not been put into effect beginning Sept. 1, as recommended by the state Department of Revenue, there would have been more time for business to adapt to the new tax and learn how to administer it.

Martin prefaced his description of the budget for the chamber division by saying that many people didn't realize the sharp division along party lines" during the battle of the budget.

The legislature was more divided along party lines than at any other time since I've been there," he said.

The Democrats chose not to become a part of the budget making process, as well as finding a way to raise the necessary revenue." he said.

He said there were also deep divisions within the majority Republican party as well.

The Neenah Assemblyman said the general sales tax was chosen over the sales tax plus credit refund he favored because it was the only revenue feature we could get a majority of support for in the legislature."

Martin said that the legislature failed to get all the legislative control over broad policy decisions of state administrative departments that he felt they should have, but that rather than delay passage of the budget, the legislature passed it.

We did get a budget, and it does provide the necessary continuity," he said.

27 Line Vetoes

He noted the 27 line vetoes by Gov Warren Knowles, many of items that would have given the legislature some of the controls he felt they needed over state agencies.

He said he didn't know why the governor vetoed some of the measures, but he added that it was a case of where the legislature has acted and the governor has listened to his advisers and vetoed some of the things we felt were needed."

He said opposition to agency control measures came from "strong-minded members of the state government" who advised the governor to give it his veto.

Martin favors the general three per cent tax on all items with a credit refund — designed to help out large, low-income families — because of the administrative problems in handling the new tax and because it would be advantageous in relation to neighboring states.

State Neighbors

Neighboring states with across-the-board sales taxes could benefit by buying certain items in Wisconsin that are not subject to the sales tax, whereas a tax with credit refund would benefit only those who filed a state income tax.

He said the legislature gained additional controls over welfare programs, and said the move to eliminate the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program "should have been tried," even though it may turn out to be a mistake.

"I don't know if it will stay eliminated, but it had to be tried, even though it was against a sacred cow of the state government," he said.

He said job training programs conducted at the local level should be upgraded, rather than continually increasing public assistance benefits and noted there was a need for the Wisconsin State Employment Service to become more active in job placement, which he said is the main problem affecting unemployment in many areas.

Winnebago Won't Enter Censorship

OSHKOSH — The judiciary committee Monday afternoon decided to delay action on a study for the possible creation of a county censorship commission.

At its August session, the county board voted overwhelmingly in favor of a study following discussion of a federal law suit involving the district attorney.

Corporation counsel Gerald Engeldinger told the committee Monday there would be no problem, legally, to setting up the commission.

However, he said, "It's highly impractical for us to get involved."

Engeldinger noted that individual communities in the county may take a different viewpoint on what is obscene and what isn't.

Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink is one of several parties named in a federal suit because of "censoring" the movie, "Vixen."

200 Boys Flunk Out First Day of School

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Two hundred boys flunked high schools' hair tests the first day of school in Orange County.

The students were sent home by their principals Monday mostly for sideburns below the ear lobes, mustaches and mutton-chop beards, district officials said.

They added that most of the boys were back in school later in the day after shaving.

Waupun Back to Normal

Protesting Prisoners All Returned to Cells

WAUPUN (AP)— A group of inmates involved in a protest demonstration over cigarette taxes returned gradually Monday to regular cells, a time-consuming process which Waupun State Prison officials said would precede any decision on disciplinary penalties.

Warden Elmer Cady said routine for the penitentiary's nearly 1,000 inmates was virtually back to normal after Sunday's outburst. All meals were served on schedule, and recreation activities resumed in the yard in which the demonstration had broken out.

About 200 inmates were involved in the protest before riot-equipped officers coaxed them into segregation wards. Cady said 50 of the inmates were back in their regular cells Monday, and that all but 100 should be in their cells by tonight.

The demonstration, officials said, involved a number of grievances, primarily a new excise tax which raises an inmate's cost for a pack of cigarettes to 35 cents.

An inmate gets 40 cents a day in prison job wages, and 10 cents is subtracted for a fund which he receives when he leaves Waupun.

The balance is not enough for a daily purchase of cigarettes, much less other items which inmates get from the prison canteen, Cady said.

It was Waupun's first serious outburst since 1947. It occurred on the eve of Cady's elevation to warden.

He succeeds John Burke, who is retiring after 31 years as warden during which he spent a World War II period as chief of corrections for the Army.

State Enters K-C Sewage Fee Dispute

Neenah-Menasha Commission Action Meets Challenge

NEENAH-MENASHA — The Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission's action to stop treatment of Kimberly-Clark Corporation Lakeview Mill sewage has been challenged by the State Department of Natural Resources.

In a letter to both parties, Thomas Frangos, Division of Environmental Protection administrator, urged the commission and K-C to come to an agreement so the service would not be cut off.

Today Frangos said, "We have urged the two parties to settle the matter between themselves without the state intervening."

He said he division's legal staff is studying the matter to check the state jurisdiction and options open if the matter is not settled before Oct. 1.

Oct. 1 Cutoff

The commission voted to stop treating the K-C effluent on Oct. 1 unless the firm comes through with back payments for 1967 and 1968 totaling about $62,000.

Frangos said, "We are reviewing the state authority and watching the developments very closely."

"We would not tolerate a discontinuance of the service to the company which might result in a discharge of raw sewage into Little Lake Butte des Morts," he added.

The letter dated Sept. 4 also offered the division's offices to either party if they thought it would do any good.

This morning Frangos said, "It is getting close to the Oct. 1 deadline so we are doing all we can to get it settled."

"I'm not prepared to indicate the course of action we might take if the matter is not settled," he said, "but our attorneys are checking out all our options."

Tonight, the dispute is expected to come to a head with representatives of both the Neenah and Menasha city councils attending the sewerage commission meeting.

Parking Ramp in '70 Budget

NEENAH — Mayor Donald Hassler predicted this morning that planning for a parking ramp would be included in the upcoming 1970 budget.

"A parking ramp is very essential and necessary to the redevelopment effort," he said.

3 Ramps

His comments came on the heels of a parking authority meeting Monday night which recommended three ramps for construction in the city's downtown as a part of the redevelopment effort.

About two months ago, S. N. Pickard, National Manufacturers' Bank board chairman, told the city's redevelopment authority that he planned to develop a Ramada Inn complex on the former Valley Inn block. But one of the conditions was a parking ramp.

The parking authority had recommended three ramps: one east of the city hall, another on Doty street in the mid-100 block and a third north of Wisconsin Avenue and west of Commercial Street.

To meet the requirements for the Ramada Inn franchise, the first ramp will be scheduled for the city land east of the present city hall.

Plan Commission Approves

Luxury Apartments Favored

Appleton's city plan commission Monday expressed approval "of the principal" behind a proposed development by Moreland Development Company, Milwaukee, for some 35 luxury separate units. The units will be apartment buildings with 36 built n a 26-acre area between Bluebird Lane and Calumet Street, near Appleton East High School.

Jack Hetu, director of planning and development, told residents at the public hearing Monday afternoon that an ordinance is being drawn up to strictly control what the developer does with the property, and would keep the rest of the area zoned as a single family residential area.

Hetu said the plan is ideal in its concept, calling for some 61 per cent of the land area to be recreation area and open space, less than 16 per cent of the total to be occupied by the apartments, and the rest devoted to a roadway and parking facilities.

The proposed development plan provides for 14 buildings with 16 units each, eight buildings with 12 units each, and 13 buildings with eight units each. Parking space has been provided for one and a half cars per unit, or a total of 636 cars.

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) said residents in the area want assurance that the apartment area would not spread, and that the complex would not make the area congested and undesirable as a residential zone.

No zoning change could be proposed to the council until the new ordinance is completed, Hetu said. The planning commission and council will keep a close watch on the developments, he added.

Representatives of the developer also explained that the apartment facilities would be luxury type, meant for the use of "young executives" for interim periods, and he noted that the rents would be higher than groups like students could reasonably afford.

The commission also voted to recommend the opening of Fairway Court to Lawe Street, and to place that part of Packard Street from Division to Superior streets on the official map as an 80 foot right of way.

Steelworkers Strike Ended At Green Bay

Overwhelming Vote Accepts Terms of Engineering Firm

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Members of the United Steelworkers Local 7389 ended their 155-"day" long strike against Northwest Engineering Company Monday night, and today some of the men began returning to work.

By an overwhelming majority — almost unanimous — members of the local voted to ratify a two-year contract its negotiations committee had agreed to Thursday, after bargaining off and on with the crane manufacturing company for more than a year and a half.

The contract is the first Northwest Engineering has ever had with a union. Its acceptance brings to a close one of the costliest and most trouble-marked walkouts in Green Bay.

Contract terms provide for an immediate wage increase, modified union shop and new and increased benefits.

"Good Contract"

Harry Viren, chairman of the union's negotiating committee, and William Burns, president of the local, told newsmen they both considered the contract a good one.

Union officials said they expect most of the 550 millworkers who participated in the strike to be back to work within five days. Many of the strikers had taken jobs elsewhere during the five-month walkout.

Pickets were pulled off the company's five gates Monday afternoon, several hours before the union membership meeting at St. Mary Elementary School, apparently in anticipation of the rectification vote.

The contract calls for an across-the-board wage increase of from 11 to 53 cents an hour, with four to five - cent hikes each six months of the contract's life, union spokesman said.

Opening Services at Fox Valley Lutheran High School were conducted Sunday by the Rev. Alvin Kienitz, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Neenah, left, who delivered the principal address, and the Rev. Harold Warnke, right, principal of the school, who served as liturgist for the ceremony. (Post-Crescent Photo)

editorial policy to relate to them the story of Wisconsin's urban crisis and how the Tarr proposals will represent a breakthrough.

The highlight of each stop will be a noon "Dutch treat" luncheon at which a cross section of the communities will be invited.

Among those being requested to attend are members of city councils, other key local officials and department heads, representatives of local boards and commissions, school boards, city and county Republican and Democratic party chairmen, business and labor leaders, retired persons groups, delegates from local civic organizations, representatives of the county, clergy, League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, assemblymen and senators representing the region, and others.

In each city the Target Tarr task force will meet with the host mayor or manager at city hall to discuss problems facing that central city area.

At each stop the non-partisan nature of the tax distribution and government reforms — such as annexation law revision, schools aids, government streamlinging and others — will be stressed.

Voting Records

The voting records of the area assemblymen and senators on urban considerations will also come up for public scrutiny, based on the legislative sessions since the Tarr Committee recommendations were completed and the recent budget session in which urban bills were ignored, Buckley said.

"Target Tarr" comes at a crucial time when annual budget preparations are underway at city halls throughout the state and already reflect sharp tax hikes on the basis of the recently adopted state budget.

With the local property tax picture already dark at the opening stage of budget hearings and reviews, alliance officials charged the Legislature and administration with being apathetic when it comes to tackling the basic problems of Wisconsin's central cities.

"Target Tarr," they said, is intended to make it clear to the citizens and property taxpayers of the state that the only remedy now to avoid a fatal fiscal crisis in urban areas is to adopt Tarr Committee bills during the special session.

The alliance and its task force will stress that a new state tax distribution formula and annexation law reform should be given immediate, top priority by the governor and Wisconsin Legislature.

50 Per Cent Over Capacity

State School at Wales Reports New Program Despite Crowding

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Peak population totals at the State School for Boys at Wales have ranged up to 50 per cent above rated capacity for the institution for the past two years, the state Board of Health and Social Services has been told.

In a report prepared for the state board which meets at the facility Wednesday, its superintendent, Roland C. Hershman, said that the highest population hit by the institution in 1968 was 50 per cent higher than the facility was built to hold.

And in 1969, said Hershman, the peak population was 40 per cent higher than the rated capacity of the correctional school.

High points for both years came in May, he told the state board, which meets at its institutions throughout the state in an attempt to get a closer look at problems and progress in the massive system.

State correctional officials for several years have warned of severe overcrowding in institutions constructed for youths, and say that a prime result is the forced release of youths before correctional programs can effectively aid them.

Several additional institutions are on the drawing boards or under construction for the youth program.

Hershman told the board that despite the overcrowding, a number of new programs have been started at the school during the past two years which show promising results.

The superintendent reported that the peak population in 1968 hit 527, and the high point in 1969 was 482 boys.

He added that in 10 of the 12 months of fiscal year 1968 the population of the school exceeded the rated capacity, and that the rated capacity was exceeded in 11 of the 12 months in the 1968 calendar year.

New Programs

Hershman told the board that among new programs started are:

— Specialized training for the staff in the world of drugs, reactions to drugs on users, and drug detection. The increasing number of commitments stemming from drug offenses makes the training necessary, he said.

— Specialized training in auto mechanics for boys found to be too knowledgable in the field for useful work in the regular auto mechanics program offered at the school. The training is offered without cost by the General Motors Institute, said Hershman.

— Bussing of some boys to their homes in the Milwaukee area during the spring season, to avoid problem of overcrowding that regularly afflicts the institution at that time of year. The boys live at home, but attend school at the institution.

— Experimental programs in training courses in plastics and photography, which show promise for vocational training program development.

Indian Youths

— Specialized programs for Indian youths, who, Hershman reported, generally have very little knowledge of their heritage and culture, and who usually have extremely poor self-images. The boys talk with authorities on Indian history, visit museums and cultural centers to study Indian art objects, and are helped "to develop social poise and to feel more comfortable and confident in an integrated society," said Hershman.

Seminars on race relations, which have led to special efforts on the part of black staff members and selected black youths in the institution to develop means of aiding youths in the facility.

— Seminars for Milwaukee police recruits on problems of the delinquent.

Youth Given Probation

Mark Boehm, Neenah, Guilty of Selling Marijuana

OSHKOSH — Mark Boehm, 20, 117 Hazel St., Neenah, was placed on probation for three years today by Winnebago County Court Judge James V. Sitter. Boehm had been found guilty in a jury trial of possession and sale of marijuana.

The offense occurred in December at a Teen-age beer bar in the Town of Menasha, according to police, who arrested Boehm during an investigation in January.

A condition of his probation, Sitter said, is that Boehm pay court costs of more than $200.

Sitter concurred with the findings of a pre-sentence investigation conducted by the State Department of Health and Social Services that neither Boehm nor society would benefit if the youth were imprisoned.

Sitter noted that other than the marijuana charge and one minor traffic violation, Boehm has a clear record.

"It seems that he got involved with the freak segment at the university," Sitter said.

Boehm was a student at Oshkosh State University.

Agee Sparks Mets to 3-2 Win Over Cubs; Lead Cut

Chicago Margin Down to 1½; Cincinnati Takes Top Spot With Sweep of Doubleheader

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League East has taken on the look of the National League West, which could lead to the most complicated windup to the pennant races in baseball's 100-year history.

The New York Mets and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn were the instruments of the latest developments Monday, the Mets tightening the Eastern race even further by defeating front-running Chicago 3-2 just hours after Kuhn had announced multiple plans covering all playoff possibilities.

Those possibilities moved closer to becoming probabilities —and forcing the first double playoff in history—as the Mets trimmed another length off the Cubs' lead and tightened the NL East race into NL West proportions.

The Mets' victory drew them even with the Cubs in the loss column, just 1½ games behind the leaders—the closest they've been since the third day of the season. At the same time, Pittsburgh closed to within 6½ of the top with a 6-2 triumph over Montreal.

Sweep Twin Bill

In the West, meanwhile, the juggling continued with Cincinnati taking over first place from San Francisco, by one-half game, with a doubleheader sweep over the Giants by identical 5-4 scores, although the nightcap took 15 innings.

Los Angeles moved into third, just 1½ behind, by edging Atlanta 2-0 while, in other games, Houston stayed up there with a 9-2 blasting of San Diego and St. Louis nipped Philadelphia 4-3.

Under baseball's new four-division format, the first-place teams in each league will meet in league playoffs prior to the World Series starting in the American League city Oct. 11. Kuhn's new plans cover playoffs leading to the playoffs.

If two teams in any division tie a one-game playoff on Oct. 3 will determine the winner. In a three-way tie, two teams will meet head-on Oct. 3 while one draws a bye and meets the winner Oct. 4. If four teams tie, there will be two games Oct. 3 wth the survivors meeting Oct. 4.

The Mets closed in on Chicago with Tommie Agee providing the impetus. Agee whacked a two-run homer in the third inning, then doubled in the sixth and scored the winning run on Wayne Garrett's single. That tagged the loss on Bill Hands, now 16-13.

Jerry Koosman, 13-9, got the victory with a seven-hitter after the Cubs had tied the score in the top of the sixth on singles by Don Kessinger, Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams and a sacrifice fly by Ron Santo.

The Reds won the opener when Johnny Bench tagged Giants' starter Juan Marichal, 7-10, for a two-run homer in the eighth inning.

Then, after being held hitless for 10 consecutive innings by San Francisco relievers Ron Herbel, Don McMahon and Frank Linzy, the Reds put the nightcap away in the 15th on an infield hit by pinch hitter Ted Savage, a sacrifice, an intentional walk to Pete Rose and Bobby Tolan's single.

The Pirates ran their winning streak to four games, and made it 14 victories in their last 20 games, by coming from behind in the ninth inning on a grand slam homer by Jose Martinez.

Babb Shoots 67, Takes Honors in Fox Cities Pro-Am

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

They call it the "Fox Cities Pro-Am" golf tournament, but after Monday's result, they might have to change it. "Fox Cities Am-Pro" would be more appropriate.

With 33 top state golf pros on hand, including notables like Green Bay's Ed Langert, Milwaukee's Manuel de la Torre, and Rivermoor's John Toepel — to name a few — the field of 108 amateurs didn't figure to make much noise in the third annual 18-hole test at the Reid Municipal course.

But it was indeed an amateur, Appleton's Denny Babb, who deserved the top billing of the day. Babb, who makes Reid his home course, fired a 4-under-par 67 (with an eagle on No. 1) to take the meet's highest honors and steal some of the thunder from the pros.

Another prominent area amateur, North Shore club champion John Manier, carded a 69 to tie Racine Washington Park pro Mike Bencriscutto for the second-best total. Manier, after shooting in the morning, had the

1968 Problem Alleviated

Packer Front 4 Impressive

BY LEE REMMEL
Post Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Early in training camp, during the waning days of July, there was private concern among Packer brain trustees over the state of defensive line.

There was, first of all, the uncertain physical status of Henry Jordan a longtime all-pro bastion of the front four who had been troubled throughout the 1968 season by an arthritic back.

Secondly, fellow veterans Jim Weatherwax and Bob Brown were hobbled, Weatherwax in the wake of two off-season knee operations and Brown with a nagging calf injury.

And, behind them the ranks were then, because of inexperience in some cases and limited abilities in others.

The only certainties at that point, it appeared, were Capt. Willie Davis and a spectacularly svelte Lionel Aldridge at the ends.

In recent weeks, however, that once fluid situation has begun to stabilize impressively, reaching a high point in last Saturday's 31-19 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers in Lambeau Field. Even Coach Phil Bengtson, defensive genius who is not easily impressed, admitted there has been notable improvement in this area.

'Rest Pass Rush'

"We had some pretty good aggressive play against the passer," Bengtson said Monday after viewing the Steeler match on film "It was out best pass rush of the season."

The statistics bore him out. That militant front four felled Pittsburgh passers Kent Nix, Dick Shiner and Terry Hanratty five times, Aldridge turning the trick twice and the rejuvenated Jordan, rookie Rich Moore and Phil Vandersea once.

The ballhawking Jordan also recovered a fumble created by an explosive Aldridge tackle, which led to the Packs go-ahead touchdown.

Three of their fellow defenders, Willie Wood, Doug Hart and John Rowser, chipped in with interceptions as the enemy was held below 200 yards net for the second successive week.

Significantly, only 66 of the Steelers' 199 yard total came on the ground and they averaged a mere 2.4 per rush, a substantial testimonial to the Packer platoon.

"The defense overall, Bengtson conceded, "was pretty good. . .but the points were too high. . of course, they didn't have to do too much for those first 10 they got. An onside kick and a long punt return and they're already in your territory.

Defensive line coach Dave Hanner has also been encouraged by the most recent performances, including the effort in Cleveland a week earlier when the Browns were held to 195 yards. Continuing his analysis, he added, "A guy like (Rich) Moore has got to help you. He's big and strong and plays the run tough.

"You've got to have somebody who's going to make the big play for you. You can't win just being consistent. You have to have that big play, like Lionel made for us in the third quarter Saturday night."

Bengtson, who today began pointing his athletes for their final pre-season exercise against the Atlanta Falcons in Canton, O., Saturday afternoon, also had some kind words for his attacking unit.

"The offensive line is doing a pretty good job," he said. "The pass protection was good Saturday night and we broke Travis (Williams) on two runs. Overall, the blocking is pretty good.

"We're making progress," he summed up, "but we're still not in mid - season form, by a long way."

Packer Patter — Lionel Aldridge was presented with the game ball for his outstanding performance against the Steelers which has to rank as one of the finest efforts of his 7-year Packer career.

Monday morning's workout was confined to a distance run for all able-bodied players. Rookie defensive tackle Larry Agajanian who suffered a knee injury against the Steelers, was among the missing. Cornerback Bob Jeter who pulled a leg muscle, was in evidence but permitted to set his own pace in the unseasonable brisk weather.

Saturday afternoon's exhibition finale will be televised nationally, beginning at 2 p.m. Wisconsin time.

Plans Phase-Out

Rod Laver King Of Tennis World After 'Open' Win

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) —Australian Rod Lavers recognized as the world's No. 1 tennis player and acclaimed by many as perhaps the greatest of all time, is ready at 31 to phase out his career.

"I have three years to go on a five-year contract," the little left-hander said after beating fellow Aussie Tony Roche 7-9, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 Monday for the U.S. Open crown and his second grand slam.

"I intend to play those three years at least—cutting down perhaps on my tournament schedule. After that, well, we'll just have to see.

"I love tennis—but I also love my wife. I have been travelling the tennis circuit for 15 years, since I was 16. I think it's time I start having a home life."

Laver's wife, Mary, whom he married in June, 1966, in San Francisco, is in Corona Del Mar, Calif., awaiting the couple's first child.

Delayed by Rain?

"It was due Sunday," Laver said, smiling when someone suggested perhaps there was a delay because of rain, as was the tennis tournament.

"We already have picked a name. If it's a boy it will be Rick Rodney, if a girl, Michel Ann."

Laver was asked if he thought he might be playing tennis when he's 41 as is Pancho Gonzales.

"No, I may be hitting the ball around a bit but I won't be playing as well as Gonzales," he replied.

Laver is under contract to the National Tennis League, directed by George MacCall of Los Angeles, and is committed to play in so many tournaments.

"I hope next year to start limiting myself to the bigger money tournaments," he said. "Then I hope to sort of phase out of the picture. The new guys are getting too tough."

Over $100,000

Laver, who with his $16,000 first prize in the U.S. Open boosted his year's winning to a record $106,030, predicted that in five years purses will be doubled and even quadrupled.

"And you have a lot of good young players coming to play for them," the court king said. "I was very impressed here with the play of young Ilie Nastase of Romania and Jaime Fillol of Chile."

Laver was too modest to compare himself with some of the game's past greats, admitting, "I win some and I lose some."

"This year I won all four of the big ones," he added. Referring to the grand slam events of the Australian, French, Wimbledon and American titles. "Next year I may not win any."

Duel of Southpaws

The final match, the ninth all-Australian men's final here in the last 14 years and the first all-lefty duel since Neal Fraser beat Laver in 1960, started one

Legs, Pride Ache

Mitchell, NFL Great, Ends Career

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Mitchell, his legs aching so much that his pride hurt too, has decided to hang up his cleats.

"I couldn't stand being on the team and being on the bench," said Mitchell, who retired from the Washington Redskins Monday as the No. 1 pass receiver among the National Football League's active players.

Mitchell, now 34, made the announcement at a news conference in training camp and said, "This is a sad moment. After 20 years of playing, it is hard to turn loose something you love."

Mitchell ranks No. 2 on the all-time list in pass receiving with 521 catches for 7,953 yards, trailing only the retired Raymond Berry of the Baltimore Colts.

He is also No. 2 in total yardage for passes, rushing and kick returns with 14,078 yards—only a few inches short of eight miles. Mitchell is surpassed only by his former teammate, the great Jim Brown of Cleveland.

After four seasons as a back

with the Browns, Mitchell was traded to Washington at the end of 1961 and promptly led the NFL in pass catches in his first year as a Redskin receiver.

In 1967, the Redskins' Charley Taylor, Jerry Smith and Mitchell ranked 1-2-4 in the NFL in the best three-man finish ever. But Mitchell was used only sparingly last season and failed to get in on a single play in the Redskins' most recent exhibition loss last week.

Mitchell said his legs were making it hard to run even 10 yards with his old dash. He was being used as a reserve end this year, behind Taylor, Smith, Pat Richter and newly obtained Bob Long.

Coach Vince Lombardi announced Michell will take a front office job on the club's player personnel staff.

Lombardi said Mitchell could have played this year with several other teams if he had placed him on waivers, but added, "I wasn't about to offer him to them."

Monmouth Rated MC Favorite

Ripon Opens Title Defense Saturday

Monmouth College, which invades the Lawrence (University) Bowl Saturday afternoon, has been tabbed the favorite to win the 1969 Midwest Conference football championship.

The Scots, who finished only one-half game behind champion Ripon last year, got a slight edge in coaches' balloting over the Redmen and St. Olaf.

Ranked behind the top trio are Cornell and Coe. The coaches listed Lawrence and Grinnell as other possible challengers.

Beloit Meets Ripon

In other season openers Saturday, it will be Beloit at Ripon, Carleton at Grinnell, St. Olaf at Cornell and Knox at Coe.

All 10 teams will be guided by veteran head coaches Tom Porter, formerly of Neenah, returns to St. Olaf after a year's leave for graduate study.

Capsule outlooks:

MONMOUTH — All-Conference Fullback Charley Corle, who was fourth in the nation in scoring, and two other all-conference players, Linebacker Gary Sapp and tackle Tom Sassatelli lead the 27 veterans on the 50-man squad. However Coach Bill Reichow lost 11 lettermen, all starters offensively or defensively, the heaviest graduation loss in two years. Chief loss was Quarterback Tom Lombardo, the Scots' most valuable player. Three soph quarterbacks will be vying for the job — Al Hracek, John Wrona and Dale Brooks.

ST. OLAF — Veterans in the line and in the defensive secondary will be key strengths. Steve Ashley and Dick Swiggum return to the defensive backfield. Co-Capts. Tim Smith, all-conference guard, and end Don Krahn anchor the line. Porter will have to find a replacement for halfback Mike Schmiesing, two-time all-conference and second high league scorer. Dennis Nelson returns at quarterback. Others among the 25 lettermen on the 50-man squad are backs Bob Wetterberg and Steve Weiner and linemen Ron Hunter, Tom Saxhaug, Arne Melby and Tom Peinovich.

RIPON — Three-quarters of the offensive backfield and sizeable chunks of the defensive line are missing from the championship team Lost were all-conference running backs Steve Thompson and Al Long, who were the league's No. 3 and No. 4 scorers; Quarterback Curt Powell: two all - conference choices, Center John Fleck and End John Wiechmann: and five other starters. Coach John Storzer will have 20 lettermen, including all-conference tackle Bill Beaman and Linebacker Leo Tieman. Thirteen sophomores are rated as prospective starters.

LAWRENCE — Tri-captains form the nucleus for Coach Ron Roberts. They are all-conference tackle Joe Patterson, quarterback Paul Rechner and linebacker Ted Hope, the team's most valuable defensive player in 1968. Former defensive back John Van de Hey will team with Rechner to give the Vikes a 1-2 quarterback punch. Also returning is all-loop linebacker Lance Alwin. The squad of 45 includes 20 lettermen.

KNOX — The loss of outstanding quarterback Randy Purdy due to a pre-season injury leaves Coach Dick Bowman looking hard for someone to run the offense. The Siwashers, with only 14 lettermen on a squad of 40, also lost all-

Mimic Davis Turns Into A Menace

It was the late Fresco Thompson who made the initial appraisal of William Henry Davis, the outfielder. The California Comet was coming to bat one night when Fresco cracked: "Oh-oh! Here comes our own Lon Chaney."

To Fresco, he was not Willie the Wisp. He was Willie the Actor.

"Willie," he used to say, "is one of the great impressionists of our day. He's like we used to be when we were kids. We'd see a Buck Jones movie and for a week we'd go around slapping ourselves on the backside pretending we were Buck Jones. We should have a marquee outside the ball park: 'Tonight, Dodgers vs. Cardinals, Presenting Willie Davis as Stan Musial.' "

Willie, you see, did imitations. The only way you could tell it wasn't Stan Musial was when he popped up. But Willie's repertoire included Ted Williams, Billy Williams, Babe Ruth, Babe Herman (usually it came out more like Babe Phelps). He had more shticks than a Catskill comic. He wasn't a ball player, he was a chameleon. Sometimes, he imitated three different guys the same night. None of them was Willie Davis. "Willie," Buzzie Bavasi used to ask him, "Why don't you arrange it so that somebody imitates YOU?"

History shows that Willie Davis started to hit pitchers when they started to hit him. Willie was having the greatest spring of his career this year when a Claude Raymond fastball bounced off his right elbow and broke his arm at Vero Beach one night.

The front office watched for telltale signs that Willie D. would be afflicted with what the ballplayers call "tippy-toes" in the batter's box. But Willie was still stepping into, not away from pitches. That's how come the Expos' Dan McGinn shattered his cheekbone. It was broken in so many places that it was more like carpentry than surgery to repair it. Willie had more bolts sticking out of his skin than Frankenstein's monster. The doctor didn't need a scalpel, he needed a screwdriver.

Willie no sooner returned to the lineup than Juan Marichal, whose control is so wobbly he walks a batter every other week, stuck one in his ear.

Willie began to feel like Baseball's dartboard, but he decided he better hit the ball before it hit him.

Willie's career had hardly been horseshoes up to then. One of the best fielders in the history of the game, Willie nevertheless had gone into the history books for posting the most World Series errors in one game, one inning, and one Series. Willie had to endure a winter where he became a standard nightclub comic's joke. ("My luck is so bad lately that if I jumped out of a burning building, guess who would be holding the net? Willie Davis!")

The Willie Davis story then is one of net courage. He came back from three errors in one inning to making the most sensational Series catch since Willie Mays' of 1954. He came back from three beanings to set an all-time Dodger consecutive game hitting streak. He has found it easier to hit a ball out of reach than out of sight. He is like a fighter who comes off the floor to score a knockout.

If the Dodgers win the pennant, they should vote Series shares to Marichal, McGinn and Raymond. They turned Willie Davis from a mimic to a menace. They took him out of acting school and into the record book. If he gets knocked down once more, to do an imitation of a .400 hitter, he may only need a mirror.

The sales manager of the Brillion Iron Works' farm equipment division has been golfing for about 20 years.

Chisox-Pilots Twin Bill Goes On as Ultimatum Is Softened

SEATTLE (AP) — The president of the American League and Seattle's interim mayor teamed up Monday to provide a showcase for baseball's newest pitching star.

And Miguel Fuentes, 20, from Puerto Rico by way of Clinton, Iowa, justified the confidence by completing for the Seattle Pilots a sweep of a twi-night doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, 2-1 and 5-1.

The teams nearly didn't have a place to play.

Interim Mayor Floyd Miller last week issued an ultimatum to the first-year Pilots that they live up to financial obligations he says they have toward the city—or he'd start proceedings at noon Monday to kick them out of Sicks' Stadium.

For Two Weeks

The ballclub said they'd come up with the required sureties when—and if—the city brought the stadium up to major league standards, as they say was agreed upon.

The impasse was broken hours before game time when the mayor agreed to hold things in abeyance for two weeks—so he could sit down and chat with AL prexy Joe Cronin, and with major Pilot stockholder Bill Kaley of Cleveland.

Rookie Fuentes' fine seven-hitter in the second game overshadowed the combined 10-hitter by Steve Barber and John Gelnar in the opener.

"It's too early to know for sure, but it looks like that youngster Fuentes is going to be one fine pitcher, ' said Chicago Manager Don Gutteridge. "He had lots of poise and was throwing good stuff."

Fuentes was called up Labor Day by the Pilots after recording an 8-2 record—with a 1.46 ERA—at Clinton in the Class A Midwest League.

Dirksen's Pet Projects Face Uncertain Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen may mark the fading of some of the late Senate Republican leader's pet projects— namely overturning two controversial Supreme Court decisions.

Dirksen was the champion of constitutional amendments which would undo high court rulings banning official prayers in public schools and requiring that state legislatures be elected on an equal population basis.

At the time of his death Sunday, the Illinois senator had been unsuccessful, but he was still pushing the amendments which would:

—Permit one house of each state legislature to be apportioned on the basis of factors other than population.

—Make it clear that nondenominational prayer is permissible in schools and other public buildings

A prayer amendment he proposed in 1966 won a 49-37 vote in the Senate, but this was eight short of the two-thirds majority needed.

His proposal would have provided that nothing in the Constitution "shall prohibit the authority administering any school, school system, educational institution or other public building supported in whole or in part through the expenditure of public funds from providing for or permitting the voluntary participation by students or others in prayer."

Dirksen continued telling newsmen this year he would try to hook the amendment onto some minor measure before the Senate if he couldn't get action any other way.

He also was hoping, despite two defeats in the Senate, for passage of the amendment to wipe out the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote rulings.

Dirksen had adopted the strategy of pushing for a constitutional convention. Earlier this year the move appeared near success, with the number of state legislatures petitioning Congress for a convention only one short of the number required.

However, challenges have been raised to the validity of a number of the petitions and there is a question now, with Dirksen's death, whether the momentum built up can be maintained.

Dirksen's influence also might have been important to another proposed constitutional amendment to overhaul the presidential election system.

As the ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee, Dirksen was in a position to push a proposal for choosing two electors at large in each state and the rest by districts—a plan he had indicated he favored.

The committee is divided sharply with some members urging direct popular election; others favoring a division of each state's electoral votes in proportion to the candidate's popular votes, and others for the district plan.

Fight on Everglades Jetport Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight over a proposed jet airport near the Florida Everglades appears far from over, despite reports to the contrary.

Richard H. Judy, deputy director of the Dade County Port Authority, says his group has no intention of relocating the giant jetport which conservationists fear would destroy the swamp and wildlife of Everglades National Park.

And a meeting scheduled for Wednesday here between Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel and Transportation Secretary John Volpe seems more likely to produce battle strategy than immediate victory.

Earlier Reports

Reports published last week quoted sources in Kirk's office as saying President Nixon had decided against the proposed jetport site nine miles north of the Everglades.

But any site decision must involve the Dade County Port Authority which is planning the airport and owns the proposed 38-square-mile site 45 miles west of Miami.

In a telephone interview, Judy said the authority has not considered or even agreed to consider a new site.

Nor has there been any federal or state pressure, so far, to do so—"none whatsoever," said Judy

"We are going to move ahead to develop the site as a training facility and continue our environmental studies toward developing it into an airport site," he said.

"But actually we have not yet made the decision to go commercial. Our environmental program will take two or three years and our decision process would come in 1972 or 1973."

Hickel confirmed there was no agreement so far with the county on a new jetport site.

"At this point we're just going to look at the options we have, and after the meeting we're going to come up with some recommendations,' Hickel said.

Hickel said he was not sure what steps could be taken if a relocation were to be sought.

Federal Aid

But another federal source noted the vast airport project probably would require federal aid, although the port authority has not yet asked for it.

The Federal Aviation Administration already is contributing some $713,000 toward construction—now well under way—of three one-mile long runways at the site, for training flights.

This is a small part of the total cost, estimated at $150 million, for a full-scale jetport with 6-mile runways.

"It could be within our resources to develop it without federal aid," said Judy, "but we feel that would be impractical at present."

Judy said the port authority views the airport plan as protection, rather than a threat, for the Everglades.

"We want the jetport," he said, "as a focus for a positive master plan for development that would protect the park for all time. All the rest of that land is privately owned, and if you think that area isn't going to develop, you're just putting your head in the sand."

Brown Faces Pair of Suits From Accident

SANTA MONICA, Calif (AP) — Actor Jim Brown faces trial Jan. 12 on an assault charge. He also has been named defendant in a $1.25 million lawsuit.

Arthur Charles Brush, 52, testified at a preliminary hearing Monday that after his car collided with Brown's Aug. 1 the former Cleveland Browns fullback refused to exchange identification. Then, said Brush, Brown drove his car toward him and when he jumped on the hood threw him off.

Judge Bernard Selber ruled there was enough evidence to try Brown, 33, who pleaded innocent to assault and leaving the scene of an accident.

Experiment in New York

Blind Teacher an Example for Young

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One little boy turned in a blank sheet of paper for classwork and several children tried to sneak out of their seats. But otherwise it was a normal first day of classes for New York's first blind public school teacher.

"I shall grade it accordingly with a zero," said the teacher, Alexander J. Chavich, 38. "I don't think I shall have to worry about a blank piece of paper again unless the guy is absolutely suicidal."

The students who attempted to leave their seats quickly discovered Chavich can slightly see light and was aware of their movement. He returned them to their seats, somewhat astonished.

But the day in Macombs Junior High School, located in a disadvantaged area of the Bronx, was not without problems, said Principal Milton Stier

Furniture had to be rigidly arranged so Chavich would not bump into it. Students were told to speak out for attention instead of raising their hands.

Chavich was excused from luncheon monitor duty when it became apparent he could not handle 500 youngsters swirling about.

His textbook is being transcribed into braille and he will hire, at his own expense, someone to read aloud written school work.

Overcome Handicap

"I've been told by my colleagues I was foolish to accept him,' said Stier, "but I think it's wonderful for the children not to the extent he's blind but that he's overcome it. They feel they will fail because they are disadvantaged. Here's a man who is really disadvantaged."

"It's also a good example for the teachers. If he can control his class, they who are fully sighted ought to be able to. What's their excuse?"

For the most part the students were fascinated with their new music teacher, asked him about his blindness and how he learned to read. Chavich explained about braille and distributed a leaflet about the blind in braille and print.

"An Experience"

"It was an experience," said Willis Burgess, 11, of the Bronx. "I hope the kids don't tease him."

Willis, whose grandmother is blind, said he was encouraged to see a blind man teaching.

For Chavich, a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the Manhattan School of Music, the teaching job signals the culmination of a long fight for a teacher's license.

"The day was very exciting, very busy and a tremendous learning experience," said Chavich, "Now I want to do some good teaching."

New England Prepares For Hurricane Gerda

for the off-shore summer resort islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket.

At Otis A.F.B. on Cape Cod, crewmen began removing planes at midmorning, flying them to inland havens.

Schools Closed

In the dozens of summer resort communities that dot the southeastern Massachusetts shoreline, boatmen struggled to secure their craft against the oncoming storm. Shopkeepers and homeowners boarded windows, and school children were sent home early.

Hundreds of pleasure craft remained at anchor in these towns, and officials said they feared loss of property would be extensive.

About 100 boats still were the water at Edgartown, on Martha's Vineyard, and Police Chief Dominick J. Arena said: "We're working like hell to get them buttoned down."

In addition, Arena said, a cruiser was notifying residents without telephones of the storm's approach.

Gerda, seventh storm of the season, graduated quickly from a tropical disturbance Sunday to a tropical storm at midday Monday and a hurricane six hours later.

New England was last pounded by a hurricane on Sept. 12, 1960, when Hurricane Donna left 148 dead and $30 million in damward Islands in the Caribbean to Maine.

In September 1954, Hurricanes Carol and Edna struck New England within two weeks, killing about 90 persons and doing $500 million in damages.

But residents still recall the "Great Hurricane" of Sept. 21, 1938, when 600 persons died and there were $200 million damages at depression prices. Providence, R.I., reported 13 feet of salt water in its downtown streets. Winds in Boston reached 186 m.p.h. and part of New London, Conn., was destroyed by fire.

Miami Stadium Filled by Exiles

MIAMI (AP) — Cuban exiles filled the 13,000-seat Miami Stadium Sunday night to pray to their "exiled" Roman Catholic patron saint for liberation of their country from the Fidel Castro regime.

They prayed to the Virgin of Charity of Cobre, whose statue was brought to Miami by anti-Castro Cubans who had first taken it to the former Panamaman Embassy in Havana, where they took temporary asylum.

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Officials at Henderson's new post office had no stamps to sell when the first patrons arrived Monday.

The post office had been burglarized during the night of all stamps and $600 to $700 in cash.

Talks With Poland

Kiesinger said he was ready to talk with the Polish government about Germany's eastern borders but Polish Communist Party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka "only wants us to recognize the Oder-Neisse Line as Germany's eastern border." He said the border can only be settled by "all the German people through a peace treaty; this, therefore, is closely tied to the problem of reunification."

"But this need not prevent us beforehand from seeking a solution acceptable to both peoples," he added.

Kiesinger said he also is ready to talk with the Soviet Union, provided the talks are "well prepared in advance and offer a chance for results." But he said Moscow still demands "renunciation of reunification in freedom" and this is not acceptable to the West Germans.

DeGalle's Retirement

He predicted that German-French relations would not be affected by Charles de Gaulle's retirement from the French presidency.

"German-French relations have much to thank de Gaulle," he said, "but they began before him and took form in a treaty which has survived the change in personalities. Even relations with other Western European states will not be deeply affected by the change in presidents. The German people have no other wish than—as is written in our constitution—to serve world peace as an equal partner in a united Europe."

He also repeated his opposition to the revaluation of the German mark, observing: "The number of arguments against revaluation appear to be increasing rather than decreasing."

Orioles Magic Number Dips to Eight

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore and Minnesota didn't do very much Monday night—the Orioles were rained out and the Twins lost—but still drew closer to the expected October playoff for the American League pennant.

While the Orioles were washed out of their scheduled meeting with the Washington and second-place Detroit Tigers moved to the New York Yankees and fell 15 games back Baltimore's magic number to clinch the AL East dropped to eight.

In the West, California nipped Minnesota 6-4 but runner-up Oakland lost to Kansas City 7-3. The Twins remained 8½ games in front and their magic number is 16.

Elsewhere, Boston nipped Cleveland 5-4 and Seattle swept the Chicago White sox 2-1 and 5-1 as rookie Miguel Fuentes hurled a seven-hitter in his first major league start.

Stop Hitting Streak

The Angels did a thorough job on Minnesota routing 17-game winner Jim Perry and halting Ted Uhlaender's 20-game hitting streak, longest in the league this season.

Rudy May, 8-11, needed help from Ken Tatum in the eighth and the rookie right-hander posted his 18th save. Perry was seeking to match his career high in victories, set with Cleveland in 1960, but came away instead with his sixth loss.

California nicked Perry for two runs in the third—Sandy Alomar scoring the first one when he sped home from third base on Jim Fregosi's looping pop to second baseman Cesar Tovar in shallow right field. The Angels added four more in the fifth, Alomar igniting the uprising with a single.

Bob Allison cracked a three-run homer for the Twins in the sixth.

Rookie Al Fitzmorris posted his first big league victory with three innings of scoreless relief as Kansas City sent slump-ridden Oakland to its 11th defeat in 14 games.

Pinch Hit Homer

Bob Oliver's two-run pinch homer in the fifth wiped out a Oakland lead and Lou Piniella drove in the go-ahead run in the eighth with a sacrifice fly. The Royals added three more in the ninth, two on Joe Keough's single.

A crowd of only 2,791, second smallest in Oakland Coliseum history, watched the game.

Gene Michael knocked in two runs with singles and pitcher Mike Kekich, 2-4, drove in another as the Yankees edged Detroit and sent the defending world champions closer to elimination.

Kekich allowed just three hits in 7 2-3 innings—including Jim Northrup's 20th homer—before Jack Aker came on to preserve the left-hander's first win of 1969 as a starter.

George Scott's two-run, two-out single in the eighth lifted the Red Sox past Cleveland. Rico Petrocelli and Tony Conigliaro homered for Boston.

Lost His Shutout

Fuentes, a 20-year-old right-hander brought up last week from the Pilots' Class A farm team in the Midwest League, lost his shutout against the White Sox in the eighth when Angel Bravo tripled and scored on a single by Walt Williams.

Seattle's Steve Whitaker and Chicago's Budy Bradford homered in the opener and the Pilots scored the winning run in the third when Tommy Harper walked, swiped his 66th base and eventually trotted home on a bases-loaded walk to Don Mincher.

Mrs. Gloudemans Hits 561 Series In Queen's Loop

Verona Gloudemans, one of the top women keglers in the Fox Cities last season, picked up where she left off by hitting games of 202 and 203 for a 561 series in the Queen's Classic League at Sabre Lanes Monday night.

Phyllis Ludwig also jolted a 561 series to take a share of the individual honors and Julie Hidde had high game with a 215. Julie finished with a 544 series and other high scores included Joan Kolosso with a 211 line and 547 series, Althea Acker had a 204 game and 542 series and Bea Albrecht had a 202 game and 541 total.

Nancy Webster hit a 215 game and 526 series to top the Lucky League at Sabre Lanes last night.

In the Ladies League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes, Judy Schomish fired a 508 game and Joan Burke was next in line with a 506 count.

The homer was the first for Martinez in the majors.

A home run from another unlikely source, Ted Sizemore, brought Los Angeles its victory over Atlanta. Sizemore's two-run shot in the third inning—only his second homer and both in Atlanta—gave the Dodgers the only runs they needed behind Bill Singer and Jim Brewer.

The Astros put it out of San Diego's reach with a four-run first built on triples by Joe Morgan and Jesus Alou, a wild pitch, a walk and a homer by Curt Blefary. That was enough for Tom Griffin, who posted his 10th victory despite two homers by Nate Colbert.

Clinching Blow

Mike Shannon's two-run homer boosted the Cardinals lead over the Phillies to 4-0 in the sixth inning and turned out to be the clinching blow when Philadelphia struck back in the ninth on a three-run homer by Johnny Briggs.

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW by John Behnke

Of all the sports events ever on TV, in history, did you ever wonder which one attracted the biggest audience? . . . What's your guess? . . . The answer, perhaps surprisingly, is not a football game, but the 4th game of the 1968 baseball World Series . . . The game that got the next highest all-time audience, according to surveys, was the 4th game of the 1963 World Series . . . And the game that got the third-highest audience in TV history was the 1968 Super Bowl football game.

Here's an oddity about the great automobile racing driving, Mario Andretti . . . Did you know that Andretti was actually driving in auto races when he was only 13 years old! . . . He was born and brought up in Italy and managed to start driving in competition there at age 13 . . . He came to America when he was 18.

And, here's an oddity between football and baseball that many fans don't realize . . . In football, the sidelines are out-of-bounds (when a player steps on the sideline, he's considered out-of-bounds) — but in baseball the foul lines are IN-bounds, and a batted ball that hits or stays on the foul line is in fair territory . . . Isn't it odd that football and baseball consider their lines so differently.

I bet you didn't know . . . The new chest stripe sweaters are here by Jersild, in bamboo, green sod, midnite blue.

The Van's Lanes Team of Wrightstown won the sportsmanship award in the ASA-sanctioned World 16-Inch Softball Tournament at Sheboygan over the weekend. Van's, 17-3 going into the tourney, dropped games to St. Louis (11-7) and Sioux Falls, S. D., (8-7 in 11 innings) in bowing out of the double elimination meet. Members of the team, in front from left, are: Tom VanderHeiden, Ray Van Zeeland, Manager Lloyd Gussert, Dick Borree, and Dan Haring. Back row: Jerry Ederer, "Butch" Vandewacht, Dale Schmidt, Paul Koeppel, Russ Aerts, Robert Weyenberg, Cliff Van DeLoo, and Ken Fassbender. Absent when the picture was taken were Tom Ribarchek, Joe DeBruin, Rich Diedrich and LeRoy Dake.

Iron Man Act For Ralston?

California Net Star Could Play 5 Matches Today

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., faced an iron man task in the closing rounds of the men's doubles and mixed doubles today in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The tournament has been delayed by rain.

Directors announced plans to complete both the men's doubles and mixed doubles on the 14th and final day, and Ralston is in both divisions. He could be forced to compete in five matches. First prize in men's doubles is $3,000, mixed doubles $2,000.

Ralston and his partner, Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, led the top-seeded team of Tony Roche and John Newcombe 6-4 and 3-2 in the second set with a service break when the match was called Monday because of darkness.

If Ralston and Pasarell should win, they would then play Rod Laver and Roy Emerson of Australia for the right to meet Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle in the finals.

In the mixed doubles, Ralston and Francoise Durr of France are in the semifinals, where they must play the husband-wife team of Peter and Mary Ann Curtis of Britain for the right to meet Margaret Court and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill.

Tops of Season

Gehring Rolls 673, With Game of 266

Keith Gehring got the Appleton Builders Bowling League off to a fast start Monday night by hitting games of 266 and 225 on his way to a 673 series at Hahn's Lanes.

Gehring's set was the highest recorded so far this season in the Fox Cities area.

Laurie Grobe was runnerup in the Builders loop with a 612 series while Wally Cotton boomed a 234 game and 580 series, Wally Roeck had a 226 line and 588 set and Mike Riste rolled 581.

Howard Theisen's 235 singleton was the lone honor score in the 41 Bowl League last night.

Gunnar Voltz jolted a 233 game and 792 series for four games to set the pace in the Sabre Lanes All-Star Classic League last night.

Dave Nagan hit a 230 game in the All-Star circuit and other top counts included Ken Gradl 788, Jim Kluba 787, Lloyd Kelliher 786, and Jack Ahrens 778.

In the Appleton City Employes League at Sabre Lanes, Marge DeYoung of the only women's team in the circuit swept honors with a 231 game and 536 series.

Frank Kamps rolled a 581 series to lead the action in the Knights of Columbus American League at the 41 Bowl Monday night.

Bill Johnson smacked a 235 game and George Schroeder rolled a 576 series to divide honors in the Tri-City Men's League at the 41 Bowl last night.

Dick Guerts topped the Tavern League at Hahn's last Friday when he rolled a 247 game and 620 series. Ed Flood was next in line with a 233 game and 615 series while Ralph Lutz fired 613. John Meunier had 602 and Al Seemann rolled 596.

hour, 35 minutes late because of a flash shower.

When it was finally started, after a helicopter was flown into the concrete stands to dry the wet grass, oinly two sets and one game could be played before the action had to be stopped again for 30 minutes.

The center court was so chopped up that it looked as if Arnold Palmer had been practicing nine-iron shots for two hours. Divots were as big as baseballs.

Both players were cold and unsteady in the opening set and there were seven service breaks —a rarity in men's tennis—before the set was finally decided in Roche's favor.

Five Service Breaks

There were five service breaks in the space of six games, starting at the seventh.

The two players were so much alike—both quick as cats with strong, high-kicking services and lashing top-spin backhands —that the only way the fans could tell them apart was by Rod's shock of flaming hair.

Roche finally got the seventh service break, his fourth, in the 15th game. Laver started his delivery with a double-fault but managed to get to 30-30 on a dubious line call.

Then Roche went to advantage with a beautiful spinning lob that Laver barely returned and Roche smashed for a winner. On the break point, the younger Aussie returned a sharp backhand to Laver's left and Laver netted.

Takes Command

Laver was down 30-40 in the opening game of the second set but he pulled it out. From then on, it was a slaughter.

Laver rolled to a 5-0 lead before Roche finally held service for a game, then the new champion clinched it with a love-game, climaxing the set with an ace.

He didn't permit a point the last three games he served in the second set.

Laver got a quick break in the third game of the third set, and broke again in the seventh. By this time, Roche appeared almost groggy from the beating he was taking.

The fourth set was a rout conference linebacker Del Camp. Top returnees are Topper Steinmann, defensive ace and co-captain, and Jim Bauer, a stand-out in the offensive line.

GRINNELL — Well-stocked with lettermen in the line, Grinnell's No. 1 problem area may be lack of running backs. Among Coach Edd Bowers' 19 lettermen are linemen Bruce Rollins, Mark Hamilton, Alex Karlin, Jim Edwards, Larry Grimm and Doug Lewis, together with quarterback Gary Johnson. Grinnell lost all-conference back Don Kraitsick and four second all-loop choices. Nine potential soph starters are on the 40-man squad.

CORNELL — Three veterans playing both ways will have key roles — Ward Nelson, guard-linebacker who was all-conference both offensively and defensively, and backs Mark Steger and Pat Luther. Major loss for Coach Jerry Clark was Joe Campanelli, twice all-conference end and No. 5 conference scorer. With no frosh team last year, Cornell will have few replacements available. Half of the 30-man squad are lettermen.

COE — Returning are all of Coe's receivers to go with all-conference quarterback John Raaz but Coach Glenn Drahn lost heavily in the line, including two all-conference men, guard Leland Seibert and tackle Paul Beilfuss. The 26 lettermen among the 45 hopefuls include Steve Gray, all conference back, and second all-conference end Mike Harris and back Ted Solomon. Six sophs may be starters, including halfback Gary Benson.

CARLETON — Quarterback John Snowberg and end John Becker are among the top returnees among the 19 lettermen on the squad of 42. However, Coach Mel Taube lost a half a dozen starters, including second all-loop guard Dennis McGraw. The squad lacks size but is expected to be "quick," led by such stand-outs as flanker Jeff Jacobsen, fullback Terriquez, linemen Thiel and Erickson and defensive backs Rickey, Crowley and O'Connell.

BELOIT — Coach Dick Teteak has problems up front in depth and experience with only nine lettermen on hand. The 29-man squad is the smallest in the conference. The club has experienced talent in the offensive backfield and at ends. Key to the offense will be veteran quarterback Daryl Raabe.

Aaron Says He Can't Tolerate Club's Radio Announcer Any Longer

By RON SPEER

ATLANTA (AP) — The super slugger of the Atlanta Braves is feuding with the club's radio announcer and Hank Aaron says if the dispute isn't settled he may give up on his newly announced goal of passing Babe Ruth on the home run chart.

Announcer Milo Hamilton says Aaron is the first athlete "after thousands of games I have broadcast" who has ever criticized him.

Aaron said Monday night that he has his sights set on passing Ruth's home run total of 714, but he added that he will not tolerate broadcasts by Hamilton "four or five more years."

The two have been bickering since Hamilton two seasons ago, while introducing Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh at a Braves' booster club meeting, said the Pirates' outfielder had been named the all-star right-fielder despite Aaron's claim to the job.

Stil Is Upset

Aaron was upset then, and he still is, according to his comments in an interview with Wilt Browning, baseball writer for the Atlanta Journal.

Aaron, despite striking out for the final out in a loss to Los Angeles Monday night, conceded to Browning that he would like to play long enough to break Ruth's home run record.

Aaron, in his 16th season and with 39 homers this year, has a lifetime chart of 549 home runs. Ruth, in 22 seasons, hit 714.

"I just want the Braves to get Hamilton off my back," Aaron said. "I would like seriously to go for Babe Ruth's record. I think I could do it—and that's the only time I've ever confessed it.

"But I am not going to live under this situation for four or five years."

From Every Angle

Aaron said he refuses to "get chewed up on the radio. I'd like to play under a different atmosphere. I've been abused from every angle, and I've lived with it, but not any more."

Aaron said he would feel better "if the man would come to my face, but he stands behind that mike and does what he has to do."

Hamilton, who said he has 25 years in the business, contended Aaron has never complained to him, and he described the 35-year-old Atlanta slugger as a "great baseball player."

But Hamilton also said that he feels Aaron has been adequately publicized on the Braves' broadcasts, and he added that the only reason he makes more money than Aaron is that "I am also considered to be a very successful freelance announcer.

Earn That Money

"I am heard over 600 radio and television stations daily from coast to coast to earn that money."

Hamilton said he was upset that Aaron had complained.

"It does seem peculiar to me that of all the years I've been on the air, and of all the players I have known of all sports, and the thousands of games I have broadcast, only one player has criticized me," Hamilton said.

"That one player has been doing it steadily for the last four years," Hamilton said. "That player is Henry Aaron."

Aaron is having one of his best years, with a batting average of .311, 86 runs batted in and 39 homers.

best score on the board until Babb came in with his card late in the afternoon.

Cards 4 Birdies

The 25-year-old Babb, who grew up living across from Reid's No. 4 green, was even par 35 on the front nine but then knocked in four birdies on the back (No.'s 10, 12, 13, and 17) to come in with a 4-under 32.

"I just came up with some good shots," he related calmly later.

One of his best was the eagle three on the par 5, 480-yard first hole. After hitting a 4-iron on to the green with his second shot, Babb rammed home a 10-foot putt.

His longest putt of the day was a 30-footer on No. 13 for one of his birds. "That's the putt that got me going," he pointed out

Manier had only 27 putts for his round, counting 10 one-putt greens. "My putting was good, and I had some real fine chipping," the 26-year old bachelor explained. "Many of my chips were within 18 inches of the cup," he added

Manier had a one-under 34 on the front and one-under 35 on the back. He, too, nearly had an eagle on No 1 when his wedge shot rolled close to the cup. He settled for a birdie on the hole.

Bencriscutto had par 35 on the front and two-under 34 on the back. He eagled No. 10, bogied 17, but then came back with a birdie on 18.

In at 1-under-par 70s were amateur Chuck Bayer and pros Fred Henckel of the Oshkosh Country Club and Oneida's Langert. Bayer carded 35-35, Henckel 34-36, and Langert 34-36.

Grouped at 71 were Manitowocs 6-foot, 8-inch amateur Pete Hansen (34-37) and pros Roy Wallin of Big Foot (37-34) and Branch River's Bob Swift (35-36).

Babb's total of 67 copped low gross honors. Low net was taken by Bill Falatick, an 18-handicapper who fired on 81 for the day.

The winning team was comprised of Butte des Morts pro All Starr, who shot a 72 (35-37); John Lindberg (36-35-71), Bill Tordoer (38-38 — 76), and former Packer Fuzzy Thurston (40-43 — 83). The quartet totaled 163 points under the "Chicago Point System."

Another ex-Packer, Max McGee, came in with an 85.

Collecting prizes for closest to the pin were Dan Wildenberg, Jr; Reid pro Mitch Joannes; Rich O'Brien; Janesville pro Ken Hulen; Branch River pro Bob Swift; and Appleton amateur Syl Bayer.

13 Strikeouts Against Cubs

Koosman Corrected His Faults

NEW YORK (AP) — The badgering had begun to bug Jerry Koosman. Everywhere he went the same question about why his strikeout quota had slipped so steeply.

"I decided to find out the answer," said Koosman, after pitching the New York Mets to a 3-2 victory over Chicago Monday night that trimmed the Cubs' first-place margin in the National League's East Division to a slim 1½ games.

"I looked at some stop action photos of myself," said Koosman, "and I saw it right away. The position of my hand after releasing the ball was all wrong. I wasn't getting the proper spin on the ball.

"Also, I saw that I was rushing my body, not giving myself a chance to get out in front. Thank goodness for cameras."

Corrected Faults

So Koosman, armed with the knowledge of what he had been doing wrong, set out to correct the faults. You'd have to say he did a pretty good job off his seven-hit, 13-strikeout performance that beat the Cubs.

Koosman not only squared away his pitching form, but he landed smack dab in the middle of a beanball squabble—a spot he really didn't enjoy

Tommie Agee, the Mets' leadoff batter in the first inning, went sprawling on Bill Hands' first pitch of the game.

Ron Santo, leading off the Cubs' second, took Koosman's first pitch on the right wrist.

Koosman, bunting in the third, ducked a pitch that was moving rapidly towards his forehead In the eighth, Koosman had to hit the dirt again.

"I don't mind being knocked down," said Agee, who got up to hit a two-run homer and a double, "as long as I know my team will retaliate."

2-Run Homer

Agee gave the Cubs plenty to be concerned about the rest of the night. He tagged a two-run homer in the third.

After the Cubs tied the score in the sixth on singles by Don Kessinger, Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams and Santo's sacrifice fly, Agee opened the bottom half of the inning with a hit that he hustled into a double Wayne Garrett followed with a single and Agee raced for home He slid across the plate, barely beating Jim Hickman's throw, to score the winning run.

That was enough for Koosman, who protected the one-run edge tenaciously. The Mets' most nervous moment came in the eighth when Beckert and Williams opened with singles. But Santo hit into a double play and Ernie Banks struck out.

It was the fourth victory in five games for New York and fifth straight loss for the Cubs. The Mets have chopped 3½ games off Chicago's lead in the last four days.

If the Mets make it a two-game sweep by also taking the finale tonight the Cubs will stumble out of New York with only a half-game edge. The league's leading pitcher, Tom Seaver (20-7) will go for New York against Ken Holtzman (16-9).

Gifts Aren't Taxable, but Make Certain They're Gifts

To the cab driver, the tips he collected were just friendly gestures by his grateful passengers. When the government tried to impose an income tax on his money, he protested:

"Tips are not income in that sense. They are merely gifts. After all, my passengers don't have to tip me if they don't want to. It is purely voluntary."

But a court held that the tips, even though voluntary, were indeed taxable income. The court pointed out that the tips were paid not as a matter of charity or personal affection but as an extra reward for work done

How does the government decide whether money that you receive is a gift, hence non-taxable, or income, hence taxable? The main test is the intent with which it is given It will not qualify as a gift if it is really a form of compensation for value received or expected.

Thus, a company's "wedding gift" to an employee was held to be taxable income. Reason: the surrounding circumstances showed that the money was actually a bonus for his long and loyal service to the firm.

This rule applies not only to money but also to merchandise. An executive had to pay income tax on an automobile given to him by a business friend for whom he had done valuable favors — and might again.

On the other hand, even though money is paid by a company to its own employee, it may still qualify as a gift, not income, if that is the company's true intent. For example:

A company gave checks to a number of its employees who had suffered personal loses in a tornado. Because these payments were geared to individual needs rather than to services rendered, they were held to be "gratuitous and spontaneous"—thus, true gifts.

LONDON (AP) — In a survey of London buying habits, 74 per cent of the housewives polled said buying Christmas presents was a bore and a chore, and 84 per cent said they disliked shopping for food.

New England Battens Down For Hurricane

Gerda Expected To Strike Land At 100 m.p.h.

BOSTON (AP) — Residents of New England's weathered Atlantic shoreline raced against time today to brace themselves for Hurricane Gerda, a fast-moving storm born almost overnight southwest of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The storm, packing 90-100-mile-per-hour winds and churning up 30-40-foot seas, was trundling north-northeastward at 40 m.p.h.—unusually fast for a hurricane—and was expected to roar across Cape Cod around noon (EDT).

Its position at 9 a.m. was about 150 miles south the outward tip of Long Island, N.Y.

Urgency cloaked eastern New England as the area prepared for the storm. But despite the atmosphere, there remained doubt about whether residents would be ready for the blow.

"It's coming mighty fast," a Weather Bureau official said. "We've only had a few hours. It could be treacherous."

150 Boats at Sea

So quickly did the storm develop, in fact, that at least 150 fishing boats from southeastern New England ports were reported caught at sea.

A Coast Guard official said most probably would be able to ride out the storm safely.

"But it'll be rough," he added.

Hurricane warnings extended from Block Island, R.I., northward to Eastport, Maine. Gale warnings were up for most of the rest of the Northeast coast.

The Weather Bureau warned that flooding was likely along the shoreline, and added that it probably would be "major" on the cape.

Similar warnings were issued for the off-shore summer resort islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket.

At Otis A.F.B. on Cape Cod, crewmen began removing planes at midmorning, flying them to inland havens.

Schools Closed

In the dozens of summer resort communities that dot the southeastern Massachusetts shoreline, boatmen struggled to secure their craft against the oncoming storm. Shopkeepers and homeowners boarded windows, and school children were sent home early.

Hundreds of pleasure craft remained at anchor in these towns, and officials said they feared loss of property would be extensive.

About 100 boats still were the water at Edgartown, on Martha's Vinevard, and Police Chief Dominick J. Arena said: "We're working like hell to get them buttoned down."

In addition, Arena said, a

Air, Ground Attack Launched

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli aircraft and armored units thrust into Egypt across the Gulf of Suez today in a raid on Egyptian army positions, the Israeli army announced.

It was the biggest action reported on the Egyptian-Israeli front since the 1967 Middle East war.

The 10-hour operation ranged over a 30-mile stretch of the Egyptian shore, a military spokesman reported.

One Israeli plane was lost and the pilot parachuted into the Gulf of Suez, he said.

In Cairo, the military command reported Israeli planes tried to raid Egyptian territory in the Gulf of Suez area but made no reference to a ground attack. It said antiaircraft gunners engaged the Israeli planes, which were trying to attack Egyptian coastal observation positions.

The attack began at 2 a.m., and lasted until noon, the Israeli spokesman continued.

The Israelis used naval vessels to take their armor across the 25-mile-wide gulf.

He listed Israeli casualties as one soldier wounded and claimed dozens of Egyptian soldiers were killed or wounded and "heavy damage caused" to Egyptian equipment.

Hit Soviet Missiles

The planes bombed and strafed artillery batteries and units of the Soviet-built surface to air—SAM—missiles, he said.

The action raged between El Hasayer and Ras Za' Farana, 60 miles south of the port of Suez at the southern end of the Suez Canal.

The raid came on the heels of a sea battle in the same general area Monday. In that engagement, Israel claimed to have sunk two Egyptian torpedo boats. Cairo said one Egyptian boat was hit but not sunk and asserted the Egyptians sank an Israeli vessel.

In the latest raid, the Israelis claimed to have destroyed army bases and encampments, vehicles, radar stations and buildings.

No Resistance

The Egyptians put up no air or sea resistance, the spokesman said. The raid came after what the spokesman called continued and initiated Egyptian aggression.

This was the biggest attack by Israel on any Arab power since the raid into Jordan in March 1968, when Israeli forces hit an Arab commando base at Karameh. This day-long action also supported by tanks and planes, killed more than 120 guerrillas, the Israelis claimed then.

Some quarters in Tel Aviv thought there might be a connection between the raid on Egyptian army installations and the sea battle Monday.

A spokesman in Tel Aviv said Israeli commandos attacked the Egyptian boats in the Gulf of Suez near Ras Sadat, an Egyptian torpedo base 12 miles south of the Suez Canal. Three of the Israelis were killed in a "technical mishap" aboard their vessel as they returned to their base, the spokesman said.

Cairo said only that an Egyptian patrol sank an Israeli boat during a naval encounter 12 miles east of the city of Suez. It reported one crewman of an Egyptian boat was injured.

Dirksen's Body in Capitol

Nixon to Deliver Eulogy

WASHINGTON (AP)—While a lonely marigold marks his vacant Senate desk, Everett M. Dirksen lies in state today beneath the Capitol's soaring dome to receive the nation's tribute.

Dirksen, the Senate's Republican leader until his death Sunday, is the 21st American since Abraham Lincoln to be so honored.

Following the reading of the 23rd Psalm by Senate Chaplain the Rev. Dr. L. R. Elson, the Dirksen family asked President Nixon to deliver the eulogy for the man the President had called "my warm personal friend."

The casket, resting on the same catafalque that carried Lincoln's body and attended by a military honor guard, is to remain on view in the rotunda until, at noon Wednesday, it is carried by hearse to National Presbyterian Church for funeral services.

Burial in Illinois

The senator's family has accepted the President's offer of his personal plane—Air Force One—to fly them and the senator's body to burial services Thursday at Pekin, Dirksen's small-town birthplace on the Illinois prairie.

However, Nixon will not attend the burial, sending Vice President Spiro T. Agnew instead.

Dirksen was the fourth senator—and third from his state—to lie in state in the capitol rotunda. His casket rested on the black velvet catafalque that has borne the bodies of presidents, soldiers and statesmen since Lincoln's funeral 104 years ago.

The other senators were Charles Sumner of Massachusetts, an antislavery leader who died in 1874; John A. Logan, a Civil War general, Republican leader and successful vice presidential candidate who died in 1886; and Robert A. Taft of Ohio who, like Dirksen, was the elected leader of Senate Republicans.

Logan, like Lincoln and Dirksen, was also from Illinois.

Marigold on Desk

Monday morning, moments before the Senate's 11 o'clock opening, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine—who has made the rose she always wears her personal symbol—placed a long-stemmed marigold, tied with a white ribbon, on Dirksen's front-row desk.

Sen. Smith, who placed a rose on the desk President John F. Kennedy had used as a senator following his 1963 assasination, was one of many who remembered that Dirksen liked marigolds so much he made an annual Senate speech to unsuccessfully champion their cause as a national flower.

A vase of marigolds stood near Dirksen's desk in his memento-cluttered Capitol office as his staff talked endlessly into telephones.

A floor below, a cashier in the Senate cafeteria told how she had gone to her garden for marigolds early in the morning "because the senator always liked to see them here."

Memorial Library

Dirksen's family has asked that no flowers be sent to memorial services for him. Instead, they have asked donations to go to the Dirksen Memorial Library, planned in Pekin to house the papers and memorabilia the senator gathered during his long career.

"All of this stuff will go out there now," an aide said, waving his hand over an office filled with paintings, awards, and busts of Socrates, Lincoln, John F. Kennedy and Dirksen himself.

In an adjoining room, overstuffed leather arm chairs were clustered around a corner bar.

Against a wall stood a safe, used by Dirksen to hold confidential Senate papers and classified material.

A sign attached to it said, "Closed."

Quietly, Republicans Begin Searching for a Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans now anticipate a wide-open contest—with the White House likely to take an active role—for the Senate leader's job left vacant by Everett M. Dirksen's death.

At least five GOP senators, and possibly more, are rated prospective candidates.

For the moment, and probably for the remainder of this Dirksen funeral week, no Republican senator is willing to talk frankly and publicly about the looming leadership race.

"Shouldn't Take Long"

GOP sources indicated the prospective senators to succeed Dirksen are likely to wait, taking their own soundings of support, before deciding whether to openly enter the competition.

Although one senator said, "It shouldn't take too long to contact 43 Republicans," indications are even the contact work won't begin immediately.

One Republican considering running for the job said with Dirksen's funeral planned Wednesday, such an effort at sampling support would seem out of place.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, now acting Republican leader, refused to discuss his possible candidacy to win the job permanently. "My responsibility is just to carry on until other arrangements are made," he said.

Those arrangements will be made at a conference of Republican senators, not yet scheduled, to vote on Dirksen's successor.

The liberal Republican Scott is certain to face a conservative challenge if, as expected, he bids for the top GOP job.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska and Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado are rated prime prospects among the more conservative Republicans. Sen. John Tower of Texas said he would be available but did not expect to be summoned to the task.

GOP sources said the White House certainly would be interested and involved in the Senate situation. One Republican said the administration would probably side with the more conservative wing of the party.

Possible Compromise

Sen. James B. Pearson of Kansas, known to be interested in the leadership, is regarded as a possible compromise candidate. He is not closely identified with either wing of the party.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan is another man in the middle category. Griffin, however, has been in the Senate for only three years, and is regarded as a longshot possibility.

One senior Republican said he anticipated conservatives would join forces behind a single candidate, probably either Allott or Hruska, to avoid splintering their votes in a contest with Scott.

Kiesinger Says:

U.S. 'Must' Stay Strong In W. Europe

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Kurt-George Kiesinger said today that Western Europe must look indefinitely to the nuclear and conventional might of the United States for protection.

"Europe will not be able to do without the protection of American weapons—conventional as well as atomic—for an indefinite period," the West German government chief said in response to a series of written questions from The Associated Press.

The chancellor observed that a large-scale reduction of the American presence in Europe "would be of considerable consequences" and not for West Germany only.

Increased Costs

The burden of European defense costs would rise considerably if the United States greatly reduced its contribution in men and funds. Asked if West Germany would be willing to bear such increased defense costs, Kiesinger replied:

"The political unification of Europe is the answer to your question. European and American members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization must jointly develop a long-range concept that excludes dangerous risks to the security of all members of the alliance."

He indicated that he thinks President Nixon is going along with a stand Kiesinger has already made public: that America should lead, not dominate, Europe. Asked which he thought the United States was doing, Kiesinger replied:

"The American President shares my view and his policies are in accord with our mutual conviction."

Bundestag Elections

Turning to domestic politics, the leader of the Christian Democratic Party said it was "by no means certain" that the NPD, the ultra-nationalist National Democratic Party, will win its first seats in the Bundestag in the national elections Sept. 28.

If the NPD does get into the lower house of parliament, Kiesinger continued, "I am of the opinion that we will be able to cope with the NPD without difficulty as far as internal politics are concerned.

"It is a different matter with

American GIs 'Not Looking for Fights'

SAIGON (AP) — American forces probably will continue to curtail their offensive operations if the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese maintain their present low level of activity after the truce for the funeral of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh ends Thursday, U.S. sources said today.

"We want to keep the negotiating door open," said one ranking officer. "We're not looking for fights. We're just trying to provide an atmosphere for pacification and security, and if the other side decides to keep things secure, we couldn't be happier."

Only light action was reported across South Vietnam today in the second day of the truce. But U.S. officials considered it most unlikely that the enemy would continue the cease-fire long after the announced expiration time.

The U.S. Command said that since the Viet Cong cease-fire began at 1 a.m. Monday, the enemy had made 10 significant attacks on American forces. U.S. casualties in these actions were put at four killed and 29 wounded, while two enemy were known dead.

South Vietnamese headquarters said that between 1 a.m. Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday, there were 26 "enemy-initiated incidents aimed at South Vietnamese units and civilians." It said 34 South Vietnamese had been killed in these actions and 60 wounded.

The Saigon government said its air force had flown 60 sorties in the past 24 hours, while its ground troops conducted 57 operations of battalion size or larger. A spokesman said all of the operations were not offensive in scope.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu had announced on Sunday that his army would not observe the cease-fire, but U.S. officials under pressure from Washington prevailed on him Monday to join in an undeclared truce. The American and South Vietnamese commands said in a joint communique that their military operations would be scaled in accordance with the enemy's.

Study Planned On Airport Manager Need

Committee Request For Fulltime Man Draws Criticism

A proposal for hiring a fulltime Outagamie County airport manager drew some criticism Monday afternoon and will be delayed until a study is made of comparable airports.

Expressing doubt on the need for a fulltime man, County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler and Board Vice Chairman Marvin Babbitt contended the airport is not large or busy enough to justify paying the fulltime salary.

However, when asked directly by county board airport committeemen, both county leaders declined to again express total opposition.

Questioned by one committeeman, Esler said: "I wouldn't say because maybe we do."

Study Other Ports

Esler called for a study of other airports by the county board personnel committee before it supported the airport committee recommendation.

Supv. Edward Spierings, Little Chute, reminded Esler and the personnel committeemen that "a great number of the board insisted we come in with it (fulltime managerial position)" a year ago. The airport committee declined to because it lacked office space for a fulltime manager.

Airport Committee Chairman John Dietz, Appleton, also noted the State Division of Aeronautics has told the county it should have a fulltime manager to promote the growth of the airport.

The county board airport committee made a study earlier which showed the Green Bay and Oshkosh airports have less traffic than Outagamie but have fulltime managers, who are paid $12,500 per year.

Babbitt said that compared to the Green Bay airport (Austin Straubel Field), "ours is just a piddle jumper."

"At our airport, you don't need a manager you need a maintenance man," he added.

The personnel committee also will study the need for secretarial help for a fulltime manager.

The airport committee, which has hinted it prefers present part-time manager Charles Olson for the fulltime job, has recommended secretarial help and has been assured office space in the planned Civil Air Patrol building.

Testimonial for Justice

Whalen Lauded for Service

WAUPACA — Solemn tribute and high praise were given George Whalen, recently retired municipal justice of Waupaca County, Monday, by state, county and city officials, together with members of the Waupaca Bar Association and friends.

The tone of the testimonial dinner, attended by 60 persons at the Waupaca Country Club was "He called 'em as he saw 'em."

Attorney Richard E. Johnson, master of ceremonies, lauded Whalen's 22 years as police and municipal justice.

"We are here to express our pent up feeling of affection and respect for a man and his wife, who have earned honor the hard way," he said. "Through 22 years of dedicated service in one of the most difficult and demanding positions in the entire judicial system, Justice Whalen made his mark.

Difficult Position

"I have always felt that the office of justice of peace from a purely personal point of view, is the hardest on the individual of any of our judicial positions. We quite properly wrap around our county courts and circuit courts, as well as the Supreme Court, a protective air of judicial dignity that we have not always granted to our justice courts," he continued.

"I have heard lawyers, sometimes somewhat condescending in their attitude toward the legal knowlege of a layman justice, argue with the justice in open court in totally unprofessional manner," Johnson said. "I have heard laymen in court, berate, curse, even threaten the justice because of decisions he has made. Yet, despite these problems and operating under the pressures of a case load that often exceeded 100 cases a week, I have never, none of us has ever, seen Justice Whalen lose his temper or his composure in the courtroom, or operate his court in other than a thoroughly judicial manner."

Plaque and Gavel

The Waupaca Bar Association presented Whalen with a plaque and gavel "for years of integrity, loyalty and justice."

Whalen accepted the accolade and spoke about the hard work, cooperation and enjoyment through the years. He gave much of the credit to his wife, Margaret, who served as his secretary for 17 of those years.

By the time his court became a municipal justice court in 1962, it was considered the outstanding and one of the busiest courts in the state of Wisconsin, Johnson said.

"The Waupaca Municipal Justice Court was always courteous, impartial, fair — dedicated to uphold what was right." It was abolished by the Waupaca City Council, officially on Sept 2.

New School Cost Figures Expected in 2 to 3 Weeks

Chilton Officials Aim for Referendum in November On Proposed Construction

CHILTON — Cost figures and general plans will be made available on the proposed construction of a senior high school within two or three weeks, it was reported Monday at the board of education meeting.

According to Supt. A. W. Gordon the architects will visit the school Sept. 23, 24 and 25 and go over the preliminary plans, which will follow a guideline for 42 teaching stations plus a general service area for the new school plan.

The present building has 29 teaching stations.

Informational Meetings

Gordon said by the first part of October public informational meetings will be held in the district to explain the entire school plan, including costs.

Target date for the referendum on the new construction will be in November.

A municipal counseling firm from Milwaukee was hired to provide legal advice on the bonding issue.

Rental of the large gymnasium was discussed for a Jaycee and Kiwanian event in October. Rental was set at $100.

Dress Code Approved

It was noted the new gym was recently resanded and refinished and requires more care for the floor than the old gym.

The board of education approved following the dress code as set forth in the school handbook. No problems have been found involving clothing and grooming of students.

The board was informed that rates for the Wisconsin Physicians service group insurance will be increased Oct. 1.

The increase will mean about $6,000 added cost to the school district.

Year-Round Use Of New London Schools Forecast

NEW LONDON — Use of be given every advantage and expensive school facilities on a that offerings during summer 12-month basis was forecast months should be further conMonday by Robert Gabriel, sidered. board of education member.

The prediction arose during a discussion on speciality courses and offerings for a limited number of students.

Gabriel had talked about year long use of school facilities at several previous meetings.

Mrs. Harold Markman, said, "it's a shame to have students take two or three years of a course and then have it dropped because not enough students are interested."

Languages, advanced industrial arts and advanced sciences have limited numbers of interested students and the question of financial feasability arises yearly.

The board said seniors should

Mrs. Markman, a member on the board nearly 10 years, said the junior high school problem "is the same as when I came on the school board . . . Washington (then the senior high school) was overcrowded and in need of certain facilities and it is again."

Three-year enrollment, with many children attending seventh and eighth grade at the parochial schools, is about the same as when it was a four-year high school.

The needs for additional classrooms, a commons or study hall area, better showerrooms and a library still are the same.

Public Must be Willing to Pay For Protection

District Attorney Sees Appointments As Attitude Change

The American public "has been unwilling to pay for law enforcement" in past years.

The public, Outagamie County Dist. Atty. James R. Long said Monday night, must be willing to give police training and weapons as good as the criminals have."

Long, talking at the monthly meeting of the Outagamie County Deputy Sheriffs Association, said he sees the two recent "law and order" appointees to the U.S. Supreme Court as being indicative of a changing public attitude.

'Sick and Tired'

"The people are sick and tired of lawlessness." Long told deputies.

He said that in 1961, one American in every 100 became the victim of a serious crime Today, one citizen in every 50 runs that risk.

Outagamie County has not escaped the crime rise, according to figures cited by Long.

He noted that the district attorney's office, during the first six months of 1969, handled as many cirminal actions as during the entire year 1965.

Long outlined some of the duties of his office for deputies. Prosecuting cases involving narcotics and drug violations comprise a major share of his office's workload, Long said.

Broadened Prosecution

He explained that once he gets enough office help, he intends to broaden prosecution in non-support cases and start action to collect reimbursements from some defendants for whom attorneys were appointed at county expense in criminal actions.

Some taxpayers' money, Long said, can be obtained by filing liens against the once-indigent defendants.

Cities Group Begins 'Target Tarr' Drive

Alliance Committee Plans Push on Urban Legislation

Wisconsin's urban leaders today announced plans for a concerted statewide drive — "Target Tarr" — to push for citizen and legislative support for property tax relief and government reform.

The Alliance of Cities, composed of 16 state cities with well over 2 million population, will launch "Target Tarr" at Wausau Friday, according to Appleton Mayor George Buckley.

Between now and the convening of the special session of the Legislature on Sept. 29, a task force of mayors and city managers will visit Wausau, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Milwaukee and Madison.

Tax Concern

The objective of "Target Tarr", according to Mayor Wallace Burkee, Kenosha, alliance president, is to demonstrate concern over high property taxes generally and generate immediate legislative support for passage of the Tarr Committee on Local Government Finance and Organization (Tarr Task Force) recommendations.

The 13-member Tarr group was created by the Legislature in May, 1967, headed by Dr. Curtis Tarr, then president of Lawrence University and now an assistant secretary of defense. Its recommendations were hailed by the governor, administration leaders and many legislators. But the Legislature has failed to pass on the Tarr bills and they are holed up in committees, Buckley said.

Representatives of Wisconsin's central cities now feel the only solution to the dilemma, which they say exists after passage of the state budget earlier in the month ignored urban needs, is adoption by the Legislature of the Tarr Committee proposals and bills.

"The goal of 'Target Tarr' is to show our deep concern over rising property taxes and stress the need for taxpayer relief through implementation of the Tarr proposals," Burkee declared; "there is no reason why the governor and legislature should put off action of the Tarr bills any longer."

Target Task Force

Comprising the task force for "Target Tarr", which will appear before local government and citizen groups over most of the state, will be Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee; Burkee, president of the Alliance of Cities; Mayor John Kannenberg, Wausau; Mayor William Dyke, Madison; and Mayor Donald Tilleman, Green Bay.

Task force stops include Wausau, Friday; Green Bay, Sept. 15; Eau Claire, Sept. 19; Milwaukee, Sept. 24; and Madison, Sept. 26 — the latter just three days before the Legislature opens its special session.

"Passage of the Tarr proposals would represent the most significant legislation to help meet the urban crisis which has been upon us and is becoming more acute," commented Mayor Maier.

"I consider the Tarr Committee proposals to be the first real breakthrough in meeting headon the urban and property tax crises," Maier added.

He emphasized the need for non-partisan support for the bills.

Meet With Officials

In addition to various public appearances, the Target Tarr group will meet with representatives of all communications media and those who formulate

Zone Committee To Hear Change Plan Argument

WAUPACA — A public hearing will be conducted at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the courthouse before the Waupaca County Zonng Committee to consider a zoning change which will permit the operation of a mobile home park north of Sunset Lake.

Dr. Lloyd G. Minton has requested that approximately seven acres of land he owns be changed from agricultural zoning to multiple family residence. The tract lies west of Hicks Road and south of State 54.

Petitions have been received by the county zoning committee from lake residents objecting to the change.

New London to Continue Program of Sex Education

NEW LONDON — A voluntary program of sex education through "family education" will be continued on the junior high school level, members decided Monday.

Last year's initial program for the junior high students was offered during non-school hours and included parents. Separate sessions were conducted by a physician for fathers and sons and for mothers and daughters.

Eugene Fuhrmann, board president, expressed concern over the attention being given to anti-sex education positions in various news media. Fuhrmann said it is the uninformed element which is causing misunderstanding about sex education and grossly misrepresenting its goals and educational concept. Opposition in newspapers has been expressed through the letters to the editor column.

Hold Up Extensions

Fuhrmann said the opinions should not sway the board's stated position on sex education, but suggested any extensions be held up until the Legislature has completed deliberations on the matter.

In other business, the board voted to sell a one-acre tract on the city's east boundary which was formerly the Maple Leaf School site, and to include landscaping of the senior high school in the 1970-71 budget.

The board voted to donate the flag pole at the Dale School to the Medina, Dale and Readfield Lions Club. It will be moved to Daufen Memorial Park. The Lions Club had asked to buy the flag pole.

Double Loading

A $50 per month compensation for drivers making routes of double loading between Readfield and New London was approved. The drivers pick up a load of high school, junior high school and fifth and sixth graders coming to New London and then pick up K-4 students going back to Readfield.

Continuation of the breakfast program at the senior high school was approved as was the application to the State Department of Public Instruction for assistance.

A junior basketball team was approved for one year. A formal review of the program will be made next year to determine its value.

Richard Bennett, varsity basketball coach, asked that a junior team be approved to coincide with other teams in the Mid-Eastern Conference.

Junior Competition

The team would enable juniors to engage in competition similar to junior varsity and varsity teams.

Traditionally, nearly all of the junior varsity players are sophomores, while the more mature, usually seniors, players comprise the varsity team. A number of promising, but unseasoned, juniors usually find themselves in a position of riding the bench or being cut — most often resulting in the end of their chances for a varsity career.

Idea of the junior program is not only to strengthen the varsity team, but to give more players a chance to mature and develop for an opportunity to play varsity basketball.

Airport Group Defends Rental Space at Airport

Outagamie County Board airport committeemen Monday stood behind the recent allocation of space at the airport for car rental agencies.

Representatives of Avis, which jointly with Hertz, built the addition to allow enough space for rental counters with National car rental at the airport, contended they did not like the portion of the terminal addition they were allocated.

Airport committeemen said the allocation was satisfactory with them and indicated they would do nothing to change it.

The two rental agencies came to the joing construction agreement earlier this year when they were told there was not enough space available for any agencies besides National, which began leasing space a year earlier.

Shiocton Man Dies of Apparent Heart Attack

CLINTONVILLE — The volunteer rescue squad was called about 7 p.m. Monday to the home of Carl Johnson, route 1, Shiocton.

The Eberhardt and Hoh funeral home, Clintonville, is handling funeral arrangements.

Supports Two Families

'No Justice,' Says Father Stung by Welfare Cutback

BY HENRY SIMON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

John S. will feel the financial pinch because of the state cutback of welfare funds for a program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) which involved stepchildren.

But that isn't of prime concern to him.

"The issue here isn't as much financial as moral," he said, even though the cutback has eliminated $101 a month his wife had been receiving for her two children from a previous marriage.

John himself was married earlier and is paying $44 a week to support three children resulting from that marriage.

Yet in about six years his wife has received a total about $600 from her ex-husband, who has been ordered by the court to pay $30 a week in support and alimony.

Filed Charges

John's wife has filed numerous non-support charges against her husband — "so many times you might as well say there's been a continuous charge against him."

John says that he has contacted the Outagamie County Branch I judge office, the family court commissioner, clerk of courts and the sheriff since Tuesday, when the monthly check didn't come.

He says they tell him they are doing all that they can.

When John tells them it isn't enough, he says he is told to hire a private attorney and procede on his own. That angers him.

"I can't see why a guy has to hire a private attorney for something which elected officials should take care of," he sais.

The contrast between John's supporting his children and his wife's first husband not supporting John's step-children is not lost on the 36-year-old worker, whose name is not really John S., but who does work in Appleton but lives near Neenah.

"There are some of us that do make our pyments," he says.

"I work, I pay taxes for a bunch of bums. I end up feeding his children, and he's running around having a good time somewhere," John adds.

The welfare cutback will hurt, John admits.

"The way things are now, without the money..." he says, "A guy would like to put away a little education for the kids," he explains. "Why should they be deprived because everybody along the line just seems to let the ball swing and not do anything?"

The AFDC stepchildren program was designed to help families where the stepfather either financially could not or would not support the stepchildren.

Divorced in 1966

John's wife and her first husband were separated in 1964 and divorced in 1966. Judge Urban Van Susteren ordered the husband to pay

Shock Setting In, Say Local Welfare Staffs

Reaction to state welfare cutbacks has "kind of settled down." Outagamie County welfare officials said as their offices closed for the week Friday afternoon.

The "shock has set in," Chester Luce, assistant director of social services, reported.

"We'll have to go up again," he predicted, noting that President Richard Nixon has been talking about a standard of assistance regardless of circumstances based on an income maintenance program for 1971.

The office of Appleton Welfare Director Merton Ehricke reported only one application for assistance from a person previously on the county rolls under a program aiding stepchildren.

Two Denials Appealed

Building Permits Reversed By Calumet Zoning Board

SHERWOOD — The Calumet County Zoning Board of Adjustments reversed a previous decision at a public hearing Saturday at Harrison Town Hall and granted a building permit to Dr. John R. Nebel, Neenah, to build on a 59 foot lot on Lake Winnebago. The property is near Firelane 3, route 2, Menasha

Last January the board denied the request of Robert Hodkewicz, who was planning to purchase the property from Dr. Nebel. Reasons for the denial were that the parcel did not meet the 75 foot width requirement and didn't comply with the sanitary code.

Dr. Nebel pointed out that all lots in the 33 lot plat measured 59 feet and that his was the only one that had not built on. He stressed the hardship he was faced with in selling it, or using it in any way. The lot is 300 feet deep, he said, and he had been granted a permit to purchase and install a septic tank, by the State Bc d of Health.

Appeal Supported

Dr. Nebel was supported in his arguments by two nearby property owners who said they would like to see a home built on the property. The area was platted in 1893.

He also received support from Harrison Chairman George Schwalbach and Supv. Carl Grassl. Both stated that a town sanitary district was planned for that area in the very near future. Grassl said he felt a sanitary district would "take care of the matter and a man can't be taxed all his life and not be able to build." Schwalbach, the building inspector, said the permit was denied previously because it did not meet the 75 feet width requirement.

County Planner Roland Tonn, Chilton, noted that the percolation tests were "good." He explained that after talking to sanitary officials, the problem could be solved by placing fill in the area to bring the seepage bed up to where it would be out of the water table. Dr. Nevel was reluctant to agree to additional fill saying his neighbors wouldn't favor one lot higher than the others.

Water Table High

Adjustment Board Chairman Roy Wenzel, pointed out that at the time of the denial the panel had visited the area when the water table was exceptionally high. "We also wanted to protect this young man (Hodkeweicz) from purchasing something he couldn't build on."

He went on to explain that the board wanted to be fair and hear from neighbors and any other circumstances which may throw a different light on the situation. Dr. Nebel said he was not aware of the previous hearing, or allowed to express his opinion. He said he had returned the down payment for the property when a building permit was not issued according to his agreement.

In discussing the water table, Dr Nebel said he felt that the table would be allowed to drop, noting that there had been unusual circumstances this year 'with holding back of water for the sake of industry."

Tonn emphasized that while a permit had been issued to purchase a septic tank, the decision of installing it was up to the firm concerned.

The decision to allow the building permit was unanimous.

Silo Permit

In another appeal, Richard Kreuger, route 2, Hilbert, was granted permission to build a silo on S. Harwood Road. A building permit had been denied by the Town of Harrison because plans did not meet the 25 feet setback requirement from the front lot line.

Krueger said he was appealing because he wanted to place the new structure next to two existing silos to operate efficiently." Set back to the fence was estimated at 15 feet.

Krueger explained that the road was a dividing line between towns of Harrison and Woodville and because he lived in the Town of Harrison he was forced to abide by the zoning law, while across the road in the Town of Woodville I could build on the fenceline." He said he felt everyone should be treated fairly. The Town of Woodville doesn't have a zoning ordinance.

Setback Impossible

Royal Gillis, a member of the adjustments board from Harrison, asked Krueger if it were possible to locate the silo on another spot surveyed by the committee, which would allow 49 feet setback from the road.

Krueger said it was impossible." He had considered this and it would provide more of a problem." He said he would be forced to tear down buildings and rebuild them, have machinery standing on the road and drive in at a slant.

He also argued that he had to protect his interests regarding laws governing necessary square footage for animals, in order to continue on the grade "A" milk market.

Krueger received support from Harrison Chairman Schwalbach, who noted that the road "would probably always be a secondary road, the building would not be on a corner and would not obstruct visibility". Two neighbors also encouraged the granting of the permit.

Only Objection

The only objection came from Tonn who pointed out that "future expansion had not been planned and there was a possibility of the road being widened to 66 feet, reducing the setback to nine feet."

He noted that the ordinance called for having 25 feet setback off the right of way and that a structure such as this could be a "potential hazard". Tonn added "I'd like to see that we are not setting a precedent by allowing structures to be built nine feet from the roadway".

Krueger however, countered by saying, "Stores are built right on the side of the road, and for that matter what about the trees, telephone and light poles, if we're going to start cutting everything down, let's consider them, and have all cables underground". It also was reported that the Woodville portion of the road had been widened in 1958 when the property was purchased.

State Minimum

The road is three rods wide and Schwalbach said met the state minimum, he explained that a lot depended on the traffic count on the road and the town board did not believe it would ever develop into a well used road.

Wenzel, speaking for the board said that "the decision here was not easy to make, we are supposed to defend the zoning laws and have already been criticized". He added, however, that the problems arising were not those with new developments, but with property planned before zoning ordinances went into effect. The vote was unanimous.

Members of the adjustments board are Wenzel, Town of Rantoul: Gillis, Harrison and Allen Leverenz, Town of New Holstein.

NEW LONDON — Four persons received minor injuries in a Waupaca County crash about 6:20 p.m. Sunday, 1½ miles west of here on County Trunk X.

Injured were James A. Breitzman, 16, 617 Third St., Weyauwega, minor cuts, and a passenger, Patricia Procknow, 14, 211 W. Pine St., facial cuts and leg injury. Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Lange, route 2, Manawa, minor cuts.

Waupaca County Police said the Breitzman car was traveling east on County X and crossed over the center line on a curve, colliding with the west bound car driven by Lange, 63.

Damage to Breitzman's car was estimated at $500, while an estimated $1,200 damage resulted to the Lange vehicle.

Protesting Prisoners All Returned to Cells

WAUPUN (AP)— A group of inmates involved in a protest demonstration over cigarette taxes returned gradually Monday to regular cells, a time-consuming process which Waupun State Prison officials said would precede any decision on disciplinary penalties.

Warden Elmer Cady said routine for the penitentiary's nearly 1,000 inmates was virtually back to normal after Sunday's outburst. All meals were served on schedule, and recreation activities resumed in the yard in which the demonstration had broken out.

About 200 inmates were involved in the protest before riot-equipped officers coaxed them into segregation wards. Cady said 50 of the inmates were back in their regular cells Monday, and that all but 100 should be in their cells by tonight.

The demonstration, officials said, involved a number of grievances, primarily a new excise tax which raises an inmate's cost for a pack of cigarettes to 35 cents.

An inmate gets 40 cents a day in prison job wages, and 10 cents is subtracted for a fund which he receives when he leaves Waupun.

The balance is not enough for a daily purchase of cigarettes, much less other items which inmates get from the prison canteen, Cady said.

It was Waupun's first serious outburst since 1947. It occurred on the eve of Cady's elevation to warden.

He succeeds John Burke, who is retiring after 31 years as warden during which he spent a World War II period as chief of corrections for the Army.

Lovell Rumored As Candidate for Proxmire's Job

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Astronaut James A. Lovell Jr., who grew up in Milwaukee, met with state Republican Party Chairman Ody J. Fish during the weekend, adding fuel to rumors that he is considering running for the U.S. Senate from Wisconsin.

Political observers called the weekend conference "exploratory talks." It has been rumored that Lovell might become a Republican candidate to oppose Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., when he seeks re-election in 1970.

Fish said Lovell made no commitment, but was interested in being in public life.

Lovell, who came to Wisconsin Saturday to enroll his son, James, at St. John's Military Academy at Delafield, visited Fish's home at nearby Pewaukee.

Lovell was not expected to make a decision about running for office until after the Apollo 13 moon landing, which he will command. It is slated for March.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Any $7,300 car is tight — new.

The sinewy Mercedes-Benz 280SE is built to be rattle-free even after 50,000 miles.

Lift the hood, and you'll see why.

The 280SE is rated the safest, most roadworthy car in the "luxury" field. A sound investment, too.

One of the sweet pleasures of driving any brand-new car is that firm, buttoned-up feeling it has when it thumps across the inevitable potholes and corrugated railroad tracks.

Especially if the car you traded-in had taken to moaning and groaning over such indignities.

Mercedes-Benz engineers like the nice, tight, "new-car feel" so much they think it ought to last longer than new-car smell, new-car payments, and even a new-car warranty. In fact, they see no reason why you should not go right on enjoying it year after year after year.

And, since Mercedes-Benz engineers stubbornly refuse to waste time on annual face-lifts or superfluous gimmickry, they have ample opportunity to make such dreams come true.

Born to last

Result: every Mercedes-Benz 280SE begins life in a shower of sparks. Its chassis and body are not bolted into being, like those of a conventional sedan, but solidified by thousands of welds into a single, rigid unit.

Flip up the hood or peer into the wheel wells behind the tires, and examine the frame. You can actually see the telltale pock-marks of the welds.

And you'll "feel" the difference they make from the first tar strip you hit. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if your 280SE will ever rattle.

When welding stops, hands in soft gloves caress the exterior of the body to detect bumps and burrs. They are smoothed away. Vital seams are soldered and buffed to oblivion.

Then the raw body is dunked whole, like a taffy apple, into a gigantic vat of primer. It emerges with 24 pounds of rust protection.

Next, it is baked, spray-painted, hand-sanded, sprayed again, then hand-sprayed. Even the insides of the hubcaps are coated. Total primer and paint anti-corrosion protection: over 44 pounds.

As a final flourish in its armament against road salt, rust and rot, the 280SE gets a 24-pound factory slathering of undercoating.

Unrelenting power

The overhead-cam, fuel-injection engine equals the coach-work for longevity.

Bearings are delicately machined to within 4/10,000ths of an inch, and pistons and connecting rods are painstakingly matched and balanced. Yet this power plant is about as fragile as a bull. It's built to cruise above 100 mph on Germany's wide-open auto-bahns for hours on end (and often does).

Heroic handling

The legendary stamina of a Mercedes-Benz is a virtue you can appreciate only with the passing of time. But you needn't wait a moment to savor this car's true genius: its quick reflexes and heroic handling ability.

The 280SE bristles with sophisticated, ultra-performance features that simply do not exist on domestic sedans in the so-called "fine car" field.

Scrapping the solid "beam" rear-axle system of domestic sedans, it uses an articulated axle, so that each rear wheel can move up and down independently of the other, just as the front wheels do.

This endows the car with the agility of a scrambling quarter-back. You can blast it over rutted gravel lanes; it behaves with almost eerie calm. You can thread it through the corkscrew turns of a mountain road—and enjoy yourself.

There's no sloppy play in the steering, either. No mushiness. When you hold the wheel, you are blessed with the "feel" of the road. When you turn the wheel, the car responds instantly. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Taut, sensitive steering is retained even with Mercedes-Benz power steering—characterized by Car and Driver as "unquestionably the most precise unit of its kind ever developed."

Awesome brakes

Unless you have driven a 180-mph Grand Prix racing car or a Mercedes-Benz, chances are you have never experienced the awesome stopping power of really good brakes.

Disc brakes.

Mercedes-Benz engineers insist on them. Nor do they stint by putting disc brakes only at the front wheels, and settling for conventional drum brakes on the rear. They attach a massive, caliper-type disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Someday, doubtless, 4-wheel disc brakes will be offered on a domestic "luxury" car.

The pinnacle of safety

The responsiveness which makes the 280SE such a pleasure to drive is its best defense against blundering motorists. However, if the worst happens, the car is designed to shield you. Naturally, it meets all the U.S. safety regulations. But a Mercedes-Benz has additional safety features.

The entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear of the car are engineered to crumple in a crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

Car and Driver's sober conclusion: Of all the world's cars, the Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

Showroom experiments

The 280SE is as habitable as it is durable, roadworthy, and safe.

Slip behind the wheel, and flex your back. This is no marshmallow seat. It supports you. It should: it was contoured with help from orthopedic physicians. The springs inside are actually tuned to the car's suspension movements—to cancel thousands of tiny, tiring tremors every mile.

Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Feel the underside of the dash. No spaghetti tangle of wires—it's fully finished off. Finger the wood trim. Real walnut, not plastic.

Many cars are designed to win admiration for their owners. Mercedes-Benz cars are designed to win admiration from their owners.

Unconventional? Defiantly so. Mercedes-Benz does not build conventional cars—and never will.

280SE vs. 280S vs. 280SEL

The 280SE sells for about $7,300 complete with automatic shift, power steering, vinyl upholstery, white walls, and AM/FM radio.

If you can live without the 15% power-boost from that "E"—for Einspritzmotor, or fuel-injection engine—you can make a tidy savings by ordering the standard 280S.

You can also order a 280SEL—the 280SE with a wheelbase four inches longer. (Four inches invested in leg-room for the rear compartment, not squandered in useless overhang.)

Other models to ponder:

250 Sedan—an unflappable road car with superb handling and braking, $5,208*.

Poll Conducted in District

Vocational School Issue May Go to Referendum

The question of a $6 million bonding for a new vocational, technical and adult education building may go to the voters if the vocational board passes the resolution calling for the bond issue and if a minimum of 1,000 signatures can be collected on a petition calling for a referendum.

A poll conducted by Appleton Mayor George Buckley of city, village and county officials within the four-county vocational district indicated that a majority of the officials were in favor of going ahead with such a referendum.

The vocational board meets next Monday to "enlighten all public officials" on the issue, according to board president Dominic Bordini, Kaukauna The board last month passed a resolution declaring the intent to borrow an amount not in excess of $6 million to acquire a site, construct and equip a new facility.

Should the effort on the part of Mayor Buckley and other city officials result in a petition with at least 1,000 signatures, the vocational board is required by Wisconsin law to bring the referendum.

According to Mike Borge, Chicago, legal bond consultant for the city of Appleton, the board has its option on calling a special election, or waiting until the next general election.

The next general election will be April 7, unless there is a need for a primary which would be held in March, According to City Clerk Eldon Broehm.

Because of the growing needs of the vocational district, Bordini said the board probably would call for a special election.

"By next year we will have to start turning people away because we can't house them," he said.

Bordini said he and a group of approximately 15 area officals are against the referendum Buckley is asking for. A special election would cost area governments some $35,000 to $40,000, and Bordini said he felt such costs were unnecessary.

The money for the new building would come from the property tax roll, Buckley said, as no federal funding has yet come through for such a project.

This vocational district, and the Waukesha district, are next in line for federal funding, however, Bordini said. He reported that even if a bond issue is floated here, federal funds could still be forthcoming.

Vocational schools in Kenosha, Wausau, La Crosse and Eau Claire already have received funds, Bordini said, and "we're next for federal funing." Some of these districts had already funded similar projects, and got federal help anyway, he said. Bordini estimated that federal funds would pay for about one sixth, or about $1,000,000, of the total costs.

Foolish Spending

"We're not afraid of the referendum," Bordini said, "but the spending of $35,000 to $40,000 is foolish.'

Bordini also said that floating the $6 million bond should not increase the mill rate, and the school wouldn't cost the city any more to operate. The mill rate is now 1.05 and could still be maintained, Bordini said, unless the economic growth of the area is less than $100 million, and that figure has been passed consistently during the past several years.

'Target Tarr' Drive Begun

editorial policy to relate to them the story of Wisconsin's urban crisis and how the Tarr proposals will represent a breakthrough.

The highlight of each stop will be a noon "Dutch treat" luncheon at which a cross section of the communities will be invited.

Among those being requested to attend are members of city councils, other key local officials and department heads, representatives of local boards and commissions, school boards, city and county Republican and Democratic party chairmen, business and labor leaders, retired persons groups, delegates from local civic organizations, representatives of the county, clergy, League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, assemblymen and senators representing the region, and others.

In each city the Target Tarr task force will meet with the host mayor or manager at city hall to discuss problems facing that central city area.

At each stop the non-partisan nature of the tax distribution and government reforms — such as annexation law revision, schools aids, government streamlinging and others — will be stressed

Voting Records

The voting records of the area assemblymen and senators on urban considerations will also come up for public scrutiny, based on the legislative sessions since the Tarr Committee recommendations were completed and the recent budget session in which urban bills were ignored, Buckley said.

"Target Tarr" comes at a crucial time when annual budget preparations are underway at city halls throughout the state and already reflect sharp tax hikes on the basis of the recently adopted state budget.

With the local property tax picture already dark at the opening stage of budget hearings and reviews, alliance officials charged the Legislature and administration with being apathetic when it comes to tackling the basic problems of Wisconsin's central cities.

'Target Tarr," they said, is intended to make it clear to the citizens and property taxpayers of the state that the only remedy now to avoid a fatal fiscal crisis in urban areas is to adopt Tarr Committee bills during the special session.

The alliance and its task force will stress that a new state tax distribution formula and annexation law reform should be given immediate, top priority by the governor and Wisconsin Legislature.

Steelworkers Strike Ended At Green Bay

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Members of the United Steelworkers Local 7389 ended their 155-"day" long strike against Northwest Engineering Company Monday night, and today some of the men began returning to work.

By an overwhelming majority — almost unanimous — members of the local voted to ratify a two-year contract its negotiations committee had agreed to Thursday, after bargaining off and on with the crane manufacturing company for more than a year and a half.

The contract is the first Northwest Engineering has ever had with a union. Its acceptance brings to a close one of the costliest and most trouble-marked walkouts in Green Bay.

Contract terms provide for an immediate wage increase, modified union shop and new and increased benefits.

"Good Contract"

Harry Viren, chairman of the union's negotiating committee, and William Burns, president of the local, told newsmen they both considered the contract a good one

Union officials said they expect most of the 550 millworkers who participated in the strike to be back to work within five days. Many of the strikers had taken jobs elsewhere during the five-month walkout.

Pickets were pulled off the company's five gates Monday afternoon, several hours before the union membership meeting at St. Mary Elementary School, apparently in anticipation of the rectification vote.

The contract calls for an across-the-board wage increase of from 11 to 53 cents an hour, with four to five - cent hikes each six months of the contract's life, union spokesman said.

County Board to Decide Final Fate of Safety Building

Last Chance Proposal Faces Supervisors at Tuesday Session

A new twist — and probably the final one — in the months of wrangling over the joint Appleton-Outagamie County safety building proposal will be brought tonight before the county board.

The county board public property and insurance committee will present a resolution asking the supervisors whether they would consider adding a floor or two to the proposed jail complex for leasing to the Appleton police department.

The suggestion is a last ditch effort for joint cooperation and came last week from Ald. John Ayers (12th), chairman of the city council's public safety committee, who has been pushing for a joint program from sometime.

Whether the county board takes to the idea is questionable, but whether it makes some decision is not. The jail complex preliminary plans have been approved by supervisors and they are not expected to stand for any delays.

The State Department of Health and Social Services has issued repeated warnings to the county to improve their jail facilities or face having their jail closed.

Supv. Jerome Hiler, chairman of the county board public property and insurance committee, has indicated that his committee will stand for no delays.

The county board meets at 7 p.m. Tuesday in its second night meeting in three months. The board resolved to hold some night meetings to determine whether it would be better to change to the evening sessions instead of day sessions.

In other business, the board will be asked to approve allocating $10,500 for completing the planned Civil Air Patrol building at the county airport. The structure, to include a hangar and offices, has been started but the patrol requested county financial help to complete it.

The county board airport committee is recommending the allocation only if office space for the planned full-time airport manager be provided and the $2,500 the county annually provides the patrol be reduced to $1,500 to help pay for the allocation.

The board also will be asked to transferr $6,000 from contingencies to make payment to the architectural firm of Sauter Seaborne Ltd., the Appleton company handling the jail complex planning.

VTE Budget To be Considered At Public Hearing

Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 will hold a public hearing at the Neenah Vocational School at 7.30 p.m. Monday on the proposed 1970 budget.

Immediately following this hearing the board will hold a hearing on its intention to bond for not more than $6 million to build a central facility for vocational, technical and adult education.

The regular monthly board meeting of the district will be held following the two hearings, at which time it will consider the hearings and take action on the 1970 budget.

Appleton Gets Larger Share of State Liquor Tax

Appleton's share of state liquor taxes this year totals $106,090, according to Ray Feuerstein, city treasurer. He said Friday the sum is nearly $9,000 greater than the city received a year ago.

The city's second apportionment check arrived Friday in the amount of $55,157, to be added to a $50,932 amount paid by the state in March.

The city's 1968 total was $97,296. The apportionment is unrelated to the amount of liquor consumed in the city, though it, reflects taxes paid state-wide.

Appleton Youth Cited In Village Accident

COMBINED LOCKS — Ronald Beck Jr., 20, 1836 Marquette St., Appleton, was cited for reckless driving following a one-car accident on State Street about 7:10 p.m. Saturday.

According to police, as the youth was driving west on State Street, his car struck a high curb which resulted in a blow-out. The car was forced onto the sidewalk where it traveled 39 feet before re-entering the roadway. It traveled another 78 feet before stopping. The high curb was on the opposite side of the road from his lane of traffic. Damage to the car was estimated at $300.

Appleton Firemen Answer Three Alarms

An overheated fluorescent light ballast brought Appleton fire fighters to the William Schroeder home, 410 E. North St., about 10 p.m. Monday. There was no fire.

Four fire department units were dispatched to the Clem Nabbefeld home, 124 E. Coolidge Ave., at 4:40 p.m. Monday when an overheated stove caused a chimney fire. Damage was minor.

At 11:40 a.m. Monday, the fire department was summoned to the Paul Neuman home, 1328 W. Commercial St., when a plastic dish ignited after it had been left in an oven.

A drop in water pressure triggered a false alarm which brought five units to the H. C. Prange Co. at 10:05 a.m. Monday.

Father Sees 'Moral Issue' In Welfare Payment Slash

John says his wife went to the district attorney when she didn't get support payments and filled out the papers for non-support.

Later the husband was picked up for a traffic violation and jailed in Appleton for two weeks and then transferred to Milwaukee for eight weeks to serve under the Huber Law, John relates. During those weeks he says his wife received her support checks.

"That's the last we've seen or heard from him," John adds.

Because of the payments not coming in, his wife at one time was on welfare. John says her caseworker couldn't get any operation from a probation official in Milwaukee to determine the husband's address.

"He said he didn't want to disrupt the good progress he (the husband) was making and he wouldn't give out the address," John says.

Finally, with girls six and four years old at home, Susan found a job in 1967. That same year she married John and went off welfare.

In March, 1968, John and Susan bought a home and tried to put pressure on welfare officials to receive help. Since they had moved from Appleton to near Neenah, they applied in Winnebago County.

There they began receiving AFDC stepchildren payments.

John will miss those payments, but he states his complaint with the words, "There's just no justice."

"You pay your way, you pay the other guy's way and you pay up the middle," he says.

"I work steady and have a good job. I was told by the district attorney that if I quit making my job payments they would know where to find me, because I had a job and worked steady."

Appleton Boy Hit By Car, Injured

Multiple abrasions and contusions were suffered by a four-year-old Appleton boy when he ran in front of a car about 7:45 p.m. Friday.

Archibald H. Mauk, 45, 1507 N. Morrison St., told Appleton police he was driving in the 200 block of E. Nawada Street when Kevin Reichardt, 4, 1048 E. Jardin St., ran in front of his vehicle.

The boy was struck by the front bumper of the car, went under the front end and ended under the left side between the two left tires. He was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital and was reported in satisfactory condition this morning.

The Strange Kidnaping in Brazil

The strange kidnapping of the American ambassador to Brazil has ended happily, with Ambassador Elbrick freed in Rio de Janeiro after the Brazilian government met all of the demands of the terrorists who held him captive for 78 hours. But the case poses major new problems for the U S State Department.

The military junta which recently seized power in Brazil had to swallow a lot of pride in meeting the demands of the kidnappers. They had to release 15 political prisoners and put them aboard a plane for Mexico, which agreed to grant them asylum. And they had to broadcast a statement drafted by the terrorists which was highly critical of their own government.

The success of the kidnapping from the terrorists' point of view is bound to give similar ideas to extremist groups in other countries. Ambassador Elbrick was kidnapped as he drove in his private limousine from his suburban home to the embassy. The State Department has announced that security measures to protect our envoys in other Latin American countries will be tightened, but it is an almost impossible task to protect every American official in every foreign country where we have representatives stationed.

The State Department was wise in not shouting any demands to the Brazil government about getting our ambassador back safely. The Nixon Administration again demonstrated calmness and coolness in its reaction to the crisis. At the least this permitted the Brazilian junta to buckle under to the kidnappers' demands without having to appear totally subservient to the United States.

But the new danger which will be faced by foreign service officers in other countries won't make it any easier to recruit top notch men for these posts.

Bishop Pike Dies Seeking Truth

The death in the Arabian desert of former Episocopal Bishop James Pike marks the end of the career and life of a remarkable if highly controversial man. Perhaps the one cannot be had without the other

Bishop Pike was raised as a Roman Catholic, became an agnostic, then an Episcopalian and only recently announced his decision to remove himself from the Episcopal church as well. His views on religion and the church became increasingly critical in the last few years and he came under harsh criticism himself, with even the charge of heresy rumored by the conservatives in the denomination.

Bishop Pike's ability is indicated by the positions he held after receiving his law degree from Yale and later being ordained from Union Theological Seminary. He taught at George Washington University, was dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York and later Bishop of the San Francisco diocese. When he resigned that position, he became a fellow in the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara. Personal tragedy, especially in the suicide of a son, led him into investigation of the possibility of contact with those who have died and he wrote The Other Side in which he expressed the belief that he had been communicating with his dead son. He then formed the Foundation for Religious Transition which he said was an organization for those "who have lost hope in organized churches."

Whether one agreed with Bishop Pike or not, it is clear that he was constantly seeking. His last trip was into the desert in the area where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found in the hope of finding documents which would give him more information on Christianity.

Perhaps he has now found the answers to his many questions.

Racial Tensions in the Marines

The message to all Marines, except those in combat, from General Leonard F. Chapman, Jr. commandant of the Marine Corps, concerning racial tensions within the corps, is remarkable in several ways.

First, it is a concession, seldom if ever made publicly by military officers, that mistakes have been made. Secondly, it concedes that there have been serious racial tensions in the Corps, particularly among Marines, black and white, who have returned from combat duty. Third, it relaxes traditional Marine regulations on both looks and attitudes.

The racial conflicts have been reported for some time in newspapers and magazines. A major problem has been that black troops in particular, who found themselves quite accepted in combat as equals to white troops, have returned to the same old discrimination back home. They are no longer willing to accept such attitudes and have themselves become more militant and defiant. Despite efforts to some officers and commandants to ease the situation, in general the military brass has tended to ignore and deny it

Now General Chapman has said that Afro haircuts are to be permitted if they come within the general Marine regulations and that "individual signs between groups or individuals will be accepted for what they are — gestures of recognition and unity" which presumably refers to the black raised fist salute. But he also maintained that "the Marine Corps has always demanded the highest standards in military appearance, military courtesy, and proficiency....these high standards breed pride, and pride, in turn, builds the kind of discipline that is essential to battlefield success with minimum casualties"

In hard fact it appears that a considerable amount of traditional Marine discipline and morale has broken down, partly because of the racial conflicts, partly because of growing disillusion with the war and the belief that we aren't going to win it anyway In a way, General Chapman's statement was only in acceptance of the facts as they are.

Dissention in the military is not close to outright mutiny despite the unwillingness of some troops to return to combat in Vietnam and the growing influence of anti-war underground newspapers, coffee houses and organizations near military posts. It will take a long time to erase the demoralizing effects of the war upon many segments of American society.

'I should think kindly of him. I owe my job to him.'

Kraft Writes

We Must Rid Ourselves of Thieu If We Are to Succeed in Vietnam

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — President Nixon missed the opportunity to make a fresh beginning on peace in Vietnam when he took office last January. But the death of Ho Chi Minh — with its incalculable impact on North Vietnam, the insurgency in the south, and relations with Russia and China—gives him a second chance.

The serious question at this time, accordingly, is not what happens next in Hanoi. It is what happens next here in Washington. For to make the most of his second chance, the President will have to institute changes in his policy of troop withdrawal, in his attitude towards the Saigon regime, and in his negotiating stance

Troop withdrawal has been moving at a pace that would give snails itchy pants. The total American troop level in Vietnam is now only about 2,500 below what it was when Mr Nixon took office. At that rate a couple of hundred years would elapse before American soldiers finally got out of Vietnam.

UNDER NO PRESSURE

The practical effect of that slow pace is to enshrine the principle of "see it through with Nguyen Van Thieu" Gen. Thieu is under no pressure to put together a broad-based regime capable of standing on its own feet and slugging it out with the other side On the contrary, he has just put together a regime remarkable for its narrow base and lack of popular appeal.

Neither is Gen. Thieu under pressure to come forward with proposals that engage the other side On the contrary, he is free to pursue a phony peace offensive — a series of spurious proposals which serve only to put the other side off.

Moreover, the American military is under little pressure to change its tactics Episodes involving frontal assaults on strongly entrenched enemy positions for dubious gains — as in the cases of Hamburger Hill and Company A — keep cropping up. Casualties continue to run over 150 a week.

Heavy fighting combines with reliance on the Thieu regime to impair the Nixon negotiating stance at the Paris peace talks. That stance, according to the White House cliche artists mixes the stick with the carrot But the stick is an iron rod of planes, tanks, and destroyers that flails away day and night The carrot is a mangy root of uncertain dimension

IT'S VAGUE AT BEST

The South Vietnamese insurgents, or Provisonal Revolutionary Government, are offered the chance to participate in national elections for a new government of South Vietnam. These elections would be supervised by the present Saigon government, subject only to some vague international control

But all experience teaches that those who organize elections in South Vietnam win elections in South Vietnam. Thus the other side is never going to be tempted by elections organized by their foes in Saigon.

To break the stalemate requres a reversal on all fronts. As a first change, there is the need for a much more accelerated program of troop withdrawal To avoid the entrenched opposition that caused the President to postpone the cuts due to have been announced last month, Mr. Nixon needs to set down in advance a firm schedule of future withdrawals that should lead to a complete pullout of American troops within a stipulated length of time.

A first dividend would be new tactics by American commanders. With their forces ebbing away, the military would finally be constrained — in ways far more efficient than mere Presidential orders — to develop a defensive strategy aimed at reducing casualties.

MIGHT MAKE DEAL

A second consequence would be the impact of troop withdrawal on Gen. Thieu. Maybe he would bustle about and start to build a broadly based government able to fight the enemy or beat them in a political contest. Far more likely, he would begin to search for ways to do a deal with the other side.

Either way, divorce from Thieu would make room for a change in the American stance at the Paris negotiations. There would be no obligation to sustain the principle of future elections managed by the Thieu regime. On the contrary, the Administration could come up with explicit assurance that the elections would be managed by some intermediate or temporary government acceptable to both nationalists and Communists in Vietnam

Neither would the United States be glued to the principle that all negotiations with the Provisional Government have to be done through the present Saigon regime Washington could explore the repeated hints by officials of the Provisional Government that they were prepared to negotiate on the matter of a mutual winding-down of military activity.

To be sure, changing positions is never easy in public life. But the basic fact is that Mr. Nixon has tried the easy way to get out of Vietnam and failed. His second chance is to take the hard way.

Psychological Warfare Aimed At Litterbugs

NEW YORK (AP) — The country's garden clubs are turning to psychological warfare in their battle against litterbugs

The Litter Letter of the National Council of State Garden Clubs reports field tests have shown that as buildings brighten through painting and planting, block cleanliness improves

The Council urges the development of local painting and planting programs and adds that such activities have psychological effect on owners, tenants and other property users that leads to less littering, better sidewalk sweeping and more conscientious use of refuse containers.

Byrnes' Bills Would Be Help in Banning Pornographic Mailings

By ROBERT W. WARREN

MADISON — Those who traffic in the multi-million dollar pornography business are a bold lot.

". . . even as legislation is going on against this kind of filth, they dare to challenge your ability to do anything against them."

That quotation is from a letter written by a properly indignant citizen to a state senator. He, in turn, forwarded it to me at the Wisconsin Department of Justice.

Robert Warren is attorney general of Wisconsin and head of its reorganized Department of Justice. He was elected a year ago after serving in the State Senate.

Accompanying the letter was a display of raw, pornographic material which a smut peddler was attempting to sell to this citizen via the United States mail.

Warren

CITIZEN WAS CORRECT

And, the citizen was absolutely correct. Despite legislative activity at the local, state and federal levels, the smut peddlers continue to operate. They also seek to head off further legislative curbs, while they attack existing laws

The citizen in question is only one of thousands of Wisconsin residents who have become rightly upset over the past few months by the mail order solicitation — generally originating in California or New York — of orders for pornographic publications and films.

The solicitation usually is directed at business or professional men, and addressed to homes and offices throughout the state. It often happens that a secretary or a wife opens "this kind of filth" and the find themselves red-faced and outraged by the contents

MINORS ARE TARGETS

There are also cases where such mailings are addressed directly to minors

Although this particular aspect of the pornography business is a federal problem because the United States mail is used, I asked the Division of Criminal Investigation in the Wisconsin Department of Justice to check with law enforcement agencies in California and New York to find out about the situation for it has an impact on residents of our state.

I made some pertinent discoveries:

—One of the chief purveyors of this filth into Wisconsin via the mails is a California resident who has an arrest record dating back to 1958 for mailing obscene material. This particular subject is tied in with two companies which have made mass mailings into Wisconsin. There also has been a recent indictment against a smut peddler based in the New York city area, who has sent materials into Wisconsin.

COSA NOSTRA INVOLVED

—Law enforcement sources also have informed me that the organized crime syndicate — La Cosa Nostra, whose tentacles have reached into Wisconsin — has moved into the pornography business in Los Angeles and New York City.

The present federal law says this kind of situation can be prevented only if you receive such a mailing, determine that it is indecent, and turn the mailing over to your Post Office with the notification that you want your name stricken from the mailing list

This is haphazard, at best, because it does nothing to head off the shock and outrage of receiving an initial mailing from the smut peddlers. But even this law is under attack by the dealers in erotica

Meantime, Rep. John W Byrnes, R-Wis., has introduced a series of bills to prohibit delivering to anyone under 18 sexual material unsuitable for minors, bar mailing of unsolicited advertisements designed to appeal to a prurient interest in sex, and allow persons to place their mailboxes off limits to sex-oriented materials.

ENDORSES BYRNES' APPROACH

I endorse Rep. Byrnes' approach, and suggest you let all of the members of the Wisconsin congressional delegation know your feelings. The bills are H. R. 11742, H. R. 11743 and H. R. 11744.

These measures can go a long way in showing smut peddlers that we are up to the challenge to act against them.

Strictly Personal

Not All Clergymen Dull and Pompous

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There exists a general feeling that clergymen as a class, however wise or virtuous they may be, are on the dull and pompous side; which may be true enough. But there also exists a feeling that they ought to be this way; which has nothing to recommend it, neither piety nor good sense.

Jonathan Swift, that devastating satirist, was a clergyman most of his life, and for some years, Dean of St. Patrick's. John Donne, that witty metaphysical poet, was a devout member of the clergy, which failed to inhibit either his vigor or his mordant humor

The other evening I was reading a biography of the Rev. Sydney Smith, the English clergyman, who was as caustic and funny a fellow as ever led a devotional service; and I thought you might be amused to hear what a bright minister thinks when he takes off is coat and picks up his pen

Of a friend who had just made the Grand Tour, Smith remarked. "He has returned from Italy a greater bore than ever; he now bores on architecture, painting, statuary and music" To another friend, he said: "I am just going to pray for you at St. Paul's, but with no very likely hope of success."

Concerning a couple who were members of his congregation, he wrote: "I like him and his wife; he is so ladylike, and she's such a perfect famous contemporary historian, he noted: "Macaulay has occasional flashes of silence that make his conversation perfectly delightful."

Smith endeared himself to me forever when he wrote: "I have no relish for the country; it is a kind of healthy grave." And, as a critic, it is impossible not to delight in his statement: "I never read a book before reviewing it; it prejudices one so."

He once remarked to a pompous colleague: "You and I are exceptions to the law of nature — you have risen by your gravity, and I have sunk by my levity" It must have been this same man he was thinking of when he reflected: "The most solemn and terrible entertainment of the clergy."

Harris

I could go on for a column more, but space compels me to end with his saturnine observation: "Benevolence is a natural instinct of the human mind: when A sees B in distress, his conscience always urges him to entreat C to help him."

Ex-Sailor Now Ties Rope Neckties With Bullets and Bows

PHILADELPHIA, Pa (AP) — Albert Rutland, who used to tie bowlines, clove hitches, square knots and the like in the U.S. Navy, now ties neckties made of rope.

The 71-year-old retired boatswain makes "lariat" ties, which he gives away to friends. They are tied with eight-strand turksheads stopped off with a bottle knot. The nylon rope from which the ties are made is doubled over and threaded through a turkshead. They are finished off with .38 caliber bullets from which Rutland saws the back and removes the powder. After filling them with epoxy glue, he then stuffs the ends of the rope into the disarmed bullets.

Western White House Isn't Cheap

Price Won't be Announced, But Daily Cost of $100,000 Seems Likely at San Clemente

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — With President Nixon's month-long working vacation behind them, officials charged with day-to-day operation of the Western White House are adding up the bills and working out more permanent plans—like who's to mow the lawn.

The cost of Nixon's tenancy here runs well into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Government per diem for the president's official entourage, for example, apparently tops the $100,000 mark alone.

Several major items, such as setting up offices next to the President's San Clemente home and installation of communications, were essentially one-time tasks.

But housekeeping details—like whether the Coast Guard, the General Services Administration or a private contractor should mow the newly turfed lawn—remain to be settled as plans for a four year, or perhaps eight year, use of the Western White House are laid.

Won't be Public

Precisely what it costs for the President to work here the past month will not be made public. Some of the biggest cost items —installation and operation of the elaborate communications system, for instance—are closely guarded government secrets.

"If we said what communications cost, then someone could figure out what our communications capability is from that dollar figure," said Ronald Ziegler, presidential press secretary. Communications costs are part of the Army Signal Corps and thus Defense Department budgets.

The network established at San Clemente, Ziegler said, is essentially the same as is set up for a presidential visit to any place out of Washington for three days or longer.

Other costs are scattered throughout the budgets of numerous government agencies, making accounting complex.

Two Buildings

The erection and first year's lease of two administration buildings at the Western White House cost slightly more than $100,000.

These were built in less than two months by a Los Angeles firm at a Coast Guard base next to Nixon's recently purchased $240,000 residence on five acres of land overlookng the Pacific Ocean.

In addition, the General Services Administration spent about $70,000 more to partition, furnish and otherwise prepare the flat-roofed prefabricated structures.

Establishing those offices—not only for the President but also for seven key aides, their assistants and secretaries—put the San Clemente operation on a more businesslike basis than often had been the rule for presidential vacations.

The President's bouvant mood as he bounced from home to office to golf course to beach during his month here made it obvious he enjoyed the arrangement and would try to utilize it often in the future.

Transporting, housing and feeding the hundreds of persons who came to San Clemente on business for periods ranging from a day to the full month added to the government's costs.

Individual Expense

Housing expenses were in some cases borne heavily by individuals, however. And on occasion transportation to California was cheaper than it would have been to Washington.

So-called courier planes, smaller jets carrying eight or so passengers, made flights three times a week from Washington to San Clemente, bringing both officials and documents.

Air Force One, the presidential jet, or a similar plane joined the run when necessary to bring a large group such as the full Cabinet to meet in San Clemente. Actual flying time costs of these big jets is $400 an hour, Ziegler said.

"We can't determine precisely the cost of planes," said Ziegler, "because they have to fly a certain number of hours anyhow for training purposes."

But he said, "Obviously we're flying more than before," and added "we may have had to put on a bit of extra personnel."

About 10 black limousines were on call at San Clemente for the month. All were driven from Washington. Figuring 15 cents per mile operating costs, simply getting them here and back would total about $9,000.

Feet of Golf Carts

Rounding out the transportation available to Nixon and his staff were a fleet of nine electrically powered golf carts and several bicycles.

The bulk of the staff supporting the President stayed in a resort motel about five minutes drive from the Western White' House.

Government personnel occupied between 100 and 120 rooms of the 130-room establishment each night of Nixon's stay. Calculating some double occupancies and a special rate of $8 per person per night granted by inn owner Paul Presley produces a bill there of perhaps $36,000.

Some staff members stayed at a Laguna Beach motel along with members of the news media. Short term visitors such as Cabinet members stayed principally at a luxury resort hotel at Newport Beach, about 30 minutes' drive up the Pacific coast. During last week's Cabinet meeting at San Clemente, for example, 35 rooms were taken at the plush hotel for two nights each.

Many Visitors

A steady stream of visitors came to San Clemente during the month. For example: Six newly appointed ambassadors on Aug. 19th; the Advisory Council on Executive Reorganization Aug. 20th; the Urban Affairs Council Aug. 25th; top economic advisers Aug. 28th.

Groups such as the six ambassadors flew individually from their homes throughout the country by commercial plane. If such visitors live in the west, the cost was less than going to Washington—and thus a deduction against other added costs of the western operation.

Some top administration officials, such as Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, rented homes for the month at up to $1,000—the bulk of which they paid themselves since the costs exceed the standard $16 per day government allowance for meals, lodging and miscellaneous expenses of traveling officials.

Seven such homes were made available by local residents who agreed to take their vacations during Nixon's presence, said inn owner Presley who helped make the arrangements.

A few staffers, such as four secretaries who shared a rented house, took an alternate per diem of $12 per day plus housing. This worked out about the same in costs as a $16 per diem.

President Nixon Returns to Capital To Face Problems Which Never Left

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is back in Washington where the list of problems, issues and priorities did not diminish during his month-long California working vacation.

The programs the President has offered to the Congress remain stalled and could benefit from his personal quarterbacking. His welfare, post office and crime packages have yet to go before committee.

While administration men have hinted at progress in Vietnam the President's next public decision may very well concern the dimensions of the next troop withdrawal from the war zone.

Senate Action

There will be presidential interest in Senate action on his appointment to the Supreme Court, Clement Haynsworth, and selection of a permanent successor to the late Everett M. Dirksen as GOP minority leader in the Senate. Nixon is reported to favor a more conservative choice than Senate GOP Whip Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania who is temporarily serving in the post.

The President returned to the capital Monday night after stops for dedication ceremonies of a new dam on the Rio Grande near Del Rio, Tex., and a first-hand look at the hurricane-ravaged Gulf Coast.

Nixon compared the damage of hurricane Camille to the bombed out towns of World War II in Europe. "As I flew over the damage of Mississippi I could see that the facts given me could not adequately state the damage," Nixon told a crowd at Gulfport.

"I haven't seen anything like this since visiting Essen, Germany, in 1947," Nixon said, shaking his head in disbelief.

Presidents Embrace

At Amistad Nixon and Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz unveiled a monument and threw their arms around each other in the traditional South of the Border "abrazo."

In California the President usually spent mornings at his desk at his San Clemente headquarters and adjourning for afternoons in the sun and at the golf course.

Nixon also threw state dinners for the Apollo 11 astronauts, visiting Republic of Korea President Chung Hee Park, a birthday party for former President Lyndon B. Johnson, dedicated a grove of California redwoods to former first lady Mrs. Johnson, and addressed the National Governor's Conference at Colorado Springs.

Liquor Director Uses 'Pony Express' Instead Of Mail for Payroll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook has reverted to a modern-day "pony express" to make sure his Cleveland-area employes get their paychecks on time.

Cook said he initiated his own direct messenger service after the Post Office in Cleveland was repeatedly late, frequently five days or more, in delivering checks to liquor department workers.

He said disgruntled employes were threatening to strike over the problem.

"Now a Liquor Department messenger drives to Cleveland once every two weeks to deliver the checks personally," Cook said.

Most Brazilians Enjoyed Seeing Junta Humiliated

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazilians generally were concerned for the safety of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbick during the three days he was kidnaped by terrorists, but many were delighted to see Brazil's military dictatorship humiliated.

Even the nonpolitical majority, usually interested mostly in soccer and the beaches, was glad to see a victory over the military clique that shows no sign of relaxing its hold on power.

"Look at those 20,000 soldiers, and they can't do anything about a small group of terrorists," one Brazilian said as he watched the military parade for Independence Day Sunday.

Another commented: "All the massive student demonstrations of last year didn't achieve nearly as much as the kidnaping."

Safe Conduct

As their price for Elbrick's release, the kidnapers forced the government to give 15 political prisoners safe conduct to Mexico and to let the censored press and government broadcasting facilities publish a manifesto blasting the regime as a dictatorship. Supporters of the government were shocked; its critics were jubilant.

But some Brazilians feared that the junta would take even tougher measures against its opponents. Others were afraid that the success of the kidnaping would result in an increase in terrorism.

The three-man junta that took over from ailing President Arthur da Costa e Silva announced Monday that it was preparing new "prevention and repression methods" against terrorism. It issued a decree providing for banishment of persons considered "noxious and dangerous to national security."

Arrests Reported

Unconfirmed reports said police began rounding up suspects as soon as the ambassador was released Sunday and that 17 persons had been arrested.

Marines were guarding a house in a wealthy residential area where police said the kidnapers took the ambassador after forcing him out of his limousine last Thursday. Some of the guards said a station wagon believed to have been used in the kidnaping was parked in the garage at the house.

A Rio newspaper and some naval officials said the authorities knew all along that Elbrick was being held in the house, but one officer explained "We could not storm the house because the ambassador might have been killed."

In Mexico City, a spokesman for the freed political prisoners declared: "We are going back to Brazil. We will create an armed struggle to create a Vietnam in Latin America."

Climate of Tension

The exiles said in a statement that "the military dictatorship has created a climate of tension, anxiety and violence which extends to all social groups. Torture is now a routine instrument in our country. Many have died in jails where thousands suffer as prisoners."

The 15 complained that some of them had been beaten before being released, and that they "were taken to the plane handcuffed and tied, and were denied the right to speak, move or go to the bathroom."

"We will only consider ourselves definitely free when all Brazilian people are free," the statement said.

Sino-Soviet Peace Urged In Ho's Will

HONG KONG (AP) — Ho Chi Minh in a "final will" read today expressed sorrow at the split between the Soviet and the Chinese Communists and exhorted the Vietnamese people to "fight on until complete victory over the U.S. aggressors."

The North Vietnamese president's will, a political testament rather than a distribution of his property, was read by North Vietnamese Communist Party secretary Le Duan at a memorial service held in Hanoi's Ba Dinh Square.

As broadcast by Hanoi Radio, Ho's will gave no hint of any choice of his successor and named no North Vietnamese Communists by name.

Hanoi had announced earlier that the party and the nation would be directed by a collective leadership which had been "carefully trained and selected by Ho.

Without mentioning either Russia or China by name, Ho appealed to them to patch up their quarrel. He told his own Vietnamese Communst Party that it should offer all help in reuniting and solidifying international communism.

Cities Want Aid for Extra Police Costs

Reimbursement for Quelling Campus Problems Is Sought

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The nation has entered an era of disruptions, and local officials had better plan on facing more before the era ends, the problem-plagued mayor of Madison told the Assembly state affairs committee Monday.

Mayor William Dyke, who was confronted with massive block party disruptions shortly after he took office last spring, estimated that extra police costs caused by disruptions associated with the "university community" total about $250,000 a year

And municipal officials had better look forward to continuing problems of disruptions, Dyke told the committee which was considering a bill which would allow the state to reimburse communities for these extra costs run up when outside police forces are called to a locality to help quell a student disturbance

With Support

The bill, which grew out of the Oshkosh State University black student disruption last fall and the University of Wisconsin black student strike last spring, drew wide support from governmental and police officials, but some added that it wouldn't be workable in its present form.

Spokesmen for the attorney general's office said they believe that the wording of a portion of the bill may be overly restrictive The bill states that communities may be reimbursed for the use of their police forces to help put down such disturbances on a "campus."

Many such demonstrations spill over into surrounding, non-campus areas. Others take place there completely, rather than on a campus.

Outside police could not be paid for work in such areas, under the bill, the committee was told.

Warren Opinion

The bill arises from a legal opinion of Atty Gen Robert W Warren last spring which held that communities could not be reimbursed for the use of their police forces for such events unless the governor had ordered the lawmen to go to the aid of a university town's own policemen

That has not happened to date in recent Wisconsin campus disturbances.

Dyke estimated that three disturbances in the past nine months have cost the city about $220,000, because of that problem He included the Febuary black student strike, the May block party problems, and a Labor Day demonstration of welfare recipients at the state executive residence.

The proposal also drew strong support from Lt Gov. Jack B. Olson, who told the committee that he has served as acting governor when such disturbances occur. The problem of reimbursing communities for the use of their police is a serious one, Olson told the lawmakers.

Also backing the bill was the UW and the state university system Their spokesmen asked that a specific appropriation be made so that the funds are not taken from operating areas of their budget

Hits Troublemakers

Assemblyman Willis Hutnik, R-Ladysmith, disagreed. He told his fellow committee members that if the systems were required to pay for such disturbances out of their own budgets, "maybe they'd be quicker at kicking some of those troublemakers out"

Mutually agreed upon was a proposal to change the bill to require such repayment for outside police help The bill now proposes that the university systems "may" make such restitution

But William O Hart of Prairie du Sac, representing the Socialist Party of Wisconsin urged that the bill be backed with provision for system negotiation over such police charges

Some local police departments may try to "load" their expense accounts from such duties, he warned

Sturgeon Bay Firm to Build Research Ship

STURGEON BAY (AP) — A Sturgeon Bay firm was identified Monday as the successful bidder for construction of the largest, deep - ocean research and recovery vessel ever seen on a drawing board.

The 244-foot aluminum craft, which is to be ready for test runs in 1971, is designed to recover loads of up to 200 tons from depths of 6,000 feet.

Aluminum Co. of America (Alcoa) said in Pittsburgh that the successful bidder for the multi -million- dollar project is Peterson Builders Inc. of Sturgeon Bay.

Peterson, completing work on five 165 - foot aluminum patrol boats for the Navy, said the Alcoa vessel will be the biggest craft the Sturgeon Bay company has ever tackled.

The vessel is designed to hold its own in rough seas, with a 45-day cruising range.

It would be capable of locating and recovering sunken items more than a mile below the surface, and take samples of the ocean floor for scientific research.

The craft is to be operated by Ocean Search Inc, a mutual operation of Alcoa and Ocean Search and Engineering Inc.

Ex-Green Bay Lawyer Talks In Dyb Trial

Former Proxmire Aid Charged With Taking Illegal Fee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An assistant city counselor from St. Louis, Mo., testified Monday as to his role in what the government calls a $750 pavment to a former congressional aide to help with a Small Business Administration loan.

Attornev Robert E. Mix, formerly of Green Bay, was among the first witnesses called by the government in the U.S. District Court trial of Luther A. Dyb, former home secretary for Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.,

Dyb, 44, of Green Bay and Madison, was indicted on a charge of accepting $750 in unlawful compensation while a federal employes two years ago.

Real Estate Agent

Lawrence Denneys, a Green Bay real estate agent, testified he approached Dyb in an effort to help a Green Bay contractor with an SBA loan "because Mr. Proxmire and Mr. Dyb had said if there is anything we can do to help you, we will."

The $90,006 loan application was subsequently denied by the SBA.

Dyb, Denneys said, told him he would need $800 to handle "paper work," and that checks of $300 and $500 were turned over to Mix.

Mix, 51, said he cashed the checks because "Dyb wanted the money in cash." The money was given Dyb during a meeting in an Appleton motel in October, 1967, Mix testified, and Dyb returned $50 to him as compensation for telephone costs and gasoline.

Then Dyb told him in May, 1968, not to mention the $50, Mix related.

Licenses in Jeopardy

"Dyb said perhaps my bar license and Denney's real estate license were in jeopardy," Mix said.

At a subsequent meeting, Mix continued, Dyb and some friends met with him and appeared to be upset.

"They were belligerent to me," Mix testified. "They said Mr. Dyb might lose his job. I was rather agitated myself."

Dyb, who had worked for Proxmire since 1961, ended his position with the senator in May, 1968.

The SBA loan had been sought by Nuss Construction Co. Inc. of Green Bay. The government has said it stepped into the matter after Nuss wrote to the SBA in Washington, commenting on the agency's denial of a $90,000 loan application.

Robert J. Lerner, assistant to the U.S. attorney, told the court that Dyb's lawyers plan to argue the $800 represents a loan rather than a payoff.

Mix said $625 was returned to Denneys in May, 1968, after Dyb "lost his job."

Kimberly Girls Are Anointed by Milkshake Bath

KIMBERLY — Two 15-year-old local girls received a sweet baptism when a 17-year-old Kaukauna girl is alleged to have poured a strawberry milkshake over their heads while they were walking along the Kimberly street.

According to the complaint, a car pulled alongside the 15-year-olds, a girl got out and walked over and poured the milkshake on them for no apparent reason.

The Kimberly girls obtained the license number of the car and told police they had never seen the third girl before. Police checked the license number and turned the girl involved over to her parents for disciplinary action.

Documentary On World of Mike Todd

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 Channel 11-9 — Around the World of Mike Todd is an absorbing documentary about one of the world's greatest hustlers and promoters. He twice made and lost a million dollars before he was 21. Elizabeth Taylor is featured, telling of their sometimes stormy marriage. There's also Toots Shor, Art Buchwald, Orson Welles, Gypsy Rose Lee, Ethel Merman.

6:30-7:30 Channel 11-9 — The Mod Squad moves from its familiar Southern California beach settings to the neon dominated streets of Las Vegas and its surrounding sun-baked sands. The trio are supposedly on vacation when an old friend of Linc's, a stunt driver with his own thrill circus, is killed. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — Mirror of America is a repeat of a highly commendable project by producer Donald Hyatt, author Richard Hanser and composer Robert Russell Bennett. Their combination of still photographs in motion, using Washington, D.C. landmarks as devices for flashbacks, tells a unique story of our history and culture.

6:30-7:30 Channel 7-2 — Lancer wound up its last season with a rather trite story saved by the characterization of a badman boss by Joseph Campanella. Murdock is the featured regular, chasing some stagecoach bandits to a border town controlled by Campanella. (R)

7:30-8 Channel 5 — Julia proves to be the perfect wall of stone when Dr. Chegley tells her he does not want to be disturbed. The young man she is putting off might be really frustrated if he weren't so taken with her. (R)

7:30-8:30 Channel 2-7 — The team of Liberace and veteran music hall entertainer Tessie O'Shea is a great one on The Liberace Show. The two get together to warble. "London Is A Bit Of All Right." Miss O'Shea sings a ditty titled, "Cuddle Me In the Clover."

8-10 Channel 5 — "The Ghost and Mr. Chicken" is a light and feathery bit of enjoyable nonsense on Tuesday Night at the Movies. Skip Homier and Don Knotts star as a star reporter and a bumbling cub, both vying for the same girl.

8:30-10 Channel 2-7 — The Making of the President 1968 is another in the series of skillful, dramatic, entertaining and informative chronicles by Theodore White. The author does not see the election of President Nixon as a personal triumph, but rather the result of a series of events over the year that set the stage for the November election.

8:30-9 Channel 11-9 — James Earl Jones, the brilliant actor who found instant success as the star of the Broadway hit, "The Great White Hope," stars in a two-part drug addiction story on N.Y.P.D. He plays the director of a narcotics rehabilitation center which is manned for and by addicts. (R)

To Your Good Health

It's a Good Idea to Do As Specialist Advises

By George C. Thosteson, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A throat specialist tells me I have chronic tonsillitis. In his own words, he said. "Have those tonsils out or put up with it."

As I am 50, I am undecided what to do. I have had a long series of sore throats for 15 years. — D.G.

Dr. Thosteson

Tonsils usually shrink before 50. However, chronic infection can be a factor in repeated sore throat. The specialist has examined your throat; he has recommended removal. I'd do it.

Dear Doctor: I am 64 and had my tonsils out 32 years ago. I first noticed a lump last fall, especially when swallowing, while lying down.

The doctor found three lumps which he called tonsil tags. There's also a swelling on the outside of my neck, on that side, but the doctor doesn't think there is a connection. But what can it be?

I'd never heard or read about tonsil tags. — Mrs. R. L.

Tonsil tags are remnants of tonsil tissue that escaped removal. Over the years they can enlarge enough to become visible as isolated lumps or "tags."

The tags, if large enough to be troublesome, can be removed.

As to the lump on the outside, it could be a matter of enlarged lymph glands as a result of some infection. If this is continuing infection of the tonsil tags, then the swelling should subside when the tonsil infection is cleared up.

But if they do not, or if the tonsil tags are not infected, then you must look for some other cause — infection in some other part of the body, perhaps. If that lump persists, then one of the lymph glands should be removed for laboratory examination.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send any diets you have concerning gall bladder trouble. Enclosed is 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. — J. B.

For most people only moderate adjustment of diet is either helpful or needed. My booklet, "You and Your Gall Bladder," explains which patients need to modify their diet, and how to do it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last summer my daughter had sun poisoning on her face and hands. I'm told it was from some medicine she was taking.

This year any amount of sun causes a rash to break out and it itches. It disappears in a day or two. The doctor gave her a prescription and said to avoid the sun.

Will she have to avoid the sun all her life, or is there something else I can do? She is only 13. — Mrs. M. M.

This is a case of a sensitivity having developed. I don't like to be a spoilsport, but I am very much afraid that she will always have to be careful to avoid too much sun.

The sun-screen type of lotions, which filter out some of the ultraviolet light in sunshine, may help and would be worth trying.

This caution: trying to force things by getting sun deliberately, hoping to become accustomed to it that way, can be expected to make things worse, not better.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been giving my son, 15, vitamin E and vitamin A capsules and have noticed that lately he has many mattered pimples on his back. Are these vitamins harmful? — Mrs. B.

No, they wouldn't cause pimples. In fact, vitamin A in quite large doses sometimes helps acne. But for what reason are you giving him these vitamins? Giving vitamins in random fashion is often a waste of money.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dirksen Amendment 'Dead Issue,' Froehlich States

MADISON (AP) — Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, says the controversial "Dirksen amendment" is a dead issue in the Wisconsin Legislature.

The matter, Froehlich said, was lost long before Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., died in a Washington hospital Sunday.

Dirksen had wanted a constitutional convention to amend the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote edict, and allow states to apportion one house of their legislatures on a geographical basis.

34 States Needed

Petitions from 34 states are needed to get Congress to call a convention. It had appeared in June that a petition before the Wisconsin Legislature could be the 34th.

The legislature recessed before proponents could call for a vote on the floor of either house, however.

Froehlich said the petition was doomed from the start.

The speaker said virtually all of the 47th Assembly Democrats would have voted against the petition, and they would have been joined by "about 10 urban Republicans." Assembly Republicans number 52.

Afgreed in Spring

Froehlich, who agreed to support the amendment after he was contacted by Dirksen last spring, said he decided to back it only because it provided for the calling of a convention.

Froehlich said he would not want to change the one-man, one-vote edict, but would like to change the Constitution to provide for election of federal judges, including Supreme Court justices.

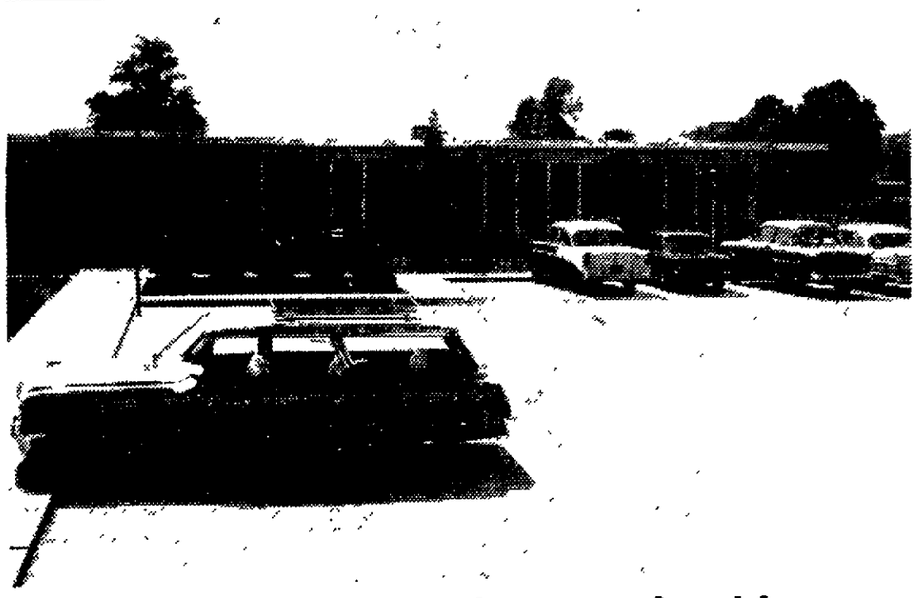
"I wanted an open convention, but the Dirksen amendment was something I never got too excited about," Froehlich said.

City Worker Falls Into Hole, Hurts Head

A city employe suffered a deep head cut late Monday morning when he fell into a hole and struck his head on a piece of concrete at a construction project in the 800 block of Florida Avenue.

Steven Gross, 27, 325 E. Hancock St., was taken by Appleton Fire Department rescue squad to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Concrete is good for you



Concrete parking lots stay healthy without "perpetual care."

Some parking lots need perpetual care from the time they're built. They always need expensive treatment, but they never stay well. These lots get pot holes in the spring. Soft and sticky in the summer. And they need re-sealing every year.

Not concrete. You don't have to do anything to it, but it does a lot for you. Stays clean. Bright. Reflects light at night for better vision. Safer to walk and drive on in bad weather because surface is textured to guard against slipping and skidding.

And it does all these things year after year, with little or no doctoring needed.

We said concrete was good for you, and we meant it.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Cardboard Shoebox Makes A Miniature Wastebasket

BY CAPPY DICK

Cut off one end of an empty shoe box as indicated by the dotted lines in Figure 1 Cut the lid down to fit and glue it to the box as in Figure 2 (the dotted line indicates the edge of the lid)

Cut a scalloped edge in a strip of construction paper that will be long enough to go around the open end of the box If necessary, two scalloped strips may be used (Figure 3) which together will go around the box.

The final step is to to decorate the entire outside with poster paints As an alternative, sections of your favorite comic strips could be pasted all over the box to form an even more unusual decoration

Put the wastebasket beside your desk in your own room at home

Guidance and Training Can Help Working Poor

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Of the 25,400,000 "poor" in the U. S. today, only 3,200,000 are actually out of a job and a lot of these are not poor but merely in the process of normal job changing. A staggering 6 million work full-time, year around, at jobs which just do not pay a living wage.

The Nixon Administration has recently proposed an impressive list of remedies for the problems of the poor — ranging from new work incentives to get people off the welfare rolls to various federal income supports to bring family incomes up to the official poverty line. Most significantly, Nixon has proposed a multiplication and dramatic upgrading of the nations child day care facilities to help welfare mothers get jobs and provide a host of vitally important services for the disadvantaged very young.

For the working poor, the President has proposed a system of federal "family assistance supplements." For instance, if the breadwinner in a family of five earned only $2,000 a year, the federal government would add another $1,260 for a total of $3,260, a figure just nodding toward the poverty line.

No Solution

But let's face it, raising family income by federal fiat toward the poverty line is hardly a permanent solution to the problems of the working poor. Here are other moves which economic liberals and conservatives are convinced we must make:

—Develop entirely new types of jobs appropriate to workers who can be relatively easily trained, especially in the fields of nursing, teaching, law enforcement, etc. Workers in these jobs could be well paid because they would, in many cases, be taking over duties now being performed by professionals.

—Expand our transportation system between inner city and the better jobs in the suburbs.

—Offer higher training allowances for workers willing to quit regular paying jobs and go into training.

—Force the opening of more apprenticeships, leading to good jobs in the trades.

—Create new incentives for private industry and government agencies to upgrade skills, status and pay of every type of worker through on-the-job education and training. The labor department has just announced an extremely limited program to do practically this. In the words of Labor Secretary George Schultz, "our manpower programs thus far have hardly scratched the surface of the 'upgrading' question."

Raise Minimums

—Make it a national policy that the minimum wage level will be at the poverty line. If our minimum wage were raised from today's $1.60 an hour ($1.30 for farm workers and certain restaurant, hotel and retail workers) to $2, it's calculated that the number of Americans living in poverty would be cut in half. Also, many of the multiple community services to relieve the agony of poverty might become unnecessary overnight.

—As a compromise to this minimum wage hike, put in a duo minimum wage scale, as advocated by Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans. Under this proposal, the wage minimum for young workers whose unemployment rate is about five times the rate for adults, would be less than the new minimum for older workers. In view of the fact that teenagers tend to have lower skills, less work experience and fewer family responsibilities than older workers, this duo system can be justified.

—Aim for universal minimum wage coverage by, say, 1975 — which would mean including for the first time precisely those workers who most need the protection of a wage floor. Today, an estimated 2 million are working full - time below $1.60 an hour —And most fundamental, most important, change our attitudes so that we are dedicated to giving the working poor the guidance, training and self confidence — as well as the pay — to climb out of poverty forever.

Ducks (People, Too) Had Dry, Dry, Dry Time in August

August was a bad month for ducks as far as the weather was concerned. The rains just didn't come until the last day of the month when 1.66 inches poured on parched fields and burned-out lawns.

Only two other days during the month had any measurable precipitation. On Aug. 6 only 0.01 inches were recorded. The next day was only slightly better with 0.29 inches. Neither was particularly encouraging to dried out gardens, farm crops, or ducks, geese and other seagoing wildlife.

Below Normal

The Fox River shriveled, the algae grew and the water department had to invoke sprinkling bans.

But despite all this, the deluge in the Appleton area on Aug. 31 raised the total precipitation to 1.96 inches for the month, still 0.90 inches below normal.

August was a hot month, too. The mean temperature of 72.9 degrees was 2.6 degrees above normal. The maximum temperature was 91 degrees on Aug. 29-30. The minimum of 49 degrees was recorded on Aug. 20. Temperatures were above normal the entire month, according to J. C. Kurtyka, Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

Cooling degree days totaled 246 in Appleton during August. This compares to a normal of 147 and a 1968 total of 192. The 1969 cumulative total through August is 452, 46 above normal.

September Normals

Appleton wind prevailed from the southwest at an average speed of 7.5 m.p.h. The peak gust of 56 m.p.h. occurred on Aug. 7 during the only thunderstorm reported during August. August was a very clear month with 17 clear days, 13 partly-cloudy days and one cloudy day.

September normals for Appleton include 3.18 inches of precipitation and a mean temperature of 61.5 degrees. The daily mean temperature can be expected to decreased from 68 degrees at the beginning of September to 5 at the end.

Daily hours of daylight will decrease from 14 hours, 14 minutes at the beginning of September to 12 hours, 47 minutes at the end, a decrease of 1 hour, 27 minutes.

The United States Weather Bureau is forecasting above normal temperatures and above normal precipitation.

Muskie Plans Fund-Raising Talk in State

MADISON (AP) — Edmund Muskie of Maine, the Democratic Party's nominee for vice president in the last election, will make a major fund-raising address in Wisconsin Oct. 4, state party officials announced Monday

Muskie, regarded as a possible presidential nominee in 1972, will speak at the party's annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner, which is a $100-a-plate affair.

Joseph W. Checota, Madison, treasurer of the state party, announced Muskie's appearance and said the senator is one of Congress' leading experts on conservation, urban problems, federal-state-local relations and foreign affairs.

Muskie was elected to the Maine state legislature in 1946 and won the governorship in the predominantly Republican state in 1954. He was governor until 1959, when he took his U. S. Senate seat.

Appleton Man to Receive Governor's Award in Arts

Gov. Warren P. Knowles has announced that Phillip J. Sealy, vice president of Fox River Mills, Inc, will receive the Governor's Award in the Arts for 1969. He is one of five individuals and two organizations receiving the awards.

Sealy, who resides at 830 E. Pacific St., is being honored for his work in organizing a broad arts and crafts program for Indians under the Menominee Trails Corporation.

He is president, director and committee member of numerous organizations promoting the arts, including the Appleton Gallery of Arts. In his work with the Menominee Trails Corporation, he recruited other artists, conducted research for tribal designs, started an art library and directed a teachers' training program.

Others receiving awards are Warrington Colescott, Aaron Bohrod and James Watrous, all of the University of Wisconsin, and Mrs Ronald A. Dougan, Beloit. The Penninsula Arts Association, Ephraim, and the Wisconsin Ballet Company, Madison, will also receive awards.

Selection of recipients is made by the Wisconsin Arts Foundation and Council.

Pair Injured in Two-Car Accident

Defective brakes apparently caused a two-car collision in the 300 block of N Richmond Street about 7:30 p.m. Sunday which injured two persons.

Taken by Gold Cross Ambulance to Theda Clark Hospital in Neenah was Mabel E. LaCrosse, 403 Pine St., Menasha, who complained of neck pains. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Joseph.

Suffering a head bump was Susan Wilharms, 16, 2242 W. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton, a passenger in a car driven by Dennis A. Drephal, 1136 W. Hawes St., Appleton.
